Vital Cargo On Tap

By TERRY IZZARD

Victoria today provided Russia with a priceless weapon. Loading the weapon aboard the Russian ship Evensk began at Ogden Point this afternoon.

Without the vital cargo, the entire Russian fishing fleet, presently in the Gulf of Alaska, would be forced to sail home. Yet there was no secrecy surrounding the 345-foot Soviet vessel as workmen scurried around her waiting holds.

For the cargo is pure, unadulterated, chlorinated WATER.

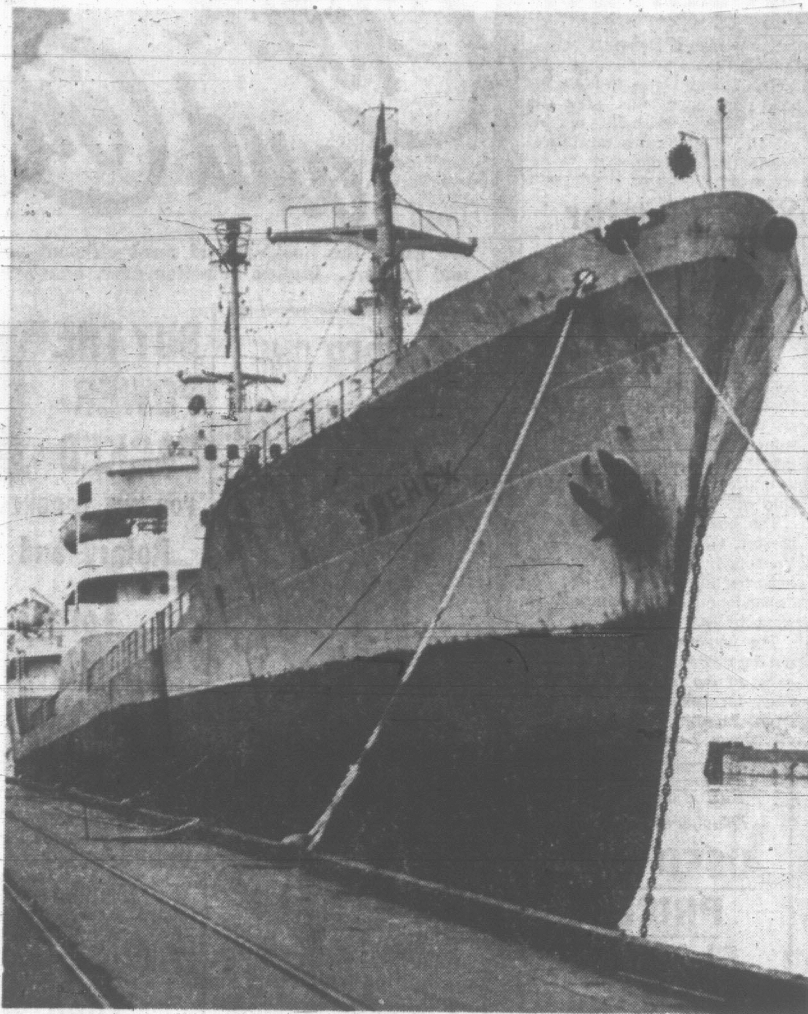

The water is more important than all the nuclear weapons in the world to the simple, peace-loving fishermen.

Without it they would be unable to stay at sea for several months of the year during the height of the season.

The tanker Evensk meets all the drinking needs of the fleet.

During the next two or three days, some 4,000 tons of Sooke Lake water will dribble into the ship's four tanks at the rate of 50 tons an hour.

For every ton, the Russian government will owe Canadian National Railways, who are supervising loading, 25 cents.

Nkrumah Named Ruler of Guinea

President Surrenders Position

ADDIS ABABA (UPI)—President Sekou Toure of Guinea resigned and turned his office over to Kwame Nkrumah who was ousted last week as president of Ghana, a Guinean diplomat announced today.

He said Nkrumah would be "president" of both countries.

The announcement was made by Guinea's roving ambassador Diallo Abdoulaye who walked out of a conference of foreign ministers of the Organization for African Unity (OAU), in protest against the presence there of the new revolutionary government of Ghana. Mali and Tanzania also walked out.

Nkrumah once before had tried to link his former British colony with the former French colony 350 miles away on the southern coast of the African bulge, but the plan ran into a storm of opposition and was abandoned. The plan was for eventual African unity with Nkrumah as the leader.

Observers knew of no precedent for Toure's reported action in which the ruler of one country gives up his rule to the deposed president of another. But he had been regarded as Nkrumah's disciple and only Wednesday staged a mass rally in

BANDITS NAB ARMORED CAR AND $65,000

BROOKLINE, Mass. (UPI)—An armored truck carrying about $65,000 was stolen today outside a supermarket.

Police were warned to use caution trying to stop the truck, owned by Kelly's Detective Service Inc. of Fall River, since it contained carbines, pistols and ammunition.

Police said the two guards were inside the shopping centre only about two minutes when the theft took place. They were dropping off bags of small bills and change and were picking up receipts.

TSARAPKIN ... our treaty better

REDS CHARGE:

Many Loopholes In U.S. Draft

GENEVA (CP)—The Soviet Union today rejected as "unacceptable" an American proposal to halt the spread of nuclear weapons.

Soviet delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin served notice to the 17-nation disarmament conference that the Soviet government considers its own draft proposal the only basis for an eventual agreement.

Tsarapkin charged the American draft treaty "lacks several important obligations" and said it contains these loopholes:

—It carries no obligation not to give to non-nuclear states the right of participation in the ownership, disposal and use of nuclear weapons.

—It "lacks a provision that a party to the treaty, possessing nuclear weapons, should not transfer these weapons ... to units of the armed forces ... of states not possessing nuclear weapons."

"There is no important provision that non-nuclear powers should refrain from receiving nuclear weapons in any form, directly or indirectly."

Hussein Khalaf, representing the non-aligned United Arab Republic, said a non-proliferation treaty should contain a separate article under which nuclear powers would assume a legal obligation to limit, reduce and eliminate existing arms.

The Times presents today on Page 5 a large-scale map of North and South Viet Nam and the neighboring countries of Cambodia, Laos, Thailand and China—the crucial area of confrontation between the United States and Communism in southeast Asia.

The map details the provinces and major population centres of South Viet Nam to help readers interpret the news reports of the fighting in that country.

Canadian delegate E. L. M. Burns agreed with the view that negotiations on some renunciation of armament by the nuclear powers might run parallel with a non-proliferation treaty. But ratification of the latter should not be tied to simultaneous results from the former, he added.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A federal grand jury today returned contempt of congress citations against seven members of the Ku Klux Klan, including Imperial Wizard Robert Shelton.

PROTECTING PRINCESS?

Soviet Liner Ringed By Hong Kong Police

HONG KONG (AP)—Japanese passengers flocked ashore today from the first Soviet cruise liner to visit Hong Kong, but authorities kept the Russian captain and his crew aboard.

"I suppose it is because Princess Margaret is here," the skipper said.

As a police launch circled the ship, Capt. Nikolai Ambrosov angrily told reporters: "That is a waste of time. It would be better if those men were looking after your princess."

Princess Margaret and her husband, Lord Snowdon, are on a week's visit to the colony.

The Soviet liner Uritski arrived Wednesday night for a three-day stay. Aboard were 276 Japanese tourists, a crew of 155 and Ambrosov.

Immigration Director W. E. Collard refused to tell reporters why Ambrosov and his crew were kept aboard. But a spokesman for the government information service indicated that authorities had not been notified of the liner's arrival far enough in advance to investigate and clear the Soviet personnel.

Rhodesia Fighting Reported

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (Reuters)—A Rhodesian, Negro nationalist organization claimed today bloody guerrilla fighting is taking place in various parts of Rhodesia, which is ruled by a white-minority government.

The organization is the Zimbabwe African Peoples Union, one of two rival Rhodesian Negro nationalist groups. The other is the Zimbabwe African National Union.

The Peoples Union's Dar es Salaam office claimed Thursday that 500 Negroes who fled an "orgue of destruction" by Rhodesian troops in Nkai reserve in western Rhodesia had formed guerrilla bands and in turn driven nearly all the white farmers from the area.

It said Rhodesian troops burned down hundreds of huts and seized livestock in Nkai reserve and Negroes who fled into the bush have since destroyed crops and property of white settlers, forcing all but a few to leave.

SUBANDRIO

University Closed

SINGAPORE (UPI)—Indonesian authorities closed down the University of Indonesia today and put the campus under military control.

The new crackdown was the second move in five days in efforts to halt Indonesia's anti-Communist students from defying President Sukarno.

JAKARTA (Reuters)—Troops with fixed bayonets today forced 2,000 demonstrating school children away from Indonesia's foreign ministry as they shouted demands for the resignation of Dr. Subandrio.

Carrying effigies of the foreign minister, school children tried to enter the building where they were met by armed troops of the Jakarta garrison and police.

The troops drove them into a square 50 yards away, and then surrounded them with bayonets fixed and machine-guns at the ready.

The children shouted "Hang Subandrio," and "Subandrio Peking dog."

WANT COMMUNISTS BANNED

About 250 yards from the foreign ministry, 1,500 other school children demanded the resignation of Education Minister Sumardjo and a ban on the Indonesian Communist party.

Across the street, about 1,500 children were prevented by armed troops from entering the electricity ministry building where they demanded the resignation of the minister, Setiadi.

Sumardjo, dismissed from a minor official post in the anti-Communist purge after the abortive coup against President Sukarno Oct. 1, was given a ministerial appointment in a cabinet reshuffle last week.

Meanwhile, the minister for higher learning, Johannes Leimena, today closed the University of Indonesia, scene of large-scale demonstrations by the outlawed anti-Communist Indonesian Students Action Command (KAMI).

Sulking Sultan Blamed on Margaret

LONDON (AP)—The Daily Mirror says a deal to supply British arms to Saudi Arabia is in danger through what is described as a diplomatic blunder involving Princess Margaret.

The paper says Emir Sultan, the man who signed the arms deal for Saudi Arabia, had to travel economy class when the Princess and the Earl of Snowdon flew to Hong Kong Monday. The royal party took over the entire first-class compartment.

"Saudis with him were stunned and angered when there was no invitation to the king's brother," the Mirror says. "Emir Sultan stepped off at Beirut, Lebanon, with no acknowledgement from the royal party."

He is a brother of King Faisal.

Britain recently contracted to supply the greater part of a new British-American air defence system for Saudi Arabia believed to cost around $300,000,000.

and special constable for the RCMP, was convicted in police court Tuesday of possessing liquor off a reserve. He was fined $10 or one day.

Ear was instrumental in obtaining convictions against several hotel operators in the Smoky Lake, Alta., area for selling liquor to treaty Indians.

Hotel manager John Kinash of Smoky Lake, convicted on evidence obtained by Ear on such a charge, turned the tables on police. Under the Indian Act he charged Ear with possession of liquor off a reserve.

Ear purchased beer last November in Mr. Kinash's hotel and took it to a waiting police car.

Asst. Commissioner Tony Wonnacott, commanding officer of the RCMP's K Division here, said: "I can't see how the conviction can stand. We'll ask for an appeal."

Crown attorney J. A. Blonsky of Two Hills said the decision has far-reaching effects.

The hotelmen had argued it was difficult to tell an Indian from a Metis and as a result of the convictions many hotels refused to serve Metis.

Treaty Indians are not allowed to drink liquor off reserves but there are no such restrictions against Metis.

COMMITTEE NEEDED

Joint Library Plan Urged As Project

Central Saanich could solve its centennial project problems by joining forces with the Sidney and North Saanich centennial committee on a library project, Coun. Phillip Benn suggested Wednesday.

At present, the municipality has neither a project nor a centennial committee. The entire committee resigned several weeks ago when its proposed project, a $36,000 outdoor swimming pool, was turned down by council.

Coun. Benn said he feels sure many Central Saanich residents would wish to use the facilities of the Vancouver Island regional library at Sidney.

Central Saanich contributes to Victoria library. Bookmobile service is provided.

"I'm sure they (the Sidney-North Saanich committee) could use our centennial funds," Coun. Benn added.

EARLY DATE

He also suggested Central Saanich recreation commission study the centennial project problem and come up with a proposal.

Coun. Benn said he will outline his two suggestions to council's own centennial committee at an early date.

Vancouver Island regional library will open a branch in Sidney at the end of this month. It will serve the community until an $18,000 library building is completed next year. North Saanich residents will also be offered bookmobile service.

TRAIN

John, N.B., and the lakeshore commuter trains at Montreal.

"Other passenger services are under study by the company," the brief said.

The two executives said accusations that the CPR has deliberately downgraded its passenger trains to discourage traffic are entirely without foundation.

"Trains were discontinued only after the travelling public had demonstrated an unmistakable preference for other modes of transportation," the brief stated.

LOW FARES DIDN'T HELP

Low fares had been unsuccessful in solving the problem of deficits. Although they had attracted more volume, the added revenues were insufficient to overcome the increased costs and the deficit only worsened.

"These lower fares have succeeded in diverting traffic from other media that could handle it profitably, thus undermining the financial stability of both forms of transportation."

"The experience of the company has been that people will use passenger train service when the fares are abnormally low but they cannot be attracted at fare levels that will provide for the cost of service."

This section of the brief was apparently a reply to recent criticisms of CPR fare increases that in many cases put the railway's rates substantially above those charged by the publicly-owned CNR.

LABOR COSTS RISE

The railway's figures on passenger deficits showed that between 1964 and 1965 revenues dropped by $4,500,000 to $40,300,000 while expenses dropped by $6,000,000 to $46,300,000.

Increasing labor costs had offset most of the savings that had been achieved in recent years through changes in service.

Looking to the future, the CPR said it is impossible to forecast a resurgence of effective demand for passenger rail service.

The brief referred to new high-speed trains operating in Japan and under study in the United States but noted that in both cases the services are designed for heavy concentrations of population.

There was no area of Canada with the kind of population density required for such a service.

NKRUMAH

SOLE SOURCE

The sole source for the report of Toure's resignation and the ascendancy of Nkrumah came from Aboulouye. He told newsmen "President Toure has done this not for the sake of Nkrumah personally but for the sake of the people of Guinea."

"Nkrumah can now be described as the president of Ghana and Guinea," Aboulouye said.

Guinea until 1958 was the territory of French Guinea in French West Africa, separated from Ghana by the Ivory Coast.

Ghana has a population of 7.3 million, Guinea, 3.3 million.

Guinea was one of the richest French colonies with huge exports of aluminum, diamonds, iron ore and fruit but with independence it plunged into one economic crisis after another.

African experts said if Toure's reported decision to hand over the Guinea presidency to Nkrumah is based on the so-called union between the two countries it would be just a grandiose gesture, with no constitutional authority.

SPILLING LOGS

Cautious Driver Nearly Crushed

A motorist who stopped to let a logging truck pass him was nearly crushed by falling logs in Sooke Wednesday.

James Moore, 3243 Henderson, was at the intersection of Sooke River Rd. and Sooke Rd. when he pulled to the side to make room for the huge truck.

But as the truck made the sharp turn, its connection between the cab and trailer snapped, spilling logs on the road.

Two of them flattened the rear of Mr. Moore's car and damaged it about $1,000.

No one was hurt. Driver of the truck was Ronald D. Blundell of Duncan.

FOUR INJURED

Four other persons escaped injury in the Sooke area Wednesday when a car driven by Frank Wilson of Sooke went off Phillips Rd.

The auto hit a soft shoulder, police said, and rolled down a 50-foot embankment.

Passengers, Mr. Wilson's two- and four-year-old children and Raymond Warburton, also of Sooke, were unscathed.

A spectacular two-car collision at Bay and Shelbourne sent two drivers to Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Mrs. Hilda Becker, 1023 Esquimalt Rd., is reported in satisfactory condition with head and chest injuries.

She was driving south on Shelbourne when in collision with an auto-driven west on Bay by Steve Yarmie, 27, of 3315 Keates, police said.

The woman lost control of her vehicle after the impact and took out 40 feet of fencing on

Ship Master

Criticized

By Board

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A U.S. coast guard board of inquiry declared today that the master of the Yarmouth Castle and some of his officers failed to take "firm and positive action" in battling the fire that sank the ship with a loss of 90 lives.

The board also criticized the master, Greek-born Capt. Byron Voutsinas, for leaving the ship, accusing him of negligence and "abandonment of command responsibility."

The 38-year-old vessel, flying under Panamanian registry, sank off the coast of Nassau on Nov. 13, 1965. It had departed from Miami for a cruise of Caribbean ports.

PULL THE PLUG, SAYS BENNETT

Premier Bennett Wednesday told the five federal Social Credit MPs to pull the plug on the Liberal government if it doesn't raise the old age pension to $100.

The premier, considered by many to have reassessed himself as the mastermind of the national Social Credit parliamentary group, switched dramatically and unexpectedly in his position that Robert Thompson was right in voting to keep the government in office to avoid an early election.

"I don't speak for them (the Social Credit MPs) but if I was in the House of Commons on budget day if that $100 isn't there for the old age pensioners the Social Crediters should vote them out of office," he told the legislature.

"They kept them in office only to give them an opportunity to perform and if they don't perform I hope they have the intestinal fortitude to throw them out."

The premier's gratuitous advice was prompted by an opposition jibe at the Social Credit for Liberal government in Ottawa in contrast to Premier Bennett's criticism of the federal government.

The premier has met the same jibe almost daily through this session and, up until Wednesday, has staunchly maintained it was statesmanlike for the federal Socials to keep the government in power rather than precipitate another unwanted national election.

Closer and Closer

Gibson's Blasts All Election Talk

By JOHN MIKA

Times Legislative Reporter. Premier Bennett Wednesday neatly turned back the violent outburst by Gordon Gibson (N—North Vancouver) in which he had accused the premier of using Hitler, Capone, Huey Long and Castro tactics.

The premier pointed out that Mr. Gibson had contrasted his feelings this year with those of last year when he praised the premier extravagantly.

Mr. Bennett also recalled that Mr. Gibson himself in his 1965 speech told the House that he would be bound to stop praising and start criticizing the premier in the event of an election campaign.

"That's the reason and the only reason that he criticized me the other day — not because he believes in it but because he fears an election!" cried the premier triumphantly.

"He was telling the truth a year ago and, I won't say he wasn't telling the truth the other day, but he was politicking."

The "dip of confidence" will be made by U.S. Ambassador Angier Biddle Duke and Spanish Information Minister Manuel Fraga Iribarne.

Liberties Not Violated, Says Bonner

Attorney-general Robert Bonner Wednesday argued that his proposed Motor Vehicle Act amendments do not violate civil liberties.

He took the stand in seeking second reading for the bill which includes provisions allowing police to make 24-hour "roadside suspensions" of driving licences and requiring police stickers on cars needing accident repairs.

Alex Macdonald (NDP — Vancouver-East) adjourned debate before the bill could receive second reading because he said the civil liberties aspects needed close scrutiny.

"A licence is not a right but a privilege to be obtained upon examination," said Mr. Bonner. He said roadside suspension of drivers who have been drinking involves only the question of temporary driving competence.

TRAIN POLICE

He said the new provisions would not be implemented for some time because police would have to be trained as to "the limits to which they may use" the legislation and also would have to be trained and equipped with breathalyzers.

"I think no one is more conscious of the need... of civil liberty than I," said Mr. Bonner in referring to some public criticism of the bill.

"Frankly, I am particularly sensitive about this subject and it is one of the reasons that I have objected to the use of breathalyzers for the purpose of adducing evidence" (as is done in Saskatchewan).

"This legislation is a question of physical competence (to drive) and not of civil liberty."

Mr. Bonner said in the past couple years there has been an alarming increase in the number of hit-run accidents which probably are "tied-in" with the increase in liquor consumption.

"Therefore we have moved with some regret with legislation against that trend in regard to reportable accidents and the repair of damage."

FEDERAL PROBE GETS SUPPORT

'Powerful Crime Cartels' Spreading, Warns PC Chief

MONTREAL (UPI) — Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker sounded a grim warning Wednesday night "powerful crime cartels" are spreading in Canada and urged the establishment of a powerful federal crime commission to permanently choke them off.

Diefenbaker, in a talk to McGill University undergraduate law students, declared concern for "infiltration of powerful criminals described as crime-lords into Canada."

"We want them to know Canada will not be a fertile field for their underworld activities," he emphasized.

"National and international crime is going on at a rate never before seen in Canada," the Conservative leader asserted. "We must dare not ever allow justice to go on a holiday, or see justice go unneeded."

GANGLAND MURDERS

Diefenbaker, himself a long-time attorney who conducted a practice in his home community of Prince Albert, Sask., verbally hammered home the "vital,

DIEFENBAKER... immediate need immediate need" for a proposed crime commission by noting several "gangland-style" murders occurring in Quebec province recently.

Among them he cited the mystery slaying of Montreal attorney-moneylender Francois

Payette, whose bullet-riddled corpse was discovered crumpled in the trunk of his car Feb. 22. Police indicated Payette may have been taken for a ride, mobster fashion and shot to death.

STATE OF EMERGENCY

(Prime Minister Lester Pearson also has supported the measure, and Quebec Justice Minister Claude Wagner recently warned organized crime has culminated a "state of emergency" in Quebec province. The discussion is scheduled to continue at a cabinet meeting today.)

Diefenbaker told the students he will take part in a parliamentary debate concerning abolishment of capital punishment in Canada, a hotly contested issue.

Goldberg Stalks Out Of British Studios

GOLDBERG... didn't like waiting

LONDON (UPI) — Arthur J. Goldberg, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, stalked angrily out of the British Broadcasting Corporation studios Wednesday night because he was kept waiting.

A U.S. embassy spokesman said today it was all a "misunderstanding" involving the fact Goldberg was told he would appear first on the program and then was informed he would be last.

Some lessons we've learned about making small cars for Canadians.

Lesson 1. Build them in Canada. That's where the rugged weather is.

Lesson 2. Watch your paint. Use 5 separate coats of Canadian primer and paint, after rustproofing the bodies 6 times.

Lesson 3. Offer something unusual. Like a small car automatic for around $2,000.

Lesson 4. Make it good-looking. A small car doesn't have to be ugly to be well engineered.

Lesson 5. Give it a great independent suspension. Canadians have a knack for leaving the beaten path.

Lesson 6. Make the seats convertible to beds. A lot of Canadians are campers.

Lesson 7. Put in 4-wheel disc brakes, and offer a 4-speed synchromesh gearbox. Canadians are a sporty group.

Lesson 8. Keep at least a million dollars worth of spare parts. And keep them available everywhere in Canada.

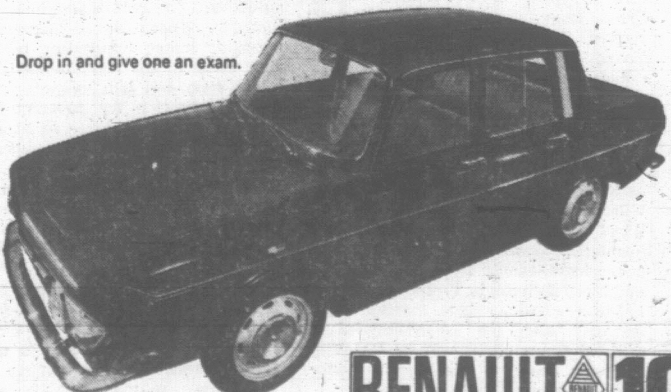

Lesson 9. Put in an engine that likes to be driven hard. Canadian roads are long and Canadians like to move along.

Lesson 10. Install a heater as large as most domestic big cars. Put in a booster fan and outlets for back seat passengers. Canada is a frosty country.

Lesson 11. Keep your prices down and your engineering quality up. There's a lot of competition.

These are lessons we've learned in Canada. This is the Renault 10 Major.

Divided Opinions

THE UNITED STATES CONGRESS this week overwhelmingly approved President Johnson's bill to increase appropriations for the armed forces—in effect to continue the build-up of the Viet Nam War.

But it was significant that about 75 members of the House of Representatives and 20 members of the Senate—most of them members of the president's own party—expressed grave reservations about the bill and made it clear they were not voting a mandate for a bigger war in Viet Nam. When the roll-call came only four representatives and two senators voted against the bill, but the measure of disquiet over American policy in Asia had been registered.

These dissenters, it should be made clear, are not the people who join in the "get out of Viet Nam" rallies, who want the United States to abandon the struggle to contain Chinese Communism. Instead they feel that they cannot support the president's war because they have not been adequately convinced that the United States has moved wisely and correctly in its overall policy in Southeast Asia. They deeply resent the use which has been made of the "blank cheque" drawn on Congress by the president in 1964 which has brought the country into a state of war but denied to Congress its right to initiate such a serious move.

One major problem faced by the president is to spell out in much more definite terms just what the American commitment in Viet Nam is. His task has not been made easier by the speech made by South Vietnamese Premier Ky in which the latter declared that his aim is to continue to fight until North Viet Nam is liberated by the South.

This statement by Marshal Ky, made following last month's Honolulu conference with Mr. Johnson, obviously presumes that American forces would back this objective although it is directly at odds with what the president has stated as his policy. It is this kind of situation which makes many observers nervous. Is the United States tied to an ally which it cannot control?

What many members of Congress seem to want—including some who voted for the armed forces bill—is for President Johnson to limit the risks in Viet Nam, to avoid the kind of escalation of the war which would draw American strength deeper into Asia, where it could be drained dry by superior force of numbers. However, although the president speaks very cautiously about the future of the war the escalation continues—with another 35,000 men committed yesterday—and there is no indication of where it will end.

A Stimulating Prospect

ANYONE WHO IMAGINED that the Centennial Square improvement and the Bastion Square project were about as far as the city should go in creating a better environment for residents and visitors will have received a sharp correction in yesterday's hint of a vast new commercial development proposal.

The suggested multi-million-dollar plan for a high-rise department store, office and apartment complex in the Douglas-Broad-View Streets area would constitute a badly needed rehabilitation program for the downtown section. It would provide a dramatic business focus for that part of the city, balancing the other concentrations near Centennial Square and farther north at the shopping plazas.

It is not exaggerating to say that it is to be hoped that the company concerned will find it possible to translate the concept into a reality in the not too distant future, such a plan of construction would rejuvenate the business life of the city centre. But it is to be noted that it apparently would be dependent on city co-operation in establishing pedestrian malls. These have long been planned for parts of View and Broad Street, but the plans appear to have been shelved for some months now. The new concept would tie in nicely with the nearby Bastion Square reconstruction and it is to be hoped that city council and its planning officials will give an open-minded reception to proposals for malls and other improvements.

One thing is clear: we have taken excellent steps forward with the Centennial and Bastion programs, but our journey to an attractive and stimulating city environment has barely begun. Private property developments should rightly be a part of any improvement plans, but the city itself must create a favorable climate for such proposals and then see that worthy projects get the public support they deserve.

Those 'Loud-Mouthed Amateurs'

THE SENIOR EXECUTIVE OF one of Canada's biggest automobile corporations has chosen an unusual way to meet public demand for more built-in safety in modern cars.

He speaks of the "present rash of loud-mouthed amateurs who are sounding off about car safety."

The senior executive explains—as automobile interests have been explaining to American congressional committees without convincing them—what the industry is trying to do to increase safety. These efforts, he implies, are not receiving the appreciation they should.

"Now, all of a sudden," he adds, "automobile safety has zoomed into the public's attention."

The "zoom" has not been so sudden. The campaign to increase safety factors in the construction of automobiles has been going on for some time. The increased emphasis on the subject stems from the growing realization on the part of the public that it cannot condone, or take for granted, the mounting toll of slaughter on the roads. Hence "the present rash of loud-mouthed amateurs." These are the people who drive cars, who also buy them, and who are among those who are injured in highway accidents. They are not impressed by the industry's claims of dedication to the principles of safety in manufacture.

Of course, as the automotive spokesman points out, most highway accidents are attributable to human failure. But if the results of those mishaps could have been made less severe by built-in safety factors, then there appears to be every reason why amateurs should be encouraged in loud-mouthed demands for improvements that can be effected in manufacture.

Just conceivably such improvements might be no more costly than built-in stereo tapes for a musical ride—and might save a life.

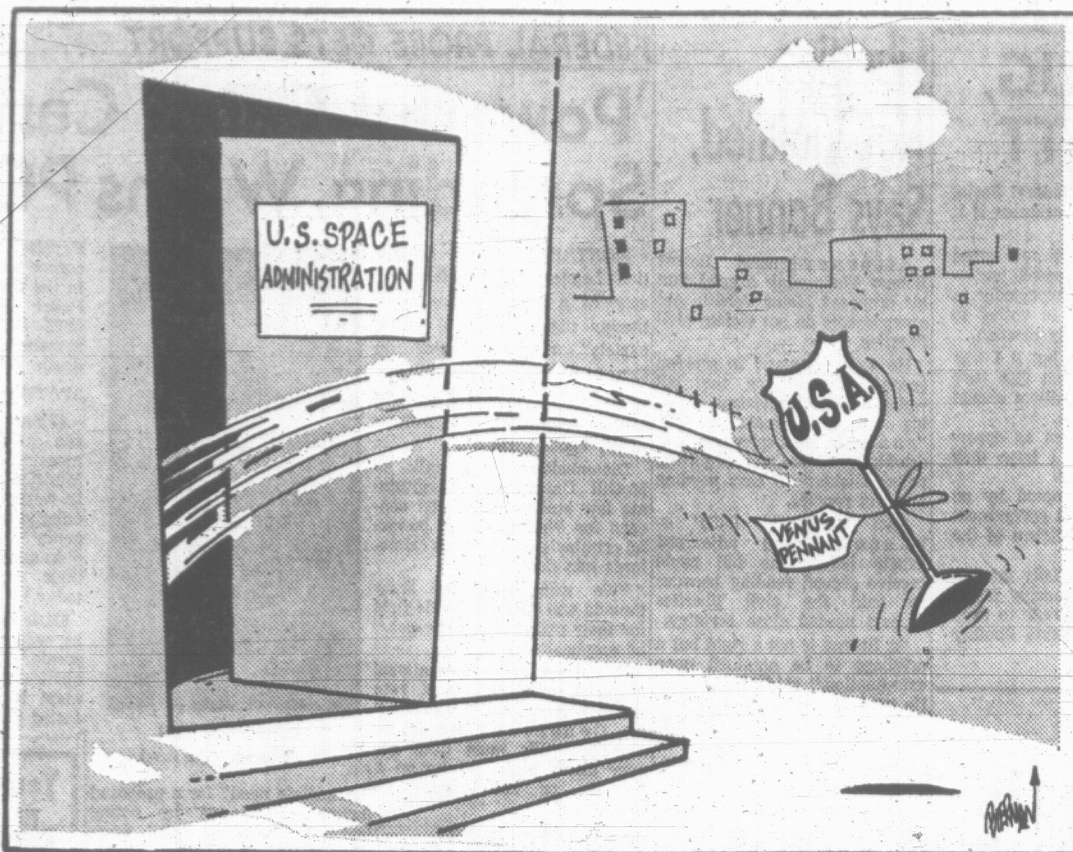

A Sort of 007ski

COL. RUDOLPH ABEL, Moscow's master spy, suggesting his profession as a possible career for young Russians, has issued a warning to those who may be interested.

"Intelligence," he says, "is not adventure, not a trick, not entertaining trips abroad, but primarily careful and difficult labor. It demands great powers, tension, persistence, will, self-control, serious knowledge, and great skill."

Who are you kidding, Rudy? We've seen the James Bond movies.

FROM WASHINGTON

Mr. Johnson and the Labor of Atlas

WHEN this reporter visited it a year ago Washington still basked in the magic of the Johnsonian consensus. True, there were trouble spots but under a newly-elected leader the United States was broadly united in purpose as in name, more united, perhaps, than it had ever been in modern times. Now all that has changed. The consensus is frayed at the edges and threatens to unravel at the centre. If the change represented only the usual end of a presidential honeymoon it would mean little. In fact, it represents something much larger, deeper and more disturbing.

The American people, as they speak through the great sounding board of their capital, are increasingly divided not only on the Viet Nam war but on their future place in the world. Even amid unexampled prosperity, an agonizing reassessment is quietly under way, compounded of frustration, of friends' ingratitude, of disappointed hopes abroad and unexpected trials at home. As seldom in its history the United States feels deserted and alone.

Therein lie appalling dangers for the world, and especially for the United States' allies, of which Canada is the closest and most vulnerable. No psychologist can hope to analyze the full mind and, more important, the feelings of a diverse and highly emotional nation. But after talking at length to some of its leading figures in government and legislature, I think the basic state of the Union can be simply explained.

Troubled Questioning

A people who twice saved Europe from conquest, who rebuilt it at huge cost, who lately helped to rescue Britain and Canada from bankruptcy, who poured their treasure into poor lands all over the globe, who now stand between millions of human beings and early starvation, whose sons are dying in the jungles of Asia for a cause which they consider just—these people have begun to ask themselves whether the task of leading and supporting the free world is within their means, or within their duty to mankind.

As one of the most influential men in the Congress put it to me: "We don't expect love from foreigners. We don't really want it, because love is a two-sided affair and you must always pay it back. We don't expect much gratitude, either. All we want is a little understanding, a little respect for our motives in spite of our mistakes, and we're not getting even that. So where do we go from here? Maybe you foreigners should be thinking about these things, too, while there's still time."

This prevailing mood of disenchantment may pass later on, the American people being notoriously mercurial, but it is deepening at present and may produce serious consequences for all of us.

Of course it is absurd to say, as some Americans and foreigners do, that the United States, rebuffed by its friends and disappointed by its failures, will retreat some day to its old isolation. No retreat on that scale is possible.

Yet this side of the final nightmare it is quite possible for the United States to turn sour, petulant and intractable.

to abandon its natural generosity and idealism, to reduce its worldwide efforts of foreign aid and, under the pinpricks and the justifiable demands of its friends, to become an unfriendly instead of a friendly giant. Not far down that road the free world would meet a crisis beyond its management, and its enemies would be given their first chance of victory.

Strangely enough—a masterpiece of irony—the most solid and vital fact underpinning the United States' world posture at the moment is its unspoken alliance with communist Russia. Only the two giants' tacit agreement that they can never afford to fight each other has forestalled mankind's suicide long before now.

Severe Strains

But can the alliance endure the strains of the Viet Nam war if it spreads toward China? Even short of a big Asiatic war must the American-Russian rapprochement, the world's best hope, be undermined at the very time when it seemed to be succeeding beyond expectation?

Such is the ultimate question that divides the statesmen and the entire establishment of Washington in two distinct camps, cutting cleanly across party lines.

Again with tantalizing irony, the fear that President Johnson may risk the world's peace, not by will but by miscalculation, is centred in his own party. The unequalled master of consensus finds half the Senate doubtful, in varying degrees, about his policy in Asia and most of the doubters are Democrats.

Not many presidents, perhaps only Lincoln, his idol, have faced anything like the harsh, bewildering decision that Mr. Johnson alone can make.

In two world wars, and in Korea also, the contemporary president had a united people at his back and, behind them, a host of strong, willing allies. It is different today.

Those allies, with few exceptions, are absent and some of them, like France, are hostile. In the test of another big war, if it comes to that, undoubtedly the American people will follow their president and their flag. But in the twilight zone between war and peace, when they are asked to accept something less than outright victory, as they have known it in all previous wars, the people are thinking not only about the crisis area of southeast Asia but far beyond it.

They have begun to see that with all their power they cannot control, and have no wish to control, a demented world. What, then, is their proper and practical role in a situation completely unforeseen and far removed from their earlier assumptions?

This puzzle, though generally blurred in public debate, is the real focus of President Johnson's problems, almost too numerous and heavy for human flesh to bear. Certainly neither he nor any other man can give a quick answer to the puzzle which will answer itself in time, not as he wills but as the free democratic process decides, wisely or unwisely.

Events Govern

At least he knows that the common fate of all his more eminent predecessors has overtaken him already. As Lincoln once said, events much more than his own calculations must govern any president in a time of crisis. And events are not going the way Mr. Johnson had hoped. For the most part they are going in precisely the opposite direction.

He is a domestic leader of proved political genius, above all, a man of peace who had planned a career of social reform, to build a Great Society and share its boundless wealth with humanity. Yet all those plans are imperilled in a tiny, distant nation whose name was hardly known to the average American 10 years ago.

FROM LONDON

Wilson, Personality and Election

TO the surprise of no one, Prime Minister Harold Wilson has called his election. He has done so, moreover, for the same reason that Prime Minister Lester Pearson called his election last November. It is not that Mr. Wilson has been prevented from governing. He has been getting his important legislation through despite the limitations of a three-seat parliamentary majority, just as Mr. Pearson was getting his legislation through with a minority. But like Mr. Pearson before him, Mr. Wilson doesn't like having to govern on a shoestring and has gambled that an election will bring the government back with a healthy majority.

Unlike Mr. Pearson, Mr. Wilson can be expected to win his gamble. This is not merely because the opinion polls have been showing a consistently strong Labor lead over the Conservatives (13 per cent at last count). Nor is it just because the Conservatives have so far failed to find their feet under the leadership of Edward Heath. Nor, indeed, is it because of signs that a growing number of Liberals are tired of kicking a dead horse and have begun to drift over to Labor.

These indications are all important factors in the calculations, of course, but then the message of the Canadian opinion polls and the state of Canada's opposition parties seemed to present the same sort of opportunities when Mr. Pearson decided to take his ill-fated plunge.

Ominous Parallel

The Canadian experience has doubtless shown Mr. Wilson that the opinion polls are especially unreliable, because the one thing they can't take into account beforehand is the effect of the election announcement itself. In this respect, moreover, Mr. Wilson cannot have failed to note another ominous parallel between the British and Canadian situations.

Like Mr. Pearson last autumn, Mr. Wilson cannot plead with any conviction that he was forced to go to the polls. He will dress the election in all sorts of life-or-death issues, of course. But if the Conservatives are on their toes he will not be permitted to conceal the fact that the election was called for the good of the Labor government rather than the good of the country in any direct sense. And, as Mr. Pearson learned, the people don't generally like having to go through all the fuss and expense of an off-year election for reasons that are, at heart, primarily political.

Prime Minister's Appeal

Even allowing for this, however, Mr. Wilson should still be able to pull it off. Why? Because, as the Conservative-leaning Economist has charged and the government-leaning New Statesman has admitted, Britain is in for a presidential-style election. In a manner unprecedented since the ascendancy of Sir Winston Churchill, it will be the prime minister going to the country rather than the party.

"On the Labor side," reports the New Statesman, "there is a great deal of bustling talk about the possible campaign issues, the program so far achieved and the attractive social legislation pending. But whatever the words on the leaflets, MPs know that the win-

To the Editor

Centennial

They came from soft Red Devon, they came from the noisy Tyne, They came from where the "chattering Wyre" fights with the salty brine.

They came from Scottish moorlands, from homes where the peatfires reek,

They came from hilly Derbyshire, with its caverns and its Peak.

They came from grand Snowdonia, where the Welsh songs sound so sweet,

They came from towering Cornish cliffs, where legend and history meet.

They came from green "auld Erin," where fairies and pixies dwell, They came from shire and counties, far more than we've time to tell.

They came to a strange, wild land, where all, if they wished to live, Put their hands to the axe and plough and sought of their best to give.

But it seems that our present leaders think we've lost our spunk and "go", And they want to hire aliens to stage our Centennial show.

Are there none who are able among us our glorious story to tell? Then we need no Centennial Pageant, but only a tolling bell.

—Anonymous.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

The work of the Great Society is being slowed down, the whole financial and economic policy of the United States at home is twisted by the cost of a relatively small war and the threat of a big one. The man of peace is suddenly cast as a war leader. Against all his instincts and experience, he must steel himself to an alien task and the eternal cussedness of things.

His serenity of mind, after a long period of anguished uncertainty and a nightly re-reading of Lincoln's life, is apparent to his intimates and to foreign visitors alike. Not merely in politics but in his innermost soul this man is irrevocably committed to the defence of South Viet Nam and, as he sees it, of the free world. As ardently as his critics he longs for a negotiated peace and places no pre-conditions in its way but to him the thought of retreat without a settlement is simply intolerable, indeed inconceivable.

Example of Strength

History will decide, long hence, whether he has been right or wrong. Meanwhile, whatever his faults may be—his naked egotism, his frequently bruising manners with old friends, his moments of depression and elation, his surges of anger and his fury—he is unquestionably one of the strongest presidents in history, concentrating all power under his own hand, stretching the constitution to its limits and deciding everything for himself. In short, he is the kind of president who must make his life a supreme success or a shattering failure.

The outcome, not yet predictable, will affect no foreign nation as directly as Canada. Either way, all our present Canadian planning is built on assumptions that have recently become much more dubious than our politicians seem to understand. It is built also, I venture to think, on a misjudgment of the American mind.

(First article of a series)

ning factor will be the face on the posters—the face of the prime minister."

The Economist goes much further. Mr. Wilson "has the little world of British politics at his feet. Few men have so outranked their political generation in the skills of the trade as he has done since he became leader of the Labor party in February, 1963." But there is no hint of affection in this tribute, and the Economist rounds out its assessment with the opinion that the prime minister is Britain's "clever little man."

One imagines that Mr. Wilson will manage to bear up under such chilly praise. After all, sheer likability is no longer considered the necessary quality that it once was—as witness the success of the French and American presidents. Moreover, to be fair, the Economist's judgment of Mr. Wilson as a clever little man does credit neither to the man nor to his standing in the country. A clever man in the least flattering sense, perhaps. But a little man, no. Little men don't have political worlds at their feet, either in the figurative or the real sense, and especially not political worlds as experienced and professional as Britain's.

Authoritative Stature

On the contrary, the prime minister's appeal seems to be that he has stature—not global stature, perhaps, and not a charismatic stature. It is a stature that derives from immense personal authority. The British people are aware that Mr. Wilson has demonstrated an unseemly knack for getting behind the right issue at the right moment. Some might even call him slippery. But all that is forgotten the moment he gets to his feet in the House or at a political meeting or when he appears, all ruffled and workaday, on the nation's television screens. At such times Mr. Wilson manages to convey the unmistakable impression that he is the only man in Britain who really belongs at No. 10 Downing Street.

More than Labor's record (such as it is), more than any issue of policy, it is this personal quality of the prime minister's that is expected to make all the difference in the coming election campaign. It may not be the most worthy basis on which to ask the country for a renewed and strengthened government mandate, but it is the best reason the Labor party has—and, even more to the point, it is a better reason than any that the Conservatives seem likely to think of.

Looking Back

From The Times of March 3, 1966:

Police Magistrate Hall was engaged the whole forenoon hearing a case of assault—Ottawa J.S. Mofgan. The litigants are neighbors living in the Foul Bay district. In the one household is a dog, in the other, a cat. The evidence went to show that the dog got after the cat and a stone got after the dog, and the proprietor of the canine got after the owner of the feline and there was a general mix-up in which one of the children of one of the parties got slapped. The case was dismissed.

The Southeast Asian Battleground Where U.S. Meets Chinese Threat

To help readers better understand the news reports of the fighting in Viet Nam, the Times presents this large-scale map of the vital eastern half of the Indo-China peninsula. The map shows the provinces and major cities, towns and villages of South Viet Nam, the main centres of North Viet Nam and the neighboring countries of Laos, Thailand and Cambodia along with major rivers, roads and railways.

Bank Report Expected To Urge New Controls

By PETER C. NEWMAN

OTTAWA—The annual report of the Bank of Canada, due in mid-March, will draw sharp attention to the inflationary forces threatening the Canadian economy.

It's possible that the annual statement of Central Bank governor Louis Rasminsky may go beyond mere warning, and urge the imposition of controls on new capital borrowings as well as a slowdown of the construction industry, particularly in housing.

The idea that inflationary overheating of our economy has become something more than merely a potential danger has been gaining converts in Ottawa during recent weeks, though it's still far from a unanimous verdict. Those who are deeply concerned over inflation point out that wholesale prices are rising (now well above the inflationary peaks of the Korean War) at a time of full employment, and that the U.S. economy is at a similar stretched point, while having to expand its defence budget for the Viet Nam war.

They claim that the spending ambitions of government at all levels are overloading the capacity of the Canadian economy, and that Ottawa must refrain from any new social welfare initiatives, while the provinces and municipalities must cut back some of their construction projects.

The current spurt in government spending is taking place at the same time as private industry is increasing its capital investment by 15 per cent (instead of the forecast 10 per cent) for the second year in a row. Residential construction in 1966 is expected to reach a record of $2.4 billions, while non-residential building, at a forecast $6.8 billions, will be up 12 per cent from 1965.

As might be expected, this hectic economic activity is being accompanied by some tough bargaining from organized labor. The railways are faced with the stiffest demands ever served on them by the non-operating unions; talks have broken off to await conciliation. As a result of the Canada-U.S. auto trade agreement, both the United Auto Workers and United Steel Workers have made wage parity with the U.S. one of their contract aims.

Loans Cut

But the one factor which makes this period of incipient inflation dangerously different is that we no longer have unlimited access to the U.S. money market. Now there are not only limits on borrowing south of the border, but the U.S. bond market is already overloaded while ours, to put it generously, is sick.

The investment guidelines, recently imposed by Washington are having the psychological effect of slowing down what bonds we can sell in the U.S. in spite of the nominal access granted by the Canada-U.S. December agreement. At the same time, the American subsidiaries here are stepping up their bank loans, and that's threatening to push more Canadian firms into the narrowing New York money market.

Opposite View

Not all Ottawa economists subscribe to this gloomy assessment. Dr. O. J. Firestone, now head of the University of Ottawa's department of economics and former economic advisor to C. D. Howe, has been advocating the very opposite point of view, urging the government to pursue growth-oriented fiscal and monetary policies.

"Unduly tight money or higher taxes," he says, "could quickly take the steam out of the economy and transform gentle clouds evident on the economic horizon into a cloud-burst of recession. It would be a serious mistake to try and cut off the boom in the latter stages of an expansion phase."

Holding the middle-ground is John Deutsch, the chairman of the Economic Council of Canada. In his annual report and the speeches he's given since, Deutsch has been urging a balanced approach which would not apply premature brakes on the boom, but not allow it to spiral out of control either.

Bill Considers Alcoholism As Sickness

Recognition of chronic alcoholism as an illness is embodied in an amendment of the Summary Convictions Act, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said Wednesday in the legislature.

If the amendment passes the house it will enable courts to exercise the option, "at the discretion of probation officers, to require a man to undertake a variety of regimens to break him of his chronic alcoholism."

Mr. Bonner was referring to the "profitless cycle" of drunks who go before police magistrates, are sentenced for being intoxicated in a public place, are sent jail, serve their time and return to their haunts to repeat the process.

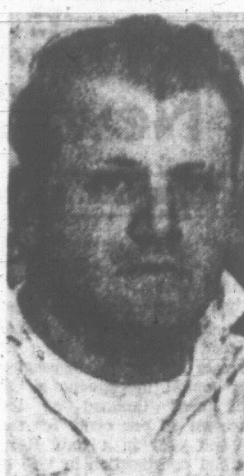

He said such agencies as the Salvation Army, Alcoholics Anonymous and the government's Alouette River alcoholism unit would be employed in passing sentence on convicted persons.

Mr. Bonner said the problem is particularly evident in Vancouver as it affects "the unhappy inhabitants of what is called the Skid Road district."

The bill would permit a "departure from the old conviction and incarceration procedure," the attorney-general said.

Debate was adjourned by Gordon D. Dowling (NDP Burnaby), who said the bill requires "considerable study."

The legislature also gave second reading with little or no discussion to government bills intended to protect the job rights of pregnant female employees, provide eight statutory holidays for most workers and improve the Factories Act.

ROBBERS 'KNEW WHAT THEY WERE DOING'

Finger Print Found In Stolen Truck

WINNIPEG (CP)—The gang that staged Tuesday's $450,000 gold theft from the Winnipeg International Airport may have provided police with a lead—a fingerprint left in the getaway truck.

"We found a latent print in the truck and if its worth it, we'll send it to Ottawa for identification," Police Chief George Maltby of the Greater Winnipeg city of St. James said Wednesday night.

Two men, driving a stolen Air Canada panel truck and dressed in standard ramp crew clothing, whisked away the gold shipment in five minutes.

"I wasn't at all suspicious," said Glen Shrimpton, 34, one of three men who helped unload the gold from the DC-3 aircraft after it landed at the airport Tuesday night from the northwestern Ontario mining community of Red Lake.

"We joked about the weather and the weight of the boxes—just making every-day small talk. They definitely knew what they were doing," said Shrimpton who was in charge of removing the gold from the cargo compartment of the aircraft.

HEADED FOR MINT
The shipment was going from Red Lake to the mint in Ottawa. It was to have been transhipped to Ottawa via Air Canada.

The TransAir freight crew said the shipment—12 gold bars individually packaged in bonded and sealed wooden cases—were being removed from the aircraft when the two men arrived.

Everybody got busy loading the gold into the truck after the necessary freight bills were signed and "that was when the gold was last seen," said a TransAir spokesman.

A few hours later the truck was found empty about half a mile south of the terminal building, but still on department of transport property.

The truck was taken to the St. James police garage two miles away where detectives began a search for clues that lasted well into the night.

QUESTION EMPLOYEES
Chief Maltby said employees "at or near" the airport are being questioned around the clock by members of his force and RCMP officers. The RCMP has a small detachment at the terminal.

The "declared value" of the shipment shown on the freight bill was $207,948. It was filled out by the two companies involved, Campbell (Red Lake) Mines Ltd., and Madsen (Red Lake) Gold Mines Ltd.

Later, however, officials of the two companies, increased the value to a total of $383,000, or $113,000 for five and $270,000 for the other seven gold bars.

Still later, a police spokesman revised the total to $450,000 for the whole lot, without providing a specific breakdown.

Company to 'Protect' Quintuplets

EAST LONDON (Reuters)—A company has been formed to "promote and protect the interests" of South Africa's six-day-old quintuplets and a contract has been signed with their illiterate father, the East London English-language Daily Dispatch says.

The contract vests in the company all television, newsreel, picture, publicity, and advertising commercial rights relating to the whole family—with the family to get not less than half the net proceeds.

Chairman of the company is I. D. Ross-Thompson, managing director of The Dispatch.

East London City Council has already given the quint's father, Tafini Mtukutse, 42, a rent-free four-room house. Mtukutse has been working at East London power station for eight rand ($11.20) a week.

The quint's and their mother are reported doing well in hospital here.

$700 Million LBJ Program For Safety on Highways

By CHARLES C. CAIN

DETROIT (AP)—Leaders of the U.S. auto industry breathed a sigh of relief today after getting their first look at President Johnson's long-awaited traffic safety program.

"This is a reasonable proposal and we can live with it," said one industry source. He, along with others in the industry who discussed the program, declined use of his name.

The president's 17-page proposal sent to Congress Wednesday called for a $700,000,000, six-year program to arrest what he called "carnage on the highways."

Officials from all four major U.S. auto makers attended a Washington briefing session held by Commerce Secretary John T. Connor Wednesday in advance of public announcement of the Johnson message.

Among them were James Roche, president of General Motors; Lynn A. Townsend, president of Chrysler; Richard E. Cross, chairman of American Motors and John A. Bugas, vice-president of Ford Motor Co.

The auto industry had known for several months that President Johnson, concerned over the nation's 49,000 traffic fatalities last year, was going to add his voice to the cause of auto safety.

Some industry leaders had expressed fears federal intervention in the safety program would result in government controls of the auto business.

GM President Roche, for example, said recently: "Regulation would have a severe and adverse effect on our business. It would substitute rigidity for flexibility, bureaucratic approval for public approval."

Senator Abraham Ribicoff (Dem. Conn.), whose subcommittee has held numerous hearings on auto safety, said it would take a year to get the Johnson message put into effect by law.

He called the Johnson proposal a major victory for advocates of auto safety but said that five years could elapse and 50,000,000 cars could be built before auto safety standards take effect.

The general feeling was, however, that the auto companies—if they do have such a five-year grace period—would see that safety ideas were put into use before the federal government made up their minds for them. In brief, the Johnson message called for:

—An authorization, but not a requirement, to the commerce secretary to determine safety criteria for all vehicles.

—An increase in federal grants to states for highway safety projects.

—An expansion of the federal government's highway safety research efforts, including a national highway safety research and test centre.

The timetable provided that if the industry does not adopt voluntary safety standards for motor vehicles within two years after the commerce secretary has suggested them, the secretary then could prescribe mandatory standards which would take effect two years later.

Laurentide Cuts Dividend Rate

VANCOUVER (CP)—Sharply reduced per share earnings and a reduction in the dividend rate were announced Wednesday by Laurentide Financial Corp. Ltd.

The big Canadian finance company, with offices in Canada, the United States and Europe, blamed "sharply increased money costs and difficult industry conditions" for the reductions.

The board of directors also announced the appointment of Maurice F. Strong, president of Power Corp. of Canada Ltd., as chairman. Power Corp. is a major shareholder in Laurentide.

Net income for the six months

ended Dec. 31, 1965, was $1,700,882 or 38 cents per share, compared to $1,855,604 or 73 cents in the corresponding period of 1964, said president Peter Paul Saunders.

A quarterly dividend of 10 cents per common share was declared. The dividend in the previous quarter was 20 cents. Saunders said the reduction in the dividend rate was "the prudent course to follow in light of the first six months earnings and the probability of continued high money costs in the foreseeable future."

Striking Truckers Get Offer

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Motor Transport Industrial Relations Bureau announced Tuesday it has presented a "complete package settlement proposal" to the Independent Teamsters Union and provincial labor officers.

A bureau spokesman said the proposal, endorsed by the 55 companies represented by the bureau, could present a settlement to the six-week-old trucking dispute.

The bureau said details of the settlement plan cannot be released until "the union has reasonable opportunity to accept or reject the terms."

However, the spokesman said the proposal provided for substantial improvement in pay, hours of work and other benefits.

Shipments Of Grain Near High

VANCOUVER (CP)—Grain exports through Vancouver and other B.C. ports from the prairies totalled 21,683,560 bushels during February, one of the largest single-month volumes ever.

Vancouver shipped the largest volume, 18,393,189 bushels, totals released showed. Prince Rupert was second with 1,477,466 bushels, Victoria was third with 1,112,905 bushels and New Westminster fourth with 700,000 bushels.

Last month's quota is close to the record set in January, 1964, when 25,800,000 bushels left B.C., 22,000,000 bushels through Vancouver alone.

Grain company spokesmen credited last month's large volume to improvements in rail-road freight arrangements at Calgary and Vancouver. The CPR assigned 3,000 boxcars to grain hauling in January.

Last week shipments from Alberta reached a high point when 700,000 bushels were delivered at Field for continuation to Vancouver. The string of boxcars stretched four miles.

PENSION PLAN POOL

Nine Provinces Get $35 Million

OTTAWA (CP)—Nine provinces have been allotted nearly $35,000,000 out of the Canada Pension Plan pool of contributions, Finance Minister Sharp announced in the Commons Wednesday.

Quebec operates a similar but separate pension plan and does not receive investments from the federal plan.

Sharp said after deducting administrative costs, a total of $34,852,909 was left at the end of February for investment in provincial and federal securities.

Ontario was allotted $20,100,000 and the eight other provinces smaller amounts based on pension contributions from each province. The federal government received $101,909 in contributions from the Yukon and Northwest Territories.

Mr. Sharp said the non-purchased by the pension plan fund will bear interest at 5.92 per cent.

Similar investments will be made each month from now on. The plan went into force Jan. 1. J. Waldo Monteith (PC—Perth) said Sharp had conveniently neglected to mention that the Liberals spent $2,000,000 out of the fund to advertise the pension plan during last fall's election campaign.

Gilles Gregoire (Creditiste—Lapointe) said the provinces should get the money free of interest. Another burden was being added to their debts.

Allotments for the other eight provinces were: Newfoundland $655,000; Prince Edward Island $108,000; Nova Scotia $1,248,000; New Brunswick $972,000; Manitoba $2,077,000; Saskatchewan $1,432,000; Alberta $3,064,000; and British Columbia $5,085,000.

Manicure for Men

Several new-comers to our city often expressed their wonder that Victoria lacked a barber-shop where men could get their hands manicured. More than one old-timer assured us that decades ago (long before we look over) our own shop had even two manicurists employed. We are happy to inform you that this old and always new service has been re-installed. Our Miss Smith is a certified manicurist ready to give your hands professional care. Several men already have welcomed this added service. It won't take much extra time to have your hands done if you arrange your haircut at the same time. Please phone 385-2858 for an appointment.

Revolving-Door Tactics Made It Tough on Leafs

AMID SPRAY OF ICE and loud thud, San Francisco forward Wayne Connelly falls hard into boards during Wednesday's Western Hockey League game at Memorial Arena.

Skirting to avoid collision is Victoria's Bill Shvetz (6) while teammate Claude Labrosse, partially hidden, also heads for fall. Leafs won, 4-2. (Times photo by Bill Halkett.)

Keenan Injured As Maple Leafs Trip Seals 4-2

By DOUG PEDEEN

San Francisco Seals have the same effect on spectators as they do on other Western Hockey League players.

In both they ignite only casual enthusiasm.

Thus only 2,020 fans, the smallest Victoria crowd of the season turned up at Memorial Arena Wednesday night to watch the cellar-dwellers tangle with Victoria's second-place Maple Leafs.

All the Leafs showed up with good intentions but they found it difficult to keep the fire of combat burning for more than one period against the mixed-up Seals.

That was more than enough time to establish a 2-1 lead and although the Leafs finished with a 4-2 triumph they were never able to get into high gear amid the confusing tactics of the Golden Gate gang of coach Charlie Burns.

Who's for Tactics?

Possibly resigned to finishing in the basement, the Leafs seem to have tossed conventional tactics out the window.

Their "revolving door" defence will blanket every man in sight in big-league style one minute, and then leave three opponents alone in front of the goal. Their forwards will wheel out on attack according to the coaches' manual on one play and send three men streaking down one side on the next.

It usually adds up to confusion and Wednesday was one of the confused nights that produced a lot of scramble hockey.

"We tried," commented Victoria veteran Andy Heberton, "but you just can't get enthused against this club."

Leafs did, however, accomplish their mission by getting two points and remaining five points behind the front-running Portland-Buckaroos.

So Much for Jinx

Before Wednesday's argument, the Leafs had two main claims to fame. They had a hex on the Leafs and they had Wayne Connelly.

Today they have only Connelly.

Leafs, who had lost three straight to the San Franciscans, and had won only twice in 10 meetings this season with the Seals, apparently took care of the jinx with their victory.

But they still couldn't contain Connelly, who blossomed into a scoring ace last season by firing 36 goals. Connelly opened the scoring on an unassisted effort after only 10 seconds and survived a third-period crash into the boards to collect the game's final tally with less than five minutes remaining.

Keenan Injures Wrist

Victoria didn't take long to reply to Connelly's first marker. Bob Barlow, one Maple Leaf who enjoys good success against the Seals, fired his 28th goal to tie it up at 4-2.

Mike Labadie sent the Leafs ahead in the fifth minute. Claude Labrosse counted in the second session and Lou Jankowski drilled his 26th tally in the third.

Coach Frank Mario's big worry was no longer the finding of a replacement for departed goalie Al Miller after Larry Keenan collided with San Francisco defenceman Larry McNab midway in the first period.

Keenan came out of the crash with an injured left wrist and didn't return to action.

X-rays today revealed a break and Keenan will be lost to the club at least until the playoffs. No replacement is expected.

Rookie Gary Holland again made a Victoria's goaltending problem appear small. Playing his fourth complete game, Gary was again a standout as he made quick reflexes pay for several sparkling saves.

Holland, who twice robbed Connelly and then stopped Michel Harvey and Stan Gilbertson on breakaways, finished with 29 saves. Jack McCartan, also sharp in the Frisco goal, blocked 26 shots.

Leafs play at Vancouver Friday and return to Memorial Arena Saturday for a clash with Seattle Totems.

FOR FAIRBANKS

Wrong Weather But Right Flag?

Victoria has struck out on the 1967 Babe Ruth baseball World Series.

Two years of prospecting by B.C. Babe Ruth director Will Sadler was washed out Wednesday when the tournament was awarded to Fairbanks, Alaska.

Sadler plans to appeal the decision to Babe Ruth president Jack O'Keefe in Stockton, Calif., a tactic usually as hopeless as asking an umpire to change his decision.

Sadler got the message in a wire from Babe Ruth public relations officer Jack R. Lacey of Trenton, N.J.

Sadler said Fairbanks "got in through the back door."

"They attended only two regional meetings before applying last October for the series."

"I wasn't worried about their application. I was up there and it was cold and raining. They don't play night games."

"I don't think they can do the job as we could have. They don't have the weather."

Sadler phoned Lacey but won nothing except Lacey's statement that Victoria is still "an excellent potential series site."

"Maybe we don't live under the right flag," Sadler sighed.

Bucks Survive Amerks' Rally

PORTLAND (AP) — Portland Buckaroos of the Western Hockey League survived a late rally by Rochester of the American Hockey League Wednesday night and held on to score a 4-3 victory.

The win avenged an earlier 4-3 overtime win by Rochester. It left Portland five points ahead of second-place Victoria in the W.H.L.

Portland took the lead when Cliff Schmutz scored his 34th goal of the season at 3:24 of the first period. At 13:23 Portland's Art Jones scored unassisted to make it 2-0.

Portland increased its lead to 3-0 in the second period when Fred Hills scored from a scramble.

Then Rochester caught fire. Gerry Gehman scored at 35 seconds of the third period and teammate Larry Jeffrey at 10:15.

Arnie Schmutz scored what turned out to be the winning goal at 15:42.

Rochester's Norm Armstrong answered with the game's final goal at 15:33.

Or Joey Kainer dribbling magnificently.

Or Sam Vandermolen working the boards and hitting for 14 points.

Or Bob Molinski psyching Victoria's Ken Jackson.

Or Phil Langley throwing up those soft floaters.

"I felt Langley had the touch,"

Watt said. "So I cleared one side of the floor and let him go."

Langley went for four baskets. Not a basket but each crucial, climactic deliberate offensive manoeuvres against a too-late but stiffening defence.

Against this Chinooks had opportunities, 56 of them. But they succeeded only on 13 for a dismal 23 per cent average against UBC's 44 per cent.

MOLINSKI SIDELINED

Jayvees lost Molinski, the guard they call "Batman" near the end of the game. Driving through the key he caught Doug Gregory's elbow on the chop-ers and landed on his neck.

To any other team, this might be disastrous. But Watt merely has to snap his fingers and the replacement is apt to be better than the original.

Watt's problem, says Halifax coach Rev. Blair Dixon, "is not how to play but who to play."

Then, reflectively, Rev. Dixon added: "It's a real problem. One that I or any other coach in the tournament would like to have had."

Defending Champs Walking Tightrope

Jayvees Still Unbeaten After Tripping Chinooks

By HAL MALONE

Color Ollie Goldsmith black. For gloom.

Color Norm Watt gold. For happiness.

Goldsmith has the defending junior men's basketball champions, Victoria Chinooks, under his wing. Right now it's like having the job of swimming instructor on the Titanic. You don't know where to start.

Watt is the genius behind University of B.C. Jayvees. This is akin to having the only key to the U.S. mint.

Jayvees are one step from sipping champagne from the championship flagon. Chinooks are tightwalking on the edge of disaster.

They flirted with fate Tuesday, fading behind Montreal Orchids 30-16. Then they straightened up, flew right and won.

Chinooks tried it again Wednesday. But Jayvees, taught them double flirtations lead to a letdown. They were let down, alright, 55-34.

From unstained ranks, Chinooks now are another member of the club, consisting of Montreal Orchids and Calgary Cougars in pursuit of Jayvees.

Either Calgary, or Montreal was scheduled to become a "past member" in a game at the Gorge Head gymnasium earlier today. The winner meets Chinooks tonight at eight at Central Junior High.

FINAL FRIDAY?

The loser goes out of the double-loss elimination tournament. The winner has the dubious distinction of facing Jayvees Friday for the flag. Tackling the Viet Cong barehanded may be more fun.

Goldsmith's problem is not so much the other teams but his own. Chinooks' shooting has been awry and abominable, not to mention slightly horrible.

"I can't understand it," Goldsmith said. "I have no explanation for it. We get in a hole early and we spend the rest of the game trying to get out."

Chinooks' artillery was so bad against Jayvees in the early minutes that a team director sighed and asked: "Do you think we'll get a hoop this half?"

LONG STRETCH

They did. But not until Jayvees led 8-0. Brian Brumwell tried a hook shot and gadzooks! it went in. That was at nine minutes.

If you thought this thrust left UBC's Watt cool, calm and collected you're absolutely right. He merely substituted Ken Kern for Reinhard Bumenscheid.

Kern operates with a right ankle so heavily taped he might as well be in a cast.

"Quite a character, this Kern," Watt said. "His other ankle's tender, too. But he said he was fine and he ran like it and scores 14 points."

TAKE YOUR PICK

If it wasn't Kern, it was Dave Rice hauling down 11 rebounds.

Or Joey Kainer dribbling magnificently.

Or Sam Vandermolen working the boards and hitting for 14 points.

Or Bob Molinski psyching Victoria's Ken Jackson.

Or Phil Langley throwing up those soft floaters.

Czechs, Soviets Skate First Rivals Into Ice

LIUBJANA, Yugoslavia — Russia and co-favored Czechoslovakia opened the 1966 world hockey championship tournament with convincing victories today.

And Canada, after some worrisome moments, was all set to play its first-round game against the U.S.

The Canadian team had to purchase a set of sticks from the Americans before it could take to the ice.

The Canadians' sticks were last reported in Paris.

A spokesman for the Canadian team said their sticks will be on the way to Ljubljana later today but the team bought 20 American sticks to make sure it was set for its opening game. Canada's next game, against weak Poland, is not until Saturday.

The delay in getting the Canadian sticks here has caused the diplomatic corps some extra work.

The Czechs and the Russians didn't have any such worries. Russia opened defence of its world title by crushing Poland 8-1 while the Czechs cruised to an easy 6-0 win over East Germany.

Vladislav Starshinov scored three goals for the Russians and Veniamin Aleksandrov two.

Polish goalie Kosyl made 66 saves and was the hero of the crowd.

TOUGH DEFENCE

It took the Czechs nearly half the game to pry open the tight East German defence. The Czechs got their first goal with less than two minutes remaining in the first period, then expanded their lead to 3-0 in the second period, and scored three more goals in the third.

Josef Golanka and Jaroslav Jirik, the top scorers at the 1965 tournament in Tampere, Finland, hit the goal trail quickly this year. Golanka led the Czech attack with two goals and one assist, and Jirik had one goal and one assist.

Other goals were scored by Jan Koks, Jan Klapac and Stanislav Pryl.

TEE TOPICS

By Ernie Fedoruk

We waited to make certain, but it is now apparent that Victoria golfers are quite aware of the economics that govern spending.

It was announced last month that the fees for two major district tournaments—the Times Island Open and the City Amateur—have been increased.

So far, no complaints have been registered. It must be assumed, therefore, that the golfers were aware of the fact that the increases were long overdue.

The jump in the Island Open fee, from $3 to $5, is the first since 1951. The City Amateur goes from $4 to $5, that that's the first increase there in eight years.

The value and cost of prizes, by comparison, has more than trebled in the past 10 years.

No doubt the increases were warranted, and it is nice to know that the golfers do, through their lack of grumbling, acknowledge that fact.

That qualifying-round date for the Times Open is drawing nearer, and now might be a good time to mention that the entry forms will be published next week.

The District Golf Committee will again adhere to the entry limit of 160.

Bill Wakeham isn't getting that job in St. Louis after all. The former Victorian, assistant to Frank Fowler in Calgary last season, was all set to take a teaching post at a plush, 36-hole club in St. Louis.

The U.S. Department of Labor, probably prodded by the getting-tough USPGA, frowned on the import. Wakeham has been informed that under the circumstances he would not be permitted a visa.

To some, it may seem confusing because Ron Willey, the former Pacific Northwest champion from Vancouver, was hired last week as Bud Ward's assistant at Santa Rosa, Calif.

Willey, however, has had a USPGA card for some time and has been residing in the U.S. for the past few years.

When Dick Munn went to work at Tucson a few years ago, Jack Nicklaus' National course there had to guarantee the Labor Department that "no one in the immediate area was capable of doing the same job."

Unfortunately for Mr. Wakeham, he made his pitch at the wrong time.

But the news wasn't all bad for the Wakehams this week. Bill's wife, Marilyn, presented him with a baby girl Wednesday morning.

SHORT CHIPS: A surprisingly large number of pros are interested in the upcoming vacancy at Cedar Hill. Among those putting in bids, I hear, are mainland assistants Joe Jeroski and Bill Goldsworthy. The big shuffle around Vancouver shops is still complete with Sid Dahl getting the assistant's job at Shaughnessy and Ian Daniel, a young amateur, moving in to help Al Kennedy at Quilchena. Munn, of course, is replacing Kennedy at Point Grey.

New member-to-watch at Uplands is Dianne Phillips. Recently-arrived from the mainland, she'll be a big threat for the B.C. junior women's title this year. Toronto's Al Balding has abandoned the U.S. tour, temporarily, because of muscle injuries to his right shoulder. Gorge Vale veteran Harry Piggett came up with his fourth hole-in-one at the Esquimalt course, dropping his tee shot on the punch-bowl 14th last week. The future of Vancouver's Spring Carnival was in doubt until the B.C. pros stepped in. They'll take over the running of the carnival (March 18-19) at Pitt Meadows without sponsorship. Sponsors of last year's inaugural tournament stepped out after taking a financial bath. Bill McColl and Vaughan Trapp have qualified for the second straight time to represent Victoria Golf Club in the district open buttons. They will meet Norm Boden and Mike Kolb at Royal Colwood on Sunday.

No Bets On Race!

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—For the first time in the history of horse racing, a $100,000 race will be run without betting when the Flamingo is renewed Thursday at Hialeah Park with the combination of Buckpasser and Stupendous heading a field of nine three-year-old colts.

Acting on the request of track officials, the Florida Racing Commission gave approval to run the 1 1/4-mile race as an exhibition between the seventh and eighth races.

Races without betting for second or third places are fairly common, but betless races in such an important stake with such a large field can't be found in the sport's history books.

Winger Returns To Farm Club

DETROIT (AP)—Detroit Red Wings sent left winger Ab McDonald to its Memphis farm club in the Central Professional Hockey League Wednesday.

McDonald came to Red Wings after playing the first seven games of the season with Memphis and played 41 games for the National Hockey League club, scoring five goals and making 14 assists.

Parseghian Sticking With Fighting Irish

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Ara Parseghian has signed a six-year contract as head football coach at Notre Dame.

He originally was given a four-year contract in December, 1963. After his first year, when he directed Irish to nine victories and one defeat, he was given a five-year contract.

TOP HAT, TOO

Hull Picks Up Puck of Gold

CHICAGO (CP)—A top hat was among the assortment of objects that hit the ice at Chicago Stadium Wednesday night when Bobby Hull scored his 50th goal.

Hull picked it up, skated to the boards and presented it to his wife, Joanne, along with the puck he fired home to match the National Hockey League goal-scoring record for the second time.

"I also gave her the puck when I got the 50th goal last time," he said afterwards. "We have them gold-plated and someday we'll have a room for them."

Hull fired the 50th past Detroit goaltender Hank Bassen early in the third period of Chicago Black Hawks' 5-4 victory over the Red Wings, climaxing a busy evening in which he put in 24 minutes and 29 seconds of ice time.

KEPT PRESSING

He had seven shots on the net, missing it with eight more drives and five deflections.

"I wouldn't say I shot too much but I'll admit I have taken better shots," Hull said. "Let's just say getting that 50th goal took the monkey off my back. Now my linemates and everyone on the team will be able to concentrate on winning hockey games."

"He'll score at least 58 goals before the season is over," said Hawk coach Billy Reay.

"I don't know how many I'll score," Hull replied. "I just hope each and every one of them helps this club reach the goal, which is the championship."

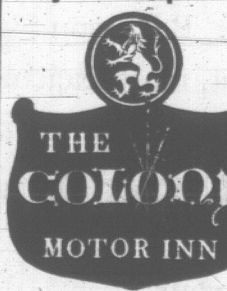

Cadets Next For Cougars

Victoria Cougars Wednesday won the right to meet Royal Roads March 12 in a two-game series for the Vancouver Island Junior "B" hockey title.

Cougars defeated Esquimalt 7-0 Wednesday to take their two-game total goals semi series 9-0.

Bob Bule, Ron Zilkie and Bob Pike scored two goals each for the winners. Dennis Sparrow added the other goal.

Bobby Hull, Chicago Black Hawks' scoring sensation, needs just one more goal and 10 more points to shatter two records that at one time might have appeared unbreakable.

Hull became the first player in National Hockey League history to reach the 50-goal plateau twice when he slammed a third-period goal past Hank Bassen to lead the Black Hawks to a 5-4 victory over Detroit Red Wings Wednesday night.

The 27-year-old native of Point Anne, Ont., who also accomplished the feat of 50 goals in the 1961-62 season to share the mark with former Montreal Canadiens Maurice Richard and Bernie Geoffrion, needs only one more goal in Chicago's 13 remaining games, to establish a new mark.

And Hull's goal, coupled with a total of 87 points for the season, leaving him just 10 points shy of breaking the record of 96 points set in 1958-59 by another Montrealer—Dickie Moore.

In other NHL games played Wednesday night, New York Rangers scored a 5-3 come-from-behind victory over Boston Bruins and Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal battled to a 3-3 standoff.

Hull's record - tying marker came at 5:15 of the third period and gave the Black Hawks a 4-2 lead over the Red Wings. But the Hawks were forced to battle back from a 3-1 tie to win the game on Kenny Wharram's 23rd goal of the season with less than six minutes to play.

Lou Angotti, with his fourth of the season, Phil Esposito, with his 23rd, and Bill Hay with his 15th completed Chicago's scoring, breaking the record of 96 points their tie with the Canadiens in a bruising game highlighted by a six - player, second - period brawl.

Red Kelly with his sixth of the season and Frank Mahovlich with his 25th were the other Leaf goal-getters.

Ralph Backstrom, with his 17th, Jean Beliveau with his 22nd and Gilles Tremblay, also with his 22nd, completed the Montreal scoring.

Beliveau's goal was the 380th of his career, making him the third-highest scorer in NHL history. Beliveau passed Ted Lindsay, the former Detroit star, on the all-time list of goal scorers.

Howe holds down the top spot with 622 and Richard is second with 544.

Harper Loses Decision to Kurt

The brawl broke out at the three-minute mark of the second period and was precipitated by two hard-roads - Toronto's Bobby "Baun" and John Ferguson of the Canadiens. Gunning for each other from the time the game started, they came to blows along the boards.

Claude Larose of Montreal and Toronto's Tim Horton jostled each other unrestrained but were not penalized.

The main bout was between Montreal's Terry Harper and Orland Kurtenbach, the Leafs' penalty killer. They came together twice to slug it out despite efforts to restrain them.

Harper sat out the rest of the period after receiving 16 stitches to close cuts over both eyes. The taller Kurtenbach, who knocked Harper cold in a fight last season when the Leaf winger played for Boston, escaped unscathed.

Montreal netminder Charlie Hodge, struck over the right ear with a high-rising puck fired by Bob Pulford late in the second frame, was replaced for the third period by Lorne Worsley. Hodge took 16 stitches to close the ear cut.

Third-period goals by Billy Hicke, Bob Nevin and Vic Hadfield gave the Rangers their come-from-behind victory over the Bruins.

Best of Friends In Five Years?

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI)—Robert F. Allen met Harry Griffith for the first time Wednesday and said, "I hope that five years from now we'll be the best of friends."

Allen, 28, an insurance broker from Tucson, Ariz., has been told by doctors he has about six months to live.

Today he embarks on an unusual partnership with Griffith, a 63-year-old salesman and former big league baseball player from a Philadelphia suburb.

Both men suffer from a rare form of cancer, and are here to take part in an experimental cancer treatment program which involves the transplanting of tissues to and from their bodies.

It is an unproven treatment, but Allen said he was "very optimistic however... I can't be anything else."

"I'm not afraid of dying,"

Allen said. "I don't care if I die tomorrow, I'm going to have hope."

Allen who will be 29 next Wednesday arrived here with his wife, Anita. They left their three children with a relative in Tucson.

Both he and Griffith were stricken with a cancerous form known as osteogenic sarcoma. Allen's left leg was amputated last September, and Griffith's left collar bone was removed in December. The operations failed in both cases to stop the spread of the disease.

They will be treated for a month to five weeks at Buffalo's Roswell Park Memorial Institute, a cancer research centre which said two years ago it used similar treatment to check spread of the disease in a patient who suffered from a different type of cancer.

The treatment involves transplanting portions of cancerous tissue from one patient into the thigh of the other.

HISTORIC 'FIRST'

Exploding Galaxies New Power Source?

By JOSEPH L. MYLER

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Scientists Wednesday reported the discovery that two exploding galaxies far away in the universe are fantastically powerful X-ray sources so powerful they raise the question whether there are energy sources in nature not yet imagined by man.

The discovery, a historic "first" in the annals of astronomy, was announced by Dr. Herbert Friedman, chief of the E. O. Hulbert centre for space research at the Naval Research Laboratory here.

ULTIMATE SOURCE

It has been assumed for years that the ultimate source of energy in the universe is thermonuclear fusion, the reaction which lights the sun and other stars and made the H-bomb possible.

This may still be true. But by some calculations the energy emitted by so-called radio galaxies—two of which are now disclosed to produce X-rays, too—is greater than could be generated by the thermonuclear "burning" of hundreds of billions of stars in the brief period, astronomically speaking, of 1,000,000 years.

If these calculations are correct, where does the extra energy come from?

COMPLICATED

The problem is further complicated by the fact that X-ray power from sources thus far studied is 10 to 100 times greater than their radio power. The Milky Way galaxy produces X-rays at a power level 10,000 times greater than the energy output, including light and heat, of the sun.

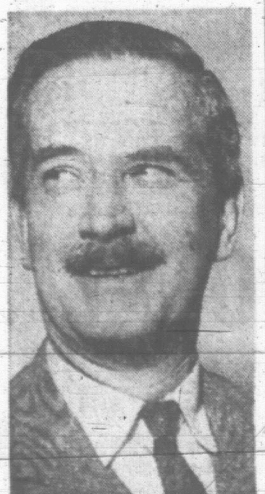

X-ray astronomy is only four years old, an infant compared with optical astronomy, which is almost as old as civilization itself, and radio astronomy, which is still in its "teens."

Dr. Friedman and his NRL colleagues, Drs. E. T. Bryman and T. A. Chubb, have discovered about 25 X-ray sources with instruments fired above the earth's atmosphere by Aerobee rockets. Most of these have yet to be correlated with any visible object in the skies. Most of them also appear to be well inside the 100 billion-star Milky Way.

Wednesday's news was that an NRL rocket flight in April, 1965, disclosed two X-ray sources far outside the Milky Way galaxy.

City-Born Officer May Join Family Firm

Retirement plans of Lieut.-Col. Desmond Holmes include the prospect of homecoming

HOLMES retires in two years after 25 years in the Royal Engineers.

The son of Major Cuthbert Holmes and Mrs. Holmes of 677 Beach, Lieut.-Col. Holmes is considering coming back to his birthplace with his English wife and five children.

He leaves Sunday for England after two weeks' leave with his parents.

The Victoria-born officer is brother of Philip Holmes, president of Pemberton Holmes Ltd. and 1966 president of the National Association of Real Estate Agents.

Col. Holmes said he would like his oldest son to attend the University of Victoria next year and to take a post with the family firm, thus making it a fifth generation business.

He would also like to have the education of his other children completed in Canada because of the higher cost in England.

Rhodesian Gov't Seizes Tankers

Ships Transport Fuel Supplies From Secret South Africa Ports

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—The Rhodesian government has commandeered all oil tankers in Rhodesia and apparently is sending them to South Africa for fuel supplies, oil company sources said here Wednesday.

They were commenting on a newspaper report that unmarked tankers painted blue and grey are picking up supplies at secret South African rendezvous points. The Johannesburg Rand Daily Mail says these tankers have Rhodesian number plates and an investigation showed they belong to Shell and British Petroleum.

The sources said: "The Rhodesian government has taken over all tankers in the country. The tankers receive their orders from some central organization and go where they are told. That is apparently why they are painted neutral colors. They are not operating necessarily as representatives of companies which own them."

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain expressed serious concern to Portugal Wednesday about reports of the supply of oil products from Portuguese Mozambique to Rhodesia, British officials said.

This is the first time Britain has expressed concern to Portugal, but it has done so twice to South Africa.

British Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart summoned the Portuguese charge d'affaires here, Jose Maria, to the Commons to make the representation.

Stewart also expressed concern over further reports about the construction of storage tanks in Beira, the Mozambique port normally used for unloading oil deliveries for Rhodesia.

In Lisbon a Portuguese foreign ministry spokesman said there had been no change in the Portuguese policy announced in November—"that Portugal does not participate in the oil sanctions against Rhodesia and continues its traditional commerce with that country."

CBC Denies Producer Suspended

TORONTO (CP)—The Star says a CBC television producer, Hugh Edmunds of Winnipeg, has been suspended "for a network program uncomplimentary to German soldiers training in Canada."

The Star says Mr. Edmunds has "been placed on devotional programming until his suspension ends some time after March." CBC officials denied Wednesday Mr. Edmunds had been suspended and said assignment of producers to other programs is a common practice.

A statement issued by the CBC at Winnipeg said:

"Hugh Edmunds has not been suspended since suspension entails loss of salary and exclusion from CBC premises. In fact, Mr. Edmunds has been removed from production of Aerobee Canada following a disagreement with the Prairie regional management and has been given other production responsibilities including Provincial Affairs, Viewpoint, commercials, news inserts and devotions. He has not lost any salary. A change in production assignments is a common occurrence and is within the right of any employer."

'Theft Victim' Gets Jail

Charles F. Martell, 22, address unavailable, was sentenced to a month in jail for causing a disturbance in a public place by being drunk.

He pleaded guilty in central court Wednesday.

The offence occurred Wednesday in the early morning when police found Martell sobbing and leaning up against a store in the 200 block Cook.

Constable Bruce Campbell testified the man got into an argument with a passer-by, grabbed him by the throat and threatened to kill him.

Court was told the accused said to the officer: "See that car up the road? He just stole $5,000."

Skindiver Out After 41 Hours Inside Chamber

Vancouver skindiver David Horodney emerged from a navy decompression chamber here Wednesday after 41 hours inside.

Horodney, 23, suffered the bends Sunday while skin diving in Howe Sound near Vancouver.

He was treated first at the new decompression chamber at the Pacific National Exhibition grounds in Vancouver but suffered a relapse and was flown to the RCN diving establishment here on advice of his doctor.

Bends is a condition caused by a buildup of nitrogen bubbles in the blood stream when a diver surfaces too quickly.

Saturday Rites Scheduled For Scot Seaman

Funeral services will be held in McCall Brothers' funeral chapel Saturday at 10 a.m. for William McBain Scott, a Scottish seaman who died in the Veterans' Hospital Wednesday.

Mr. Scott, aged 60, was chief steward aboard the freighter Pacific Northwest. He was taken ill when the ship called at Victoria on Jan. 6.

Born in Foyers, Scotland, he served in the Royal Navy before joining the crew of the Pacific Northwest in Glasgow.

NO-CONFIDENCE MOTION PLANNED

NDP to Challenge Gov't Over Spencer Spy Case

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—The New Democratic Party will move a motion of want of confidence in Justice Minister Cardin over his handling of the Victor Spencer spy case when the House completes its examination of the justice department estimates.

The decision was made by the NDP at its caucus Wednesday. The Conservatives the day before had in effect decided to drop the Spencer case after it became obvious that Prime Minister Pearson and his government had no intention of backing down on their stand that an in-camera inquiry was not warranted.

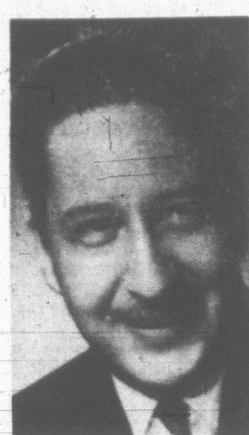

T. C. Douglas Tuesday made a plea to the Prime Minister before the house put the justice estimates to one side and move on to "consider other departmental estimates."

He urged Mr. Pearson to give consideration between Tuesday and the next time the justice estimates are raised to the holding of an in-camera hearing for Mr. Spencer.

The Prime Minister replied, "The minister of justice set forth the position of the government in this matter yesterday. I am glad to be able to confirm that position."

SENT TWO LETTERS

Wednesday the opposition pried out of the government the acknowledgement that it has received two letters from Mr. Spencer. He is the 57-year-old Vancouver postal clerk who identified himself as one of two

LUCIEN CARDIN

Canadians allegedly mixed up with two Russians who were ordered out of the country for espionage activities. The Russians were employees in the Soviet embassy here.

Mr. Pearson said the last letter received from Mr. Spencer was addressed to "whom it may concern." He said the letter thanks the RCMP and others who had been with him during the difficult months "for the courtesy and consideration he had received."

The first letter, according to Mr. Pearson, was received many months ago. It contained Mr. Spencer's explanation of what the Prime Minister termed Mr. Spencer's "improper" conduct.

Earlier Mr. Pearson and the justice minister said in reply to a question from Mr. Nielsen that no communication had been received from Mr. Spencer which would support the opposition demand for a judicial inquiry into the case.

U.S. Eases Ban on Sale Of Equipment

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has told India and Pakistan they may resume buying limited quantities of non-lethal military equipment from the U.S.

A state department spokesman, announcing the decision Wednesday, said it applies to such items as communications equipment, spare parts for aircraft and motor transports.

The United States suspended all military aid shipments to India and Pakistan last Sept. 8 after the clash over Kashmir in which both countries used American-supplied weapons.

The United States has not yet agreed to a resumption of sizable economic assistance. This includes $435,000,000 in appropriated funds for India and $250,000,000 for Pakistan.

Jaycees Oppose Medicare Plan

A resolution opposing the national compulsory medicare plan received almost the unanimous support of members of the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce Wednesday.

BOSCH

'400 Killed; Free Vote Impossible'

SANTO DOMINGO (AP)—Ex-president Juan Bosch says that more than 400 Dominicans—most of them members of his Dominican Revolutionary party (PRD)—have been killed since the provisional government took office six months ago.

He charged in an interview Wednesday night that right-wing extremists working with some military officers are carrying out the terrorist campaign throughout the country.

The continuing violence may keep his party—the largest in the Dominican Republic—from participating in the June elections, he said.

It was impossible to think in terms of a fully free election under circumstances.

Until his overthrow by the military in September, 1963, Bosch served for seven months as the country's first democratically-elected president since 1924. He returned from exile last September after U.S. intervention checked the revolution launched in April to bring him back to power.

Bosch blamed President Hector Garcia—Godoy's provisional government for failing to halt the wave of shootings, bombings and attacks on PRD members.

Jaycees are satisfied with the provincial medicare plan operated on a voluntary basis.

"The B.C. voluntary program is entirely successful," president Brian Small told the meeting. "Everyone has an opportunity to enter and provisions have been made to take care of those who can't afford to pay."

He warned that businesses would pay higher taxes—twice as much—under the national plan.

Referring to Premier Bennett's statement that B.C. would be one of the first provinces to enter the national scheme when it is finalized, Mr. Small charged that B.C. is being forced by the federal government to accept compulsory medicare.

"As I see it if B.C. does not enter it will be taxed for the scheme regardless," he said. "So there is no other alternative but to participate."

He also said if B.C. opts out of the plan—like Quebec—it would be accused of separatism—of breaking up confederation. "Politically the government can't afford to be accused of separatism," he added. "It doesn't want to face this criticism."

Mr. Small said the junior chamber should campaign against the federal compulsory plan.

He pointed out that the Canadian Junior Chamber of Commerce last year also went on record as being opposed to the national plan.

"It favored, instead, a voluntary plan, such as we have in B.C.," he said.

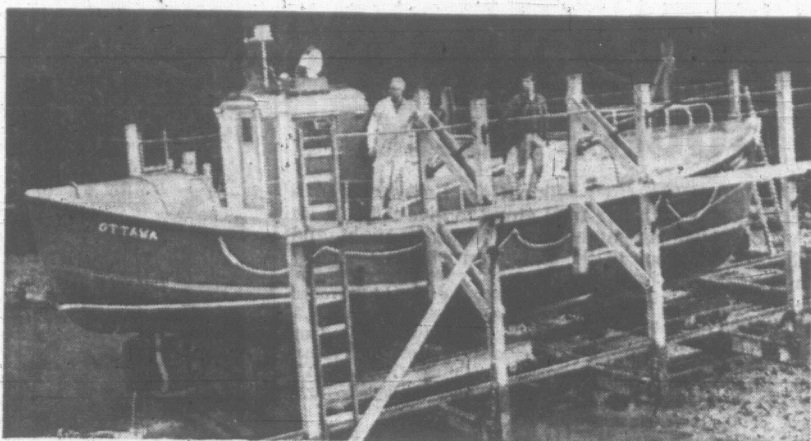

The meeting also unanimously supported the March 12 $1,789,404 school building referendum which was defeated by a narrow margin in December.

School board finance chairman George Curran said additional classrooms were badly needed to take care of the increasing school population.

"Even if the school population was static we would still need more classrooms because students today stay longer in school," he said.

MANY TEACH TOO

Romania has 23,000 people engaged in scientific research, 13,000 of them college instructors.

HIGH AND DRY for her annual refit is the Tofino lifeboat Ottawa. Coxswain E. R. (Fred) Hagelin sailed the Ottawa down the west coast this week to Philbrook's shipyard, Sidney. During the next three weeks the Ottawa will have radar installed to increase her effectiveness in the treacherous waters of the Island's west coast. A similar radar set, costing around $3,000, was recently installed in Bamfield lifeboat.

UNHAPPY RECORD

Speaker Again Kills Two Bills

Two private members' bills with an unhappy record in the legislature were again ruled out of order Wednesday by speaker of the House William Murray (SC—Prince Rupert).

For Alan Macfarlane (Lib.—Oak Bay) it was the fourth time his bill to permit actions against the government had failed.

The same number of rebuffs have also been faced by David Barrett (NDP—Dowdney), who tried to have the Training Schools Act amended to prohibit the sentencing of children to an adult jail without certain conditions.

Mr. Murray ruled against the amendment bill on the same grounds as on previous occasions, that it requires expenditure of public funds. The ruling was upheld by a voice vote after Mr. Barrett challenged it.

Later, the member said he intends to reintroduce a simplified amendment that will seek to prohibit sentencing of children 12 and under to institutions with older persons.

130 SENTENCED

Up to 1964 he said there were more than 130 children aged 9, 10, 11 and 12 sentenced to Brannen Lake training school. Last year there were 31 boys under the age of 12 sent there, the highest in the history of the place.

There is little or no chance of a younger boy improving when he is placed in contact with others who may have an emotional problem, and the older ones have a negative influence, Mr. Barrett said.

Mr. Murray ruled against Mr. Macfarlane's Crown Proceedings Act because it involves royal prerogatives—in which permission to sue must be granted by the government.

The member asked for consent to the bill by the attorney-general and government, "to give the people freedom in matters of justice."

NO REPLY

He asked for an indication from the government as to what might be done, but received no reply.

He said as it stands, the government is in the position of being "judge and jury in its own case," and it should be the first to ask for a change.

SENTENCED TO HANG

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—Michael Gregory Kuzyk, 38, Wednesday was sentenced to be hanged June 7 when an assize court jury here found him guilty of capital murder.

Kuzyk was on trial for the death last November of Mrs. Lenora Hazel Wilson, who was killed by a single shot from a rifle as she alighted from a truck driven by her son in nearby Burnaby.

In handing down the guilty verdict, the jury recommended clemency. Mr. Justice MacDonald ordered the mandatory death sentence for Kuzyk.

Belgium Stalemate

BRUSSELS (Reuters)—Social Christian premier—designate Paul Willem Segers has abandoned efforts to solve Belgium's three-week government crisis. A communique said Segers called on King Baudouin today to report he had failed to form a coalition between the Social Christians, Catholics and Socialists.

LEGISLATION UNDER CONSIDERATION

Early Action Promised On Fly-By-Night Pedlars

A private bill that would curtail fly-by-night pedlars and fast-talking salesmen will get early government attention, the legislature was told Wednesday.

The bill brought in by Leo Nimsick (NDP—Cranbrook) would amend the Sales of Goods Act to give a buyer the right within seven days to cancel an agreement to purchase signed anywhere outside trade premises.

Such agreement also would be cancelled automatically if the buyer did not receive a copy by mail.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said the government is sympathetic with the victims of high-pressure salesmen. "The government is considering legislation of this sort," Mr. Bonner said.

But before it is introduced the experience of other jurisdictions will be sought, he said.

Mr. Nimsick agreed to adjourn debate on the bill indefinitely.

RULE OUT FAST-TALKER

He said the crux of the bill was "to rule out the fast-talking door-to-door salesman," the effect of which has been incorporated into British and Saskatchewan legislation.

In Ontario, too, he said, there is investigation into a "cooling off" or "decompression time" for sales agreements.

The Saskatchewan system provides for a refund to dissatisfied customers out of a fund built up from bonds posted by the salesmen, Mr. Nimsick said. And there is no indication that the law has been hard on business, he added, pointing to an increase in bonded salesmen.

Agreements are "often signed by the wife" and it is realized later they couldn't afford or didn't need the item, be it a new freezer, refrigerator, roof or siding for the house, he said.

"People seem to fall for the pitch that if they don't sign now they'll lose a bargain," Mr. Nimsick said.

Alex Macdonald (NDP—Vancouver East) cited the case of a man who was ruined by an unscrupulous salesman who sold him a home improvement scheme for $750. The contract was on paper of Interprovincial Building Credits, Mr. Macdonald said.

The salesman took if to the company, was paid $500 of $800 and disappeared.

The home owner was sued for the money by the company, lost the case and his savings and eventually his house, he said.

Finally, the man reached skid road, Mr. Macdonald said. "He was ruined by a fly-by-night door-to-door salesman who didn't do a tap off work on the house. A cooling-off period would have at least saved his savings, and in this case his life," the member said.

Ky Trip Cancelled

TOKYO (Reuters)—The proposed March 22 visit to Japan of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky of South Viet Nam has been postponed indefinitely, a South Vietnamese embassy spokesman said Wednesday. The spokesman did not say why, but added that it did not mean the visit had been abandoned.

42 DIE FROM FLU

TIJUANA, Mexico (UPI)—Forty-two persons, including 35 children, have died within the past 15 days due to respiratory ailments caused by an influenza epidemic, the Bureau of Vital Statistics reported Wednesday.

Authorities said a major contributing factor to the epidemic was the lack of adequate heating in most homes in this border city of 250,000 residents.

AND WILLISTON CHUCKLES

MLA 'Knocked' Out of His Seat

Hulking Gordon Gibson (L—North Vancouver) woke up several other MLAs when he fell out of his chair Wednesday during a soporific debate on air pollution.

It happened while Forests, Lands and Water Resources Minister Jay Williston was telling a nodding house about government requirements that pulp mills install up-to-date pollution control equipment.

"I know that must have been a shock but I didn't think it would knock the member out of his seat," laughed Mr. Williston.

"I make no apologies, I make no apologies," mumbled Mr. Gibson as he clambered to his feet and picked up the overturned chair.

"It seems the longer I talk the greater the impact," chuckled Mr. Williston.

Moments later Mr. Williston moved adjournment of debate on the private member's bill submitted by Tony Gargrave (NDP—Mackenzie) for the third year in a row intended to widen the scope of the Pollution Control Act to include air pollution. It now covers water.

The opposition—several crying "closure"—voted against adjournment but the government majority overwhelmed them 27 to 17 and the bill is not expected to come up again this session.

Another bill brought in for the second time by Mr. Gargrave bit the dust.

Speaker William Murray, citing standing orders, ruled his proposal for an expanded system of government-supervised legal aid for order on the grounds it involved expenditure of public money—an exclusive prerogative of the government.

Anti-Semitism On Increase In W. Germany

By ANATOLE SHUB
The Washington Post

BONN—Anti-semitic incidents rose sharply in West Germany during 1965, but continued to involve only a lunatic fringe of the population, Interior Minister Paul Luecke has reported.

Luecke's report came on the heels of new desecrations of Jewish cemeteries in Munich and in the Ruhr city of Moenchengladbach. German authorities expressed the hope that the desecrations would not set off a "wave" of incidents, such as followed the Cologne swastika smearing of Christmas, 1959, and the Bamberg desecrations last summer.

The 521 anti-semitic or pro-Nazi incidents recorded last year—the category includes desecrations, threats, insults and smearings—represented the highest total since 1960. The 1964 total was only 171, and the rate continued low until the first Bamberg incident last June.

18 MONTHS' JAIL

Reinhard Woltzik, the 20-year-old son of a former SS officer, has been sentenced to 18 months detention for his responsibility in the six incidents at Bamberg. Of the 291 persons apprehended for similar offences during the year, 82 were under 20 years of age. Nearly half, according to the report, were non-political pranksters.

At the same time, the number of members of radical Rightist groups rose during 1965 by more than 6,000 to a year-end total of 28,600. The most important of the groups is the National Democratic Party (NPD) which polled 664,000 votes or two per cent of the total in last September's national election. Luecke noted that 10 of the 18 members of the NPD executive committee were pre-1933 Nazis.

The NPD received better than 4 per cent of the vote in a number of districts, including the Nuernberg-Bayreuth area in Northern Bavaria and the Kaiserslautern-Worms region in the Palatinate. There are major American troop concentrations in both areas.

PRESS EXPANDS

The Neo-Nazi Press also recorded striking circulation gains, to a total of 227,000 copies sold or distributed. Most influential of the rightist radical publication is the weekly "Deutsche Nation-Zeitung und Soldaten-Zeitung," with a circulation of about 70,000.

The report's close analysis of both the NPD and the "Soldaten Zeitung" indicated that Bonn was assembling evidence with a view toward possible future prosecution under the laws for the defence of the constitution, which ban Nazi successor organizations.

Non-German observers, weighing the report's figures, noted that the national total of NPD voters was one-third the population of Hamburg, which has a Jewish mayor, Herbert Weichmann, and one-tenth the membership of the German trade-union federation, whose long-time president, Ludwig Rosenberg, is also Jewish.

Public opinion data over the years has shown a marked attrition of anti-semitic prejudices among the population as a whole, particularly among the younger generation.

Forget About Bill 42 Labor Council Told

Labor councils don't need to worry about Bill 42, the Victoria Labour Council was told Wednesday night.

This is the opinion of Vancouver labor lawyer Alex Macdonald and it applies also to labor federations and building trades councils.

They are not legal entities under Bill 42, which is Section 9 of the Labour Relations Act, the council was informed.

Bill 42, introduced by the provincial government in 1961, states in part "no trade union... shall directly or indirectly contribute to or expend on behalf of any political party or to, or on behalf of any candidate for political office any moneys deducted from an employee's wages."

(Labor councils are financed by per capita payments from affiliated unions).

"Mr. Macdonald stated that it is more of a political question than a legal one," said council vice-president Jack Driscoll.

"The line cannot be drawn between what is (political) action and what is (political) education and we should forget any worries about the legal aspect of the question." Legal opinion was sought after the council's political education committee wanted money from the labor council account to help in petitions calling for government car insurance.

LABOR URGES:

'Ban N-Flights Over Canada'

Delegates to the Victoria Labour Council strongly supported Wednesday night a resolution requesting the federal government to have the United States remove nuclear weapons from Canada.

In addition, the resolution asked that no airplanes carrying nuclear weapons be allowed to fly over Canada.

The resolution, sponsored by the political education committee, will be sent to Prime Minister Pearson and leaders of all other federal political parties.

The resolution was prompted by the loss of an American nuclear bomb in Spain following a plane crash.

Several delegates didn't agree with the resolution. One asked "Where would we be?" if it wasn't for the U.S.

ANTI-STORAGE

Delegate Jack Driscoll said "the question is not an anti-American feeling but an anti-storage of American bombs in Canada—we don't want to see falling bombs here."

Ed Haw of the International Woodworkers of America said nuclear weapons can do nothing but harm whoever who owns them and the only way to stop the proliferation is to protest "this vicious war armament program."

When the issue came to a vote, four of the 47 delegates voted against the resolution.

In other matters, the labor council:

- Was informed that unemployment in Greater Victoria in February stood at 6,369. Construction unions were experiencing bad unemployment with the carpenters having 28 per cent out of work;

- Thanked Mrs. E. E. Harper for her long service to the poor through the free food stall she is being forced to drop for health reasons, and voted to continue its driver-pickup work with anyone who may take over the stall's operation;

- Heard that 11,033 persons have signed petitions calling for an end to private car insurance and the start of a government scheme;

- Supported a resolution calling for abolition of the Senate and asked the Canadian Labour Congress to take steps to promote this as a policy;

- Approved three resolutions to the CLC convention in Winnipeg next month asking for fees to be paid by companies exploiting mineral resources; that the first Monday in August be declared a statutory holiday; and that the federal government comply with the terms of Confederation and build a road link between Vancouver Island and the mainland.

Women Clerics Urged In Presbyterian Move

The Presbyterian churches of Victoria believe there is a definite need for ordained women clerics.

At present no women are ordained as ministers or elders in the Presbyterian Church of Canada or in Scotland.

But this restriction will probably be lifted soon.

Victoria presbytery (council) of the Presbyterian Church in Canada has voted unanimously in favor of ordaining women ministers and elders.

Forty-nine other presbyteries across Canada have been asked to vote for or against, and the results will go to the general assembly in Toronto.

If more than 50 per cent are in favor, the assembly will sanction the ordination of women ministers and elders.

"At our Presbytery meeting in Victoria, we decided there is no basis in the scriptures for any discrimination against women ministers or elders," said Very Rev. J. Lewis McLan, DD, minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

The Presbyterian Church in Scotland is also considering the ordination of women ministers and elders.

The United Church of Canada has had women ministers for more than 25 years. They are recognized also by many Baptist churches, but not by churches of the Roman Catholic and Anglican communion.

Victoria High School on Wednesday held its annual and long-established vocation day, an occasion designed to let students know what's waiting for them out here when they get it made in there.

To what extent these eleventh and twelfth-graders will benefit from the advice and information showered on them by guest speakers, only time can make plain. However, I can testify that we representatives of 45 vocations and callings enjoyed ourselves considerably.

It's always pleasant to be asked to give advice, especially to a young audience gathered in a room from which it can't readily escape, and I expect Vic High ears will be buzzing for many a day.

Students sign up for a talk on the career that most interests them. This year, top scores went to registered and practical nursing for girls, with 59 signatures, and science research for boys (41). In mixed groups, psychiatry and psychology rated a whopping 50, and interior decorating, 42. Forty-one girls plunked for airline stewardess, and thirty-five boys for business machine application.

Of an original 50 vocations, five were scratched. No speaker was available for mechanical engineering. The ministry, Christian vocations for girls, and librarian drew only two students each.

Fire department rated four, and printing—to my surprise—only one boy.

A couple of us arrived at the school early. Too early in fact. A period had just ended, and a disciplined horde filled the corridors. Keeping well to the side, we skirted this wave of the future and took shelter in a staff room.

There we found a table or two, some chairs, the first crocheting board I've seen in many a year, and several others of our kind. All cluttered with briefcases or sheafs of notes and looked over so slightly uneasy.

Among those present when I got there was another wave of the future in the amiable person of an IBM man. Next to show up was a hairdresser who spent his boyhood in Hungary, and as a result of his experiences under the Communist thumb, feels that Canadians worry too much about too little.

Presently in came a doctor, a lawyer, a man from the department of mines and an RCMP officer who carried an intriguing brown-leather bag.

Butcher and baker were absent, and I didn't notice anyone who looked like a candlestick maker. Even so, when the emissaries were shepherded out for a group photograph, we filled the corridor pretty solidly ourselves.

So to the school rooms where our respective flocks waited.

Mine numbered about 12 boys and girls, very polite and solemn on the outside and each with the steady, disconcerting gaze of their years.

From such as these, by way of their school publications and university papers, will come your newspaper men and women of the future.

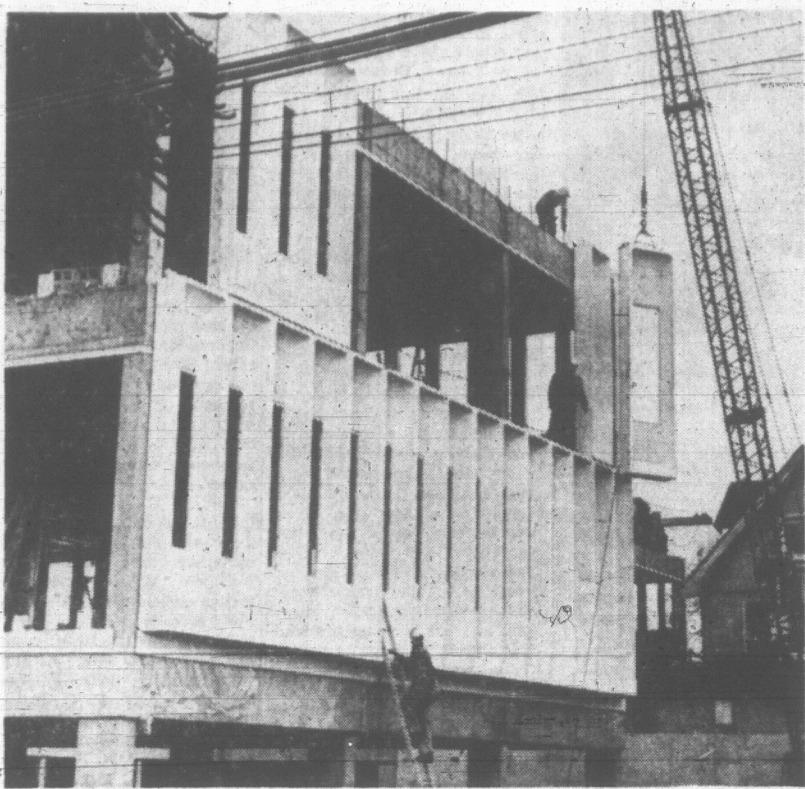

They listened patiently for most of an hour, by which time I was pretty well out of wind, and a few even sacrificed part of their lunchtime to stay on and ask questions.

It is, I think, worth noting by the critics of today's young that these teen-agers didn't appear to be much concerned over hours of work and only mildly interested in how much they'd earn.

They wanted to know what they'd be doing and how best they could do it when they went on a paper, and I came away with a comfortable feeling that the press may have some worthwhile recruits in the making.

On one point I remain curious. I'd like to know from adults who took part in a vocation day as students whether information and advice about an occupation actually helped steer them into it.

If matters worked out so in your case, a note or a call would be welcome.

Queen Mother to Lay Cornerstone

Queen Mother Elizabeth will spend 1½ days in Victoria and appear at a public ceremony, on Saturday, March 19, Premier Bennett announced today.

The Queen Mother will visit the B.C. capital on her way to Australia and New Zealand for a royal tour and she will visit Vancouver on her way back in May.

The visit was heralded as a

Centennial Year event in the Jan. 27 Throne Speech.

The Queen Mother will touch down at Ottawa for a brief refuelling stop March 18 and arrive in Vancouver at 4:30 p.m. the same day where she will be welcomed to B.C. by Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. George Pearkes.

She will fly to Victoria almost immediately in her company and will spend Friday night in Government House. Saturday morning will be free for her.

Saturday afternoon, she will visit the Parliament Buildings where the MLAs will be presented to her.

Forged Cheque Used To Get 38 $100 Bills

THIEVES HAVE EAR FOR MUSIC

Thieves got about $1,400 in cash and equipment from Hudson's Tape Recording Centre, 1543 Fort, in a break-in Wednesday night.

Police said a rear door was forced open by a crowbar to gain entry.

They stole three tape machines valued at $1,155, a portable radio worth $60 and 15 tapes valued at $120.

Also taken was $60 from a cash box in a desk drawer, police said.

Woman Bought New Car

A woman pleaded guilty in central court today to forging a $3,800 cheque two years ago.

Court was told Mrs. Edna Marie Petrat, 27, of 1705 Cook, used the money to purchase a new car July 30, 1964.

She was remanded to March 11 for pre-sentence report and sentence.

Mrs. Petrat told police she had been waiting for them to come and get her since she forged the cheque.

Court was told she was an employee of Montreal Trust which handled the affairs of Margaret Strath, 81, who lives in a nursing home.

Police said Mrs. Petrat used samples of the elderly woman's signature to forge the cheque.

Then she went to the Government Street branch of the Royal Bank and had it certified. From there she went to the Douglas Street branch of the Bank of Montreal and received thirty-eight $100 bills.

TRADE-IN

Then she and her husband, Albert, who now lives apart from her, went to Empress Motors where they traded in a 1953 auto on a 1964 Buick.

She paid $3,700 for the new car and received $550 for her trade-in, police said.

Det. Walter Calwell, who arrested her, said the Royal Bank has accepted the $3,800 loss and the auto is currently registered to her husband.

Emergency Calls Show Increase At Hospitals

The number of emergency patients treated at city hospitals in February was significantly higher than the total in the same month a year ago.

At St. Joseph's Hospital there were 1,379 emergency treatments, an increase of 195 over last year's figure. At Royal Jubilee Hospital 839 persons were given emergency treatment, an increase of 70.

Traffic accidents accounted for 42 cases at St. Joseph's and 55 at Royal Jubilee. In the preceding month there were 56 traffic cases at St. Joseph's and 56 at Royal Jubilee.

St. Joseph's Hospital last month released 1,163 emergency patients immediately after treatment and admitted 216 for further care. Comparable statistics are not available for Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Driver Fined $300 On Impaired Count

Jack McNeill, 10980 Madrona Dr., Sidney, was fined $300 and had his licence suspended in central court today when he pleaded guilty to impaired driving on Blanshard Street earlier today.

Firemen Seek Conciliator In Deadlock

Victoria city firemen have asked for the appointment of a government conciliator in an attempt to break the contract negotiation deadlock with the city.

It is expected that the policemen's union and the inside workers at city hall, also attempting to negotiate new contracts with the city, will follow the firemen's lead.

Wednesday the Carpenter's Union called for an intermediary in their dispute with 275 British Columbia construction firms.

MAN PAYS $140 FINES FOR PARKING

A man with 28 parking violations was fined $140 plus $3.50 costs in central court today.

Alexander White, 1405 Cook, pleaded guilty and was fined $3 on each charge.

The offences occurred between August of last year and February, most of them on Humboldt St. between Douglas and Government.

"One would almost suspect you bought some of those streets from the city," commented Magistrate William Ostler.

Year to Paint, Study Literature Won by Uvic Pair

Two University of Victoria professors have been awarded Canada Council grants: one to paint in London and New York and the other to do research in California on English literature of the Renaissance.

Dr. Burton Kurth, an associate professor of English, and Donald Harvey, an assistant professor of fine arts, are two of only 25 Canadian writers, painters and musicians to be given this year's arts fellowships, senior awards of the Canada Council.

Mr. Harvey will use his grant for a period of uninterrupted painting abroad. He said he is going to London and New York because "these are the major centres of painting activity. These places are where the action is."

Dr. Kurth will use his grant for study of symbolic and realistic modes in English literature around 1600.

Most of his work will be done at the Huntington Library in San Marino, Calif.

Mr. Harvey plans to leave the city in late April and Dr. Harvey will go away in May or June. Both will be back at the University of Victoria by fall 1967.

Dr. Kurth is a specialist in Renaissance literature. He has published a book on Milton and Christian Heroism and a textbook for undergraduates called Writing from Experience as well as numerous reviews and articles in learned journals.

Born in Winnipeg, Dr. Kurth grew up in Vancouver and graduated from the University of B.C. He did post-graduate work at the University of California at Berkeley and wrote his PhD thesis on Milton. He taught for six years at the University of Southern California before coming to Uvic in 1961.

Mr. Harvey has been noted in the past as a painter in the abstract expressionist mode but recently his work has become more hard-edged. His work is in the permanent collection of the National Gallery of Canada, the new Confederation Gallery at Charlottetown, P.E.I., the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts, University of Victoria and Victoria Art Gallery.

The 35-year-old artist is an Englishman. He taught painting in Wales and at Durham University in England, then spent a year painting in Spain and Sicily before coming to Canada in 1958.

For three years he was executive secretary of the Saskatchewan Arts Board and since 1961 he has been at Uvic.

Rather Go to Jail Than Serve on Jury

Greater Victoria Council of Churches has protested the B.C. government's Jury Amendment Act which will make clergyman liable for jury service, it was announced today.

"Many of us will go to jail rather than serve on a jury in a criminal case," said Bishop D. A. G. Rankin, chairman of publicity for the Council of Churches.

"The main objection is that a clergyman cannot conscientiously sit on a jury which might condemn a man to death or send him to jail.

"The clergy is committed to the practice of forgiveness, so cannot impose punishment. By tradition we have always been exempt from jury service. Now the government is breaking that tradition."

It is the age-old conflict between church and state. The Jury Amendment Act was passed by the B.C. Legislature in March, 1964, but has not yet gone into effect.

Eaton Statement on Expansion Story

The T. Eaton Co. Ltd. issued the following statement today following publication of a story in Wednesday's Times forecasting major expansion of the company's store in the city:

"We wish to state that there are no immediate plans underway for this or any other type of development in Victoria at this time."

Integration of Indian Children Set for Saanich Kindergartens

Saanich school board will encourage enrolment of Indian children into its kindergarten classes next September.

The integration will be permitted on three conditions:

That there is sufficient room in the classes.

That the department of Indian Affairs pay the $250 annual fee for each child.

And that the Indian children be distributed evenly among the four kindergarten classes with the federal government paying a transportation costs which may be incurred.

First kindergarten classes in School District 63 will be opened at Sidney, Brentwood, Cordova Bay and Royal Oak elementary schools. Two half-day classes of 30 students each will be held at each school.

Integration of the Indian children into the classes was warmly supported by F. A. McLellan, district superintendent.

The kindergarten level is the proper place to start if the Indian youngsters are to be integrated into the public school system, he said.

The later the integration starts in the child's life "the longer the backlog of missed opportunities," he said. Mr. McLellan said it is essential for Indian children to be enrolled in equal numbers in each class to achieve even integration.

Ask The Times

Q. What can you tell me about the causes of automobile accidents such as carelessness, alcohol, etc.? G. B.

A. Causes of 421 fatal accidents in B.C. last year were given to the department of motor vehicles. This is what they reported:

Sixty fatalities were caused by impaired drivers, 124 by speed and carelessness, 52 by head-on collisions, 68 by driving off the road, 58 pedestrians at fault, 20 resulted from poor highway conditions, seven killed in hit-and-run accidents, nine when drivers were asleep, two fatalities were due to the physical condition of the motorist and 21 deaths resulted from mechanical defects in the car.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question to "Ask The Times," Editor, Questions and Answers, 1100 Douglas St., Victoria, B.C. All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve mathematical, legal, or medical problems. No will be attempted to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

WHY GROW OLD?

Finds Women of Asia Don't Have Many Rights

It is always interesting to hear about what women are doing and how they are living in other parts of the world. In a conversation a short time ago Cindy Adams had some very interesting things to relate.

Cindy herself is a svelte, exotic brunette. She is the wife of comedian Joe Adams and has written a book "Sukarno: An Autobiography."

Miss Adams lived in Indonesia for almost two years gathering facts for her book and worked very close to the dictator. She said, "We had several spats in the beginning because he considered me very aggressive as compared to his wives. However he soon began to respect my insistence on being considered an equal human being and then we got along well."

This writer has also visited extensively in Cambodia, India, Tibet and Russia. From Cindy's observations it seems to me that women either have too little equality or too much. From the viewpoint of a North American career woman, she found many Asian women pitifully subservient and without rights. She said: "Nepal, for instance, is rushing headlong into the 14th century. A wife serves her husband as a slave and in silence. Her only social outlet is wasday once a week when she meets her cronies and uses animal fat for soap."

"Cambodian men are permitted seven wives and they must all get along harmoniously together or the troublemaker is divorced. All the husband has to do is to mail her a package of betel nuts, and that's that."

In Miss Adams' opinion, the Russian woman is in a worse situation than any Oriental woman because she is treated too equally. Cindy said, "She's expected to shovel snow and ice and dig ditches but she has few female pleasures to compensate. In spite of propaganda there are few frills to buy. Gloves, shoes, makeup are sold out in an hour. Bras and panties are worn to swim in because bathing suits are scarce. I was in Moscow in May, 1955, and all I saw were drab dresses in beige, brown, black or grey, and plastic bushkas. The Russian woman's emancipation makes her a long-haired man."

Sukarno, the dictator of Indonesia, is more modern and progressive than many. There are 60 women ministers and 100 female judges. Indonesian schools are doing a good job of educating women. The middle class Indonesian woman runs an army of servants, each one doing just one specific job so that wages are spread around. She has heavy administrative duties, does all the marketing and shopping, and must make a constant round of courtesy calls to relatives, teachers and her husband's superiors. She wears hairpieces, Western makeup, gets facials for 75 cents, wears high-heeled slippers and matching purses and may travel by herself.

Sukarno, as a Moslem, has several wives. He chooses their clothes, and makeup (no bright lipstick, short skirts or Western hairdos). His wives stand at attention in his presence, cater to his every whim and do not know the word "No."

So, gals, if you haven't done so recently, count your blessings!

DEAR ABBY

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Last August two of our daughters were married at a double wedding. At the reception when everyone was feeling good, a relative who is in the furniture business promised each of the brides a colored TV for wedding gifts. They were planning on the sets, so neither bought one. Several months passed but no sets, so I took the bull by the horns and asked this relative about the promised sets. (Apologetically and tactfully, of course.) He said it had slipped his mind and he would "get after it" right away. He also thanked me for reminding him. Seven months later, and no trace of the sets. He is well to do, loved by all of us and is really a peach of a guy. We know he has a lot on his mind, but SEVEN months! Should I remind him once more or forget about it?

DEAR WONDERING: Your "peach" of a guy either has a very fuzzy memory or he must have been stoned at the reception when he made the offer. You've already jogged his memory once without results. I think by now your daughters should have gotten "the picture" without TV sets.

DEAR ABBY: My husband has an aunt in her eighties. She lives alone and we invite her over quite often. We'd invite her more often because she's very lovely, but she is the world's worst bore. She never stops talking. She talks about death, fire, rape, murder, etc. Her voice is loud and she won't let anyone get a word in.

Don't tell me it's her age. She's always been this way. My husband brings her here, dumps her off on me, and then he goes and hides in the yard or at a neighbor's. If she weren't wealthy she'd have been locked up years ago. What can we do? Can we tell her we would have her here more if she'd be quiet once in a while?

ANONYMOUS, NATURALLY

DEAR ANONYMOUS: Out of respect for her age, even though age is not the reason for her obnoxious conduct, be tolerant.

But don't try to revamp Auntie's personality at this stage of her life because it can't be done. CONFIDENTIAL TO "JINNY" IN NORTHERN CAL.: He may "just be what the doctor ordered," but he is also just what your lawyer told you to steer clear of until your divorce is final.

Teens' Skin Troubles Can Be Washed Away

By Penny Saver

One of the major problems of youth is skin blemishes. Growing up is awkward enough, without having a marred complexion to feel self-conscious about. My neighbor's teenage daughter had quite a problem before a special dance. She had bought a lovely dress, with a scoop neckline in back, but she ended up not wearing it because of a crop of blemishes on her back. Another trouble spot these days is the forehead, due to the "mop-top" coiffures adopted by males and females of the younger generation.

Hair hanging over the skin has a way of coaxing blemishes, particularly in the fertile ground that is a teen-ager's skin. Dust and bacteria that accumulate on the scalp only make matters worse.

One make-up producer has put out a medicated facial and a medicated shampoo to remedy this. The creamy green cleanser, applied twice a day with a sturdy cloth and a liberal hand, can do wonders at chasing away the trouble-causing bacteria. This not only clears the skin, but heals it too.

The medicated shampoo thoroughly cleanses the scalp and hair, and retards the growth of bacteria. It can be used as often in the course of a week as necessary.

For blemishes on the back and shoulders, this company has produced a cleansing grain. Suggested use is two or three times a week. These grains are applied in a paste form, made by mixing them with water. When this has dried, rub it off with a dry cloth.

Old skin is taken off and new emerges soft, clean and healthy.

If oily skin on the back presents further complications, try a treatment with medicated astringent to close the pores and help check excessive oil.

For those special occasions where the back will be partially exposed, apply medicated make-up. This is a soothing, healing compound that has a camouflaging tinted base.

These products each sell for $1.75.

Do you want to know where Penny found these blemish cures? Give her a call at 382-3131.

Panic is an unnecessary ingredient if you are preparing a luncheon menu for unexpected guests during the Lenten season. Simply bring out the eggs and serve your guests luncheon royally, with Eggs a la King, served on spicy onion biscuits, and complemented with crisp tossed salad...

BRUNCH-LUNCH IDEA

Lively Lenten Treat Makes 'Royal' Meal

Sunday lunch or brunch can often include unexpected visitors and the panic begins. Since you don't know ahead of time just how many to expect, how can you plan a menu? And how can you make brunch interesting particularly during Lent?

Both these questions are answered in the following meatless Lenten menu which can be made on the spur of the moment and you'll find that you have most of the ingredients on hand.

A hearty luncheon dish is Eggs a la King. Serve over toast points, pattie shells or hot biscuits and garnish it with paprika, parsley or celery leaves. The biscuits may be Onion Drop Biscuits which are relatively strong in flavor and may also be ideally served with steak or roast beef.

A colorful tossed salad is always a welcome addition to brunch. You may wish to include all or some of the following ingredients in your tossed salad — lettuce and spinach broken into bite-sized pieces, endive, parsley, watercress, chopped celery, green peppers, cucumber, green onions, tomatoes, grated carrots or turnip, raw cauliflower flowerettes and sliced radishes. Top your salad with a dressing which is just a little different — Sweet French Dressing. And there you are!

EGGS A LA KING

One-quarter cup coarsely chopped green pepper, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1 can (10 ounces) cream of mushroom soup, undiluted, 3 tablespoons light cream or milk, 1 egg yolk, beaten, 2 tablespoons chopped pimiento, 4 hard-cooked eggs.

In saucepan, saute green pepper in butter until tender. Stir in soup and cream. Heat, stirring occasionally, just to boiling. Stir a little of the sauce into egg yolk, then add to rest of sauce. Add pimiento. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, just to boiling. Makes approximately 1½ cups sauce. Add hard-cooked eggs, sliced, to sauce; heat. Serve on hot buttered toast, noodles or in pattie shells.

ONION DROP BISCUITS

Two cups sifted pastry flour or 1½ cups all-purpose flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1 package (2½ ounces) onion soup, ½ cup shortening, 1 cup milk.

Grease a baking sheet. Preheat oven to 450 degrees F. Sift flour and baking powder together into a bowl; stir in soup mix. Cut in shortening until size of coarse oatmeal. Add milk, all at once and stir until a soft dough is formed, adding a little more milk if necessary. Drop by spoonfuls on prepared baking sheet. Bake in preheated oven until golden — 12 to 15 minutes. Makes 12 to 15 biscuits.

SWEET FRENCH DRESSING

Three-quarter cup granulated sugar, 4 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce, ½ cup tomato ketchup, ½ cup white vinegar, 2 teaspoons salt, 2 cups vegetable oil, 2 medium onions (grated).

Combine all ingredients, except onions. Beat five minutes on medium speed of electric mixer. Mix in onions. Keep refrigerated. Makes approximately one quart. Just before serving time, add Sweet French Dressing to your salad. Toss lightly until ingredients are blended.

CRIME PAYS LESS THAN BINGO

GORLESTON, Eng. (CP)—A mother of five who turned to crime after losing the week's housekeeping money at bingo was banned from all bingo halls for two years by Norfolk magistrates. Mrs. Edith Holmes, 42, who said she played regularly three or four nights a week, broke into a casino to rob fruit machines after losing £6 ($18) on bingo the previous week.

Aid, Not 'Non-Essentials' Plea of Local CAC President

The need for consumer interest in directing national economy was stressed by president Mrs. J. Brown when she gave her report at the annual meeting of the Victoria Branch, Consumers' Association of Canada, Monday afternoon.

Speaking in Eaton's small dining room, Mrs. Brown stated her belief that money spent by the consumer in "non-essentials" could be put to better use.

"It makes me wonder how serious is our commitment to the common cause of social progress. Canadian consumers would, I hope, if given any choice, prefer to have our economy directed to responsible aid to underdeveloped countries or to contributing in some way to the 100,000,000 people in the world who are near starvation."

She cited some examples of "non-essentials" she found advertised: mink-covered refrigerators, pink lawns and purple shrubbery for patios. "These are extreme," she said, "and won't affect the average consumer, but perhaps we should look at what is being promoted that does."

She remarked that grocery shelves are heavily stocked with different brands containing essentially the same ingredients and that the great amount of these is making the customer's choice difficult. "In order to handle this situation," continued Mrs. Brown, "we are being conditioned to the advantages of electronic supermarkets."

In short, the "electronic supermarket" works on the principal of computers; one lists the items chosen by the shopper as she inserts a key under the dummy product, and totals the cost.

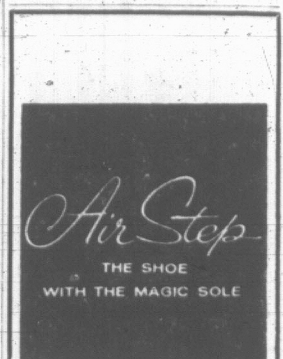

This in turn activates another electronic device in a large storage warehouse containing the products which selects and prepares products.

"However," said Mrs. Brown, "I have read nothing to suggest that the labelling of packages be improved to make choice easier for consumers in such markets. These electronic supermarkets have appeared in France and Sweden and experts claim they will be in the United States in five to 10 years."

In her report as chairman of the consumer complaint committee, Mrs. E. Mills spoke of the help given consumers by the Federal Food and Drug Directorate. This government agency, she said, was responsible for the removal of a dried vegetable soup mix which had been contaminated by mice—a quick answer to a complaint by a consumer.

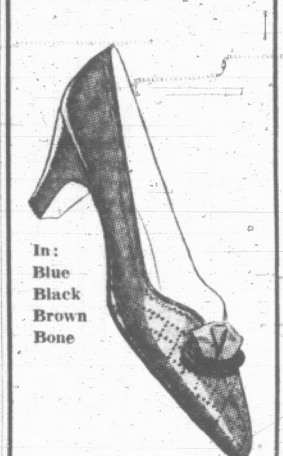

Mrs. A. B. Young conducted the installation of officers which followed. Serving on the 1966 executive are: Mrs. Brown, president; Mrs. C. LeBus, first vice-president; Mrs. S. F. Corless, second; Mrs. J. Forrest, third; Mrs. W. E. Rolfs, recording secretary; Mrs. J. Jones, treasurer; Mrs. F. C. Russell, membership; Mrs. A. Muir, membership assistant; Mrs. J. L. Andrews, Mrs. V. de Jong and Mrs. R. J. Penman, members at large. Appointed committee conveners were Mrs.

Mills and Mrs. Penman, consumer problems; Mrs. Forrest, publicity; Mrs. R. Fairhurst, program; Mrs. Corless, liaison; Mrs. K. W. Brown and Mrs. J. W. Bonner, survey for national booklet; Mrs. N. Orme Catt, archivist; and Miss O. L. Bossi and Mrs. T. B. Lowe, Local Council of Women.

WED 60 YEARS

Honor Ganges Couple

More than 100 guests gathered in "Galilee," the Salt Spring Island home of Mr. and Mrs. Graham Shove, Sunday to honor Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Speed, Ganges. The couple was celebrating their diamond wedding anniversary.

They were married in Bristol, England, on Feb. 27, 1906, and moved to Salt Spring Island one year later. Mr. Speed was local tax assessor and served as trustee on school and hospital boards on the island and also as warden of St. Mark's Anglican Church. Mrs. Speed is a charter member of HMS Ganges Chapter, IODE, and served for several years as a Brownie leader, and was active in church guilds and community welfare work.

Red roses and pink carnations en corsage, a gift of the hosts' grandchildren in Halifax, was presented to Mrs. Speed by Mrs. Donald Carlett. Mr. Speed received a red rose boutonniere. Mrs. C. D. Devine made the wedding cake, topped with red rosebuds, which centred the face-covered refreshment table. Completing table decor was an arrangement of pink carnations and white marguerites, a gift of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Scott, Beverly Hills, Calif. Serviteurs were Mrs. F. A. C. Morris, Mrs. Peter Bousfield, Mrs. Frank Schwagley and Mrs. G. S. Humphreys.

Lt.-Col. D. G. Crofton proposed a toast to Mrs. Speed and read telegrams sent from Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth, His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, Prime Minister Lester Pearson, Premier W. A. C. Bennett,

Self-Help Within Community Hope for Aged, Says Panel

The urgent necessity to integrate the elderly with society, and to provide means for them to prove themselves useful, to have something to look forward to and live for, was the main point emphasized by all four members of a panel, Monday evening.

Discussing "Aged — Hopeless or Hopeful," at the annual meeting of the Provincial council of Women in the Empress Hotel, all the panel members had been delegates to the recent Conference on Aging held in Toronto. They included Frank Heaton, administrator of social services, Saanich; Mrs. H. H. Steen, National Council of Women president, Vancouver; Mrs. Catherine Horne, executive director, Victoria Silver Threads Society; and Dr. Gerald Bonham, medical officer of the North Shore Health Unit, North Vancouver.

"RE-ACTIVATION"
Speaking on care for the aged provided by Saanich municipality, Mr. Heaton viewed the "re-activation" program in one Saanich-owned private hospital for elderly and chronic patients.

"A series of exercises, planned by a physiotherapist is geared to the ability of the patient and is a major portion of the program. Some individuals because of senility cannot take part, but gain diversional therapy by watching."

"Classes in arts and crafts are offered and during afternoons the patients play bingo. This (re-activation) gives them something to look forward to, a different outlook. As a result, some who haven't walked in two and even four years, are now moving about — some with the help of a walker — but they are walking and taking an interest. "But the main idea of these crafts and exercises is that people are doing it themselves." Some, he noted, have become well enough to be moved to a home where a similar program is carried out."

Beside nursing and housekeeping services are also provided by the municipality. Another new service, to begin this month is "meals on wheels" which insures the elderly have one hot nutritious meal a day, five days a week. This is completely staffed by volunteer workers and meals are prepared by a qualified dietician at a hospital.

Mr. Heaton stressed the main theme of the panel and the recent conference: "Old people aren't useless; things can be done for them to help themselves."

Plans for the elderly must be geared so they are "giving" to society, said Mrs. Horne. She mentioned that the Silver Threads Centre is run by the members themselves, with only guidance from staff. There are four programs provided, including recreation, counselling, co-ordination and a volunteer corps.

HELP FREELY GIVEN

Services include counselling on personal or practical problems; mental and dental services for those on limited budgets; legal and real estate advice, plus opportunities for all types of recreation — dancing, bowling, tours, or crafts.

Mrs. Horne emphasized that there was nothing compulsory about the recreation provided at the centre: "We give the opportunity but it's a mistake to fill all a person's leisure time. We are also beginning a six-week training course for volunteers and for home owner-operators in simple arts and crafts, to help them begin a diversionary program in their home. These services are provided to keep the elderly happy within the community; they must not be separated from society."

Dr. Bonham again referred to the need to keep the aged included in the community.

"It's a matter of integration over segregation," he stressed. "The elderly must be integrated with the community in all

PARTIES HONOR SATURDAY BRIDE

Bride-elect Miss Lynne Fields, whose marriage to Robert McPherson takes place this Saturday, has been widely feted with a number of parties and presents.

Corsages of carnations were presented to Miss Fields, her mother, Mrs. R. B. Fields, and the groom-elect's mother, Mrs. J. McPherson, when Mrs. B. W. Irwin entertained in her Earl Grey Street home. Gifts were presented to the honor guest by Miss Susan Irwin.

Invited guests included Mrs. D. Bremner, Mrs. W. Hole, Mrs. D. W. McPherson, Mrs. G. Taylor, Mrs. G. Bishop, Mrs. M. Schmelz, Mrs. R. Mosher, Mrs. R. Dennison, Mrs. D. Stone, Mrs. E. D'Argis, Mrs. G. Molnar, Mrs. A. L. Irwin, and Miss Judy Chekaluk.

BASKET OF GIFTS

A decorated laundry basket contained gifts presented to the bride-elect at a shower held in the Foster Street home of Mrs. C. A. Fields when she and her daughter, Mrs. W. A. Downard entertained. The guest of honor and her mother were presented with pink rose buds and white carnations en corsage.

Those attending were the bride-elect's grandmother, Mrs. B. A. Wilson; Mrs. J. Howell, Mrs. F. Argyle, Mrs. D. Anderson, Mrs. G. Bishop, Mrs. I. Bishop, Mrs. R. Putt, Mrs. V. Warder, Mrs. J. McPherson, Mrs. D. McPherson, Mrs. K. B. Moyes, and Miss Nancy Johnston.

A replica of a bank teller's desk, trimmed with pink roses and lily of the valley, depicting the bride-elect's position in the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, held gifts presented to Miss Fields at a shower in the Hollywood Crescent home of her aunt, Mrs. Bremner. Co-hostess was Mrs. Bremner's daughter, Mrs. W. L. Klettke, of Duncan.

RECEIVE CORSAGES

Rosebud corsages were presented to Miss Fields, her mother, the groom-elect's mother, and the bride-elect's grandmother. Four-year-old Christine Klettke presented the gifts to the honor guest.

Invited guests included Mrs. C. Fields, Mrs. Howell, Mrs. L. McKicking, Mrs. D. Ballard, Mrs. Hole, Mrs. G. Hagglund, Mrs. D. McPherson, Mrs. M. Saurley, Mrs. B. Turnbull, Mrs. H. Barber, Mrs. D. ROUNDUP

'Police Abusing Radar'

NORTH COWICHAN — A municipal councillor Wednesday alleged police were abusing the use of radar by "trapping" drivers at 35 miles an hour.

Coun. Gerry Smith said: "This is not why we bought the radar. A driver at 35 miles an hour isn't breaking the law that much."

"I think 40 miles an hour is a safe speed on many sections of municipal road."

He asked for a peace officer's study and report on sections of municipal road where the speed limits might safely be raised.

A. Vandecasteyn, municipal clerk, said new legislation allows municipalities to increase the speed limit to 50 mph where considered safe.

Lending his support to the idea was Coun. John Cannon, a recent radar victim.

Council was told the provincial government controlled the speed limit on secondary roads such as Crofton Road.

CROFTON — Rate payers here are not giving up their fight against alleged air and water pollution.

Questionnaires have been sent to the provincial departments of health, agriculture and fisheries.

The Ratepayers' Association is inquiring if pulp mill fall-out pollutes vegetation, domestic water supply, affects farm animals and increases the prevalence of bronchial disease.

Copies of the letters were read to North Cowichan council Wednesday.

Acting Reeve Reg Clegg said they should be tabled till replies were received.

DUNCAN — Construction of the new $4,000,000 Cowichan District Hospital is on schedule.

The annual meeting of the hospital association Wednesday heard from chairman Claude Green: "The building is now 25 per cent complete."

"It is still hoped the chronic care unit will be planned and built by the time the acute hospital is completed."

He said consideration of the psychiatric unit for the new hospital had to be abandoned, adding: "We must now assume Nanaimo General Hospital, for the time being at least, will be the centre."

The chairman reported no success in interesting any organization to take over operation of the present King's Daughters' Hospital building when the new hospital is occupied.

Referring to the possibility of its becoming a nursing home, Mr. Green said: "It would appear the lack of trained personnel could be the stumbling block."

Finance chairman Mrs. Elaine Dobbyn's report showed a 1965 operating surplus of $14,565.

Adult and child admissions numbered 4,336, an increase of one per cent on the previous year.

Mr. Green was re-elected chairman, and Mrs. Dobbyn vice-chairman.

GLORIOUS tree-clad slopes of West Vancouver Island form setting for bleached-kraft pulp mill being constructed at Gold River. The millsite, on Muchalat Arm leading in from Nootka Sound, covers 175 acres, much of it raised by fill acquired from dredging operations in the harbor.

TOWN FOLLOWS PULP MILL

Suburb in Wilderness

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
Times Staff Reporter

GOLD RIVER — Here on this westerly point of Vancouver Island a large automated pulp mill, capable of employing 2,000 people, is taking shape.

And, side by side with the mill, a new kind of residential community is in the making.

The site of the 750-ton-a-day pulp mill was established at the mouth of legendary Gold River because it is close to the major logging area of Tahsis Inlet.

Once the millsite was chosen, a search began for the best possible townsite — and this was found nine miles distant.

The Fahstis Company — author of many West Coast developments — says the Gold River townsite will be "a beautiful place in which to live and work."

CONFLUENCE — Certainly it has a beautiful location, in the heart of the Gold River Valley at the confluence of the Gold and Heber rivers. The valley opens out here and becomes broad and spacious, ringed by spectacular snow-capped mountains.

Outdoor recreational facilities are excellent. The townsite is midway between sports fishing and boating on the saltchuck at Muchalat Arm, nine miles south, and the fine trout and coho angling on Muchalat Lake, 10 miles north.

Hunting abounds in the surrounding region and the country offers plenty of scope for both hiking and mountaineering.

The townsite is reached over 50 miles of gravelled — and sometimes very rough — road from Campbell River, a community of 8,000 people on the more populated east coast.

FIRST CREWS — First crews arrived on the new site in February, 1965, to start surveys and begin clearing.

Gold River's first residents moved into their new homes the following October.

Construction crews then moved from the first, completed subdivision to the work of extending the town.

The engineer who turned on the street lights, on Oct. 18, 1965, remarked:

"Gold River is beginning to look like a town."

It grows more like one with every day that passes and by the time the first phase of construction is completed — in June 1967 — it is expected there will be paved, curbed streets, telephones, electricity — and underground TV cables.

TOWN SQUARE — The population, then, will have exceeded 2,000, according to company estimates. There will be a town square, a movie theatre, a library, a bank, a hotel, a beer parlor — and the inevitable Canadian Legion clubhouse.

"We want to provide a first-class residential community for those who work in the mill and in the logging operations which contribute to the mill," says Tahsis Company president J. V. Christensen.

Sites have been set aside for four churches and inquiries suggest many denominations will be represented here before long.

Space has been allocated for the creation of community recreational facilities and parks and these will be developed by the newly-elected municipal government.

The shopping centre, to be built around a town square, will include a supermarket and supporting stores, easily accessible from all residential areas.

SWIMMING POOL — The 50-room hotel will have a swimming pool and public meeting rooms as well as a restaurant, cocktail lounge and beer parlor.

Building of the new town has already sparked the creation of a new school district — Vancouver Island West District 84 — and this will embrace the whole of Nootka Sound.

The school system will serve students from other west coast communities, such as Zeballos and Tahsis, and will provide education up to university level.

Two weeks ago, Dawson Housing Developments Ltd. of Vancouver began work on a $1,000,000 apartment complex — the first major private development in the new town.

The apartment blocks are being built around a central recreation pavilion, a swimming pool and a wading pool.

INSTANT TOWN — Gold River was incorporated as a district municipality under the B.C. government's new "instant town" legislation on Sept. 8, 1965.

Its future seems assured.

REMOVAL URGED

Slag Pile 'Eyesore' Attacked by Council

CROFTON—A slag pile which has been on Crofton foreshore more than 50 years suddenly took municipal council's attention Wednesday.

It was described as an "eyesore" by Coun. Gerry Smith.

The slag pile came to members' attention when the owners asked for renewal of their 21-year lease of the foreshore.

Owners are Harold B. Elworthy of Island Tug and Barge Ltd., Mrs. Kathleen Castle and Mrs. Joan T. Thackray.

Mr. Smith said if the lease was renewed, council should stipulate removal of the pile within 15 years.

Coun. George Whittaker said the pile contained a million yards of aggregate and if council had to move it the cost would be 40 cents a yard.

The only way the owners could get rid of it was to sell it.

Mr. Whittaker said: "The slag is owned by these people and no matter what we do about the foreshore lease we can't make them move the pile."

FORESHORE LEASE — "Allowing them the foreshore lease makes it easier for them to sell the slag."

He said: "If we don't give them the lease we're pretty well guaranteeing the slag pile will stay there forever."

Council referred the question to committee.

It is understood the owners could find a ready market for the aggregate in the U.S. but the American government won't grant an import licence.

Haida Minister Dies

NANAIMO — Rev. Peter Kelly, D.D., one of the great Canadian Indian leaders, died here Wednesday at the age of 80.

Dr. Kelly, a full-blooded Haida, was born at Skidegate mission in the Queen Charlotte Islands. He and his mother were the first Haidas to be baptized into the Christian faith.

He was first a fisherman and logger but, while recovering from a logging accident, volunteered for the ministry of the Methodist Church and was ordained in 1916 in Vancouver.

From 1916 to 1930 he was in charge of the Indian mission at Nanaimo. After three years at Bella Coola he began 16 years in command of the United Church mission boat Thomas Crosby.

KELLY

Dr. and Mrs. Kelly travelled 1,200 miles per month in the Queen Charlotte Sound and Prince Rupert areas as he acted as missionary and counsellor. Often he took his vessel through treacherous waters carrying accident victims to hospital.

Dr. Kelly made frequent visits to Ottawa in the cause of his people and was once summoned to England by King George V to report on conditions among the Indians.

He received the Coronation Medal on the accession of Queen Elizabeth in 1954, but smilingly said it was only because his birthday fell on the same day as the queen.

Pearkes Donates Bond for Hall

Sidney and North Saanich Community Hall Association bond held by Lieut.-Gov. George Pearkes was returned to the organization this week.

In returning the bond, the lieutenant-governor said: "I am pleased to learn of the developments being made to Sanscha Hall and I am happy to donate the bond now registered in my name."

The gesture was welcomed by Frank Minns, president of the community centre. Mr. Minns said the lieutenant-governor's donation brings to $900 the total value of bonds contributed by local residents and businesses in Sanscha's current drive to reduce the debt on the building.

The community centre is aiming at bond donations worth $1,000.

Saanich MLA John Tisdalle returned his bond to the association last week.

DOGS SLAM CHILDREN AT NANAIMO

NANAIMO—School board officials are becoming increasingly worried over reports of stray dogs bumping small children on district school grounds.

Among complaints received recently are children knocked over and lunches stolen.

District secretary-treasurer Jim McPherrin said most of the trouble is apparently caused by dogs allowed to run unrestricted.

For years, housewives have been saying:

“Why don’t soap manufacturers get rid of the gimmicks and just give me more good soap”

Did you mean it?

NO ☐

I like tigers and towels and coupons and gimmicks.

YES ☐

I understand Square Deal Surf gives me 20% more good detergent. (5 extra cups in the big box, 3 extra in the medium box, 1½ extra in the small box.)

It makes sense to get more top-quality detergent instead of gimmicks for my money.

Just to prove it, I'll buy a box today.

Heather's 'Mimi' Gets Mixed Reviews

LONDON (CP) — Vancouver's Heather Thomson got mixed reviews for her starring role of Mimi in the Sadler's Wells staging of Puccini's opera La Boheme.

The Times says her singing during Wednesday's opening performance was "too squally." The Financial Times says, however, it was "clear and well-studied" though her performance "was never touching and never seemed true."

The Express agrees that while her singing was clear her Mimi character was without depth.

BOY DRUNK, SHOOTSELF

BURLINGTON, Ont. (CP) — A coroner's jury investigating the death Feb. 13 of a 14-year-old Burlington boy has ruled that he returned home drunk from a party and then shot himself with a shotgun.

The jury recommended more anti-alcohol education and stricter control of firearms and ammunition by parents.

VIET NAM COVERAGE

Canadians Win Awards

NEW YORK (CP) — The George Polk Memorial Award for a television documentary was awarded Wednesday to the CBC for a report on Viet Nam.

The award was for the program The Mills of God: Viet Nam, produced by Beryl Fox, public-affairs producer with CBC.

The award for TV news went to Canadian Morley Safer, a former foreign correspondent with the CBC, for a filmed disclosure of U.S. marines burning the South Viet Nam village of Cam Ne. The report was done for the Columbia Broadcasting System.

The George Polk awards are named for a former correspondent for the New York Herald Tribune and CBS who was killed on assignment in Greece in 1949.

TEEN-AGE CANADA

What Are You Planning?

By JACK HUTTON

So you've heard by now that Canada is launching her 100th birthday on Jan. 1, 1967 — just a few short months "on now." It's called a centennial.

What are YOU planning to celebrate the occasion?

What's that? You plan to be sitting in a classroom for years and nobody has given you the vote yet to decide on matters like centennials?

Friend, you couldn't be more wrong. Canada's centennial means more to citizens under the age of 25 than anyone else. All the big things still remain to be accomplished by the coming generation.

And now is the time to be planning your own centennial project — either as part of a class, as a family project or strictly as an individual. Here are ideas if you're stuck for them.

● Have you ever thought of adopting a child in another country through UNICEF? It costs $60 a year which can be split into instalments.

School Project

This is probably an ideal school project: letters to the adopted child can serve as a springboard for any number of classroom projects in current events, geography, history.

● I'm a tree fan from way back. Why not plan to plant a tree, either at home or at the cottage? Years later you can tell your own children it was planted for Canada's 100th birthday.

● There's no substitute for seeing the country. And you can do so cheaply or expensively as you wish — by family car, bus, train, bicycle or foot.

This country was opened by voyageurs and their canoes. Is there a canoe route nearby that you and friends could tackle in the summer of 1967? What about organizing a race?

If you want to see a more ambitious chunk of territory and do it cheaply, I'd suggest writing to the Canadian Youth Hostels Association, 210 Somerset Street West, Ottawa, for its annual list of summer trips.

Start Saving Now

The 1966 list, which includes cycling in the Rockies, canoeing in Ontario's Algonquin Park and camping in Europe, will give a good idea of what will be available in 1967. And you can start saving now.

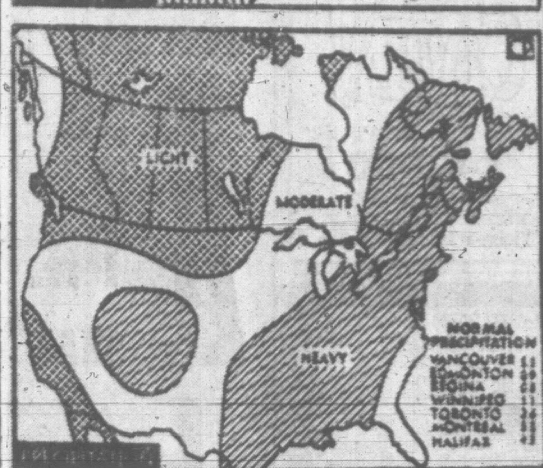

● Canada's centennial year will be a paradise for stamp collectors. Why not check your local library for books on how to get started on this hobby? It could cost you as little as $5 to get the basic essentials.

● Why not start a diary (and thanks for your letters about our recent diary column) that can keep up all during 1967? It will keep you chuckling years from now.

● If you plan to work during the summer of 1967 why not start planning a different sort of job that will be interesting and challenging — even if it doesn't pay that much.

Those are only a few ideas but should be enough to start you thinking. If it's to be a school project your plans should be completed this spring to go into effect next fall or early winter.

Any more suggestions? Drop me a line and we'll pass them along to other readers through the column.

LIGHT PRECIPITATION is forecast for British Columbia and the Prairies in the 30-day outlook of the U.S. Weather Bureau. Temperatures for most of B.C. will be above normal, according to the forecast. (CP Wirephoto.)

YOUR HEALTH

Many Leg Diseases Can Cause Distress

By Dr. WALTER ALVAREZ

There are several leg diseases which are distressing to people. Recently, Dr. Travis Winsor, of the University of Southern California at Los Angeles, wrote a fine article on the various diseases of the arteries and veins of the legs.

As Dr. Winsor says, a crampy pain in the leg muscles — a pain that follows walking, and disappears quickly when the person stops and rests for a minute is called "intermittent claudication." It is almost always caused by a narrowing or obstruction of one or more of the arteries in the leg. When the muscle starts working, it needs more blood, and when it does not get this, it begins to hurt. A pain that lasts longer than 10 minutes after resting suggests more an arthritis or a fibrositis (an arthritis-like disease).

Constant pain associated with numbness, tingling and burning suggests injury to nerves — due perhaps to lack of good blood. It can come with pernicious anemia; also with diabetes.

Muscle cramps that last only a minute can also be due to arterial disease. Many people, and even middle-aged and very healthy people, have leg cramps at night which compel them to jump up out of bed and walk around a while. Standing or walking is the only quick cure. Drinking a glass of milk each day or taking ing some calcium at bedtime may keep the pains from coming. Some people think that excessive drinking of coffee or an unusual amount of walking can bring the cramps. They may well be right.

Pain on prolonged standing may suggest a plugging-up of some vein in the leg. The pain of a plugged-up vein is not quickly relieved with rest — it will tend to continue as long as the person stands. It may be a "burning sensation." It can be relieved by lying down and putting the leg up on a pillow or two. That position helps the blood to run back to the large vein in the abdomen. A pain that runs along the leg up into the pelvis or abdomen suggests the plugging of one of the big veins in the pelvis.

Localized pain in the leg and especially pain that follows a line on the inner side of the thigh can be due to an inflammation in a vein — a so-called phlebitis. If an inflamed vein plugs up with a blood clot, the condition is called thrombophlebitis (thrombo meaning clotting; phleb meaning a vein; and -itis, meaning inflammation).

This condition, which can come just after a woman has a baby, can be called a "milk leg." That leg, and a thigh, may then remain swollen for all the woman's days.

If a leg is cold to the touch, not enough blood may be getting into it because of the narrowing of an artery. But there can be other causes. If a person lacks thyroid function, the skin all over the body may be cool. Then the pulse should be slow and the person can be sleepy during the day.

EAGLE ISLAND

'Ferry' Stands Idle Awaiting Gov't Nod

VANCOUVER (CP) — Engineer G. R. Keillor of North Vancouver says he thinks he has the answer to Eagle Island's traffic problems.

Eagle Island is a chunk of rock jutting out of Howe Sound 130 feet off the shoreline of West Vancouver.

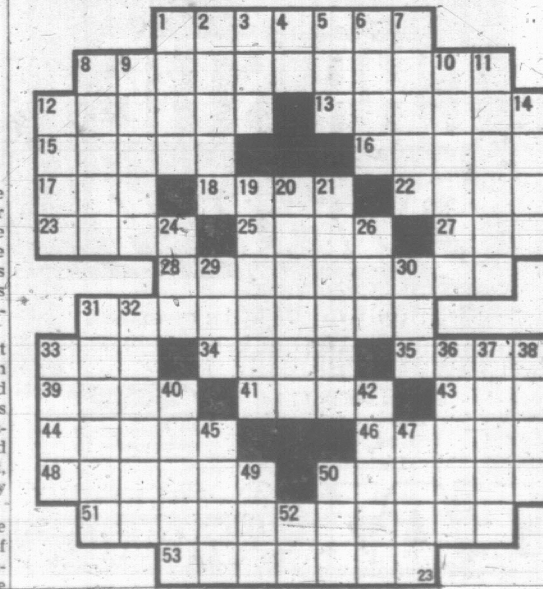

The 15 island residents who need transportation now rely on rowboats. But the tide creates problems. At low water, only one float is accessible; the others are high and dry. Consequently everyone wants to fasten his rowboat to the float that is always floating.

Mr. Keillor, a B.C. Hydro and Power Authority engineer, has built a hand-operated cable ferry with accommodation for six or seven persons. But he says he can't use it until the department of transport gives permission because it will cross navigable waters at the entrance to Fishermen's Cove.

The ferry is designed so it can be hand-operated from either the mainland or the island or the ferry itself. If it was berthed on the mainland, an islander wishing to cross would crank it across to the island, then board it and crank his way to the mainland.

It is hooked up by a cable that would lie on the bottom of the channel, so it would not interfere with other boats in the

BETTER WEATHER FORECASTS

Canada Picking Up Pictures From Essa

TORONTO (CP) — Photographs transmitted from a new United States weather satellite were received by the weather bureau here as the satellite successfully began operating Wednesday.

Weather officials hope the results will lead to better and faster forecasts and stop Canadians being caught unawares by sudden storms.

The photographs, which come from the U.S. satellite Essa II circling the world every two hours, could also — —Help in detecting forest fires and provide new data on forests;

—Help in locating mines by revealing promising geological zones;

—Accelerate in the opening of St. Lawrence Seaway navigation by a check of ice conditions;

—Help in Arctic navigation by showing areas of open water.

The new Toronto station, a similar one in Halifax and an experimental one at the National Research Council centre in Ottawa will obtain pictures extending from the Gulf of Mexico to Hudson Bay, and from the Atlantic to the Pacific oceans.

UBC Grad, 21, Seeks Chancellor's Post

VANCOUVER (CP) — A 21-year-old graduate student at the University of British Columbia surprised university officials Wednesday by filing nomination papers at the last moment for the post of chancellor.

"I'm serious," said Randall K. Enomoto, who is seeking his master of arts degree. "I'm going to carry on a campaign."

Enomoto said he is seeking the post because the university board of governors and its senate are too restrictive, secretive and undemocratic.

Until he showed up with his nomination papers, the only other candidate for chancellor was John Buchanan, a 69-year-old retired fisheries company executive.

MAKE BETTER CHANCELLOR

"I think I would make a much better chancellor than Mr. Buchanan," Enomoto said, after nominations closed. He noted that had he not filed for the position, Mr. Buchanan would have been elected by acclamation.

Unless he pulls out of the race during the next five days, the issue will go to the university's 30,000 graduates for electoral decision.

Enomoto said he expects stiff opposition from the UBC "establishment."

UPSET

"I'm not sure the administration can afford to let me run," he said. It would undermine tradition and the institution would be upset. I would ask for a lot of changes I don't think they're prepared to make."

He promised he would end board of governors' secret meetings and call for wider representation of the community on the board besides millionaires and influential businessmen.

Mr. Buchanan is a UBC graduate (class of 1917), past-president of the Alumni Society and retired president of B.C. Packers Ltd.

Drought Kills Cattle

CANBERRA (Reuters) — Drought has killed at least 15,000 sheep and 1,500,000 cattle in eastern Australia. T. B. C. Walker, president of the Australian Wool-Growers and Grazers Council, said Tuesday, and Rebecca, 1, stood outside their new abode.

Inside, Mrs. Sibley, 21, ran her hands over the new stove, inspected the sink with faucets and bounced lightly on one of the four beds. "It's sure one of the oddest looking places I ever did see," she said.

And it was. The spacious one-room structure resembles the bellows section of an accordion and is made of heavy plastic-coated paper.

It is one of 80 units recently completed under a federal program at the Indio farm labor centre.

Sigley said a Los Angeles Times story circulated by The Associated Press brought job offers for the squatters from all over the West.

"I talked to a man on the phone. He said he has a place for us to live permanently, and that he will pay me $100 a week steady to be a ranch hand at his place."

DON'T LET YOUR WIFE READ THIS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The carefree bachelor is a myth. He's really unhappy, maladjusted and neurotic — far more so than "old maids" or married men.

That's the conclusion of a recent study sponsored by the National Institute of Mental Health. The study, directed by Dr. Genevieve Knupfer, a psychiatrist at the Mental Research Institute at Berkeley, Calif., showed that the happiest people are married men.

Dr. Knupfer's group interviewed 785 adults, age 23 or older. The questions asked were designed to measure happiness, high spirits and job satisfaction. In all three categories, the study showed, married men scored highest.

Big Projects For Burma Set by China

RANGOON, Burma (AP) — China is pushing ahead with economic projects for Burma under a loan agreement amounting to $84,000,000.

Some 500 Chinese technicians are in Burma. The loan agreement calls for 20 major projects. Ten have been completed, are under way or are scheduled to start this year. These account for half of the no-interest loan, repayable in 10 instalments starting in 1970.

The agreement was signed in January, 1961, to mark the ratification of a border pact between Burma and China.

Latest on the list of projects is a $6,000,000 sugar mill in southeastern Burma marked for completion shortly.

150th Orbit For Canines

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Russia's high-flying dogs reached their 150th orbit of the earth today aboard a space satellite launched last month.

Veterok (Breezy) and Urolyok (Blacky), flying higher and longer than any other space animals, were launched aboard a Cosmos satellite Feb. 22. They may remain in space for several more days.

Scientists have been monitoring telecasts from the spacecraft, showing how the two dogs react to weightlessness.

Latest information is that after more than a week in space they are able to cope with its effects more skilfully.

Family Abandons Box Canyon For Their 'First New House'

MECCA, Calif. (AP) — Home-sweet-home, makeshift home — has been abandoned here by a group of squatters who've moved on to new, better and cleaner government housing in nearby Indio.

The squatters, most of them migratory farm workers, were living in old cars and shacks made of discarded junk.

Those seeking jobs and decent places to live have them today. The others — among 300 squatters in dry, barren Box Canyon — just pulled up and left.

One family, Phil and Lola Sigley, moved into a new government house Wednesday with their two children.

"First time I've ever been inside a new house, leastwise ever staying in one myself," Mrs. Sigley said.

A grin crossed her 24-year-old husband's face as he, Larry, 4,

and Rebecca, 1, stood outside their new abode.

Inside, Mrs. Sibley, 21, ran her hands over the new stove, inspected the sink with faucets and bounced lightly on one of the four beds. "It's sure one of the oddest looking places I ever did see," she said.

And it was. The spacious one-room structure resembles the bellows section of an accordion and is made of heavy plastic-coated paper.

It is one of 80 units recently completed under a federal program at the Indio farm labor centre.

"I talked to a man on the phone. He said he has a place for us to live permanently, and that he will pay me $100 a week steady to be a ranch hand at his place."

The squatters were urged to get out of Box Canyon by the Riverside County health department, which said they would not be permitted to remain in the canyon in their old shacks, caves, cars and cardboard packing cases.

Changes Needed Says McNamara

Viet Nam War Showing Need To Update 'Policies, Habits'

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defence Secretary Robert S. McNamara acknowledges that some concepts and methods forged by him and his experts have failed to meet the test of the Viet Nam war.

The defence chief, who normally wears an air of total self-assurance, told a press conference Wednesday that "meet problems" changes were needed in "procedures, policies, habits and thought."

He did not specify what the problems are. However, some of his associates said the concept of using military reservists in crises had undergone a drastic change.

It was apparent that the current intention to deal with the rising manpower demands of the Viet Nam war without calling up reservists grew out of a desire to avoid creating turbulence in U.S. civilian life and the economy, as well as from the growth of the regular forces available and planned.

McNamara's press conference was called to pit to rest any idea that the United States has overextended itself in Southeast Asia and has left itself vulnerable in other areas of the world.

UNDER GERMAN PRESSURE
One defence department source said McNamara had been under pressure from West Germany, apparently seeking assurances that NATO defenses will not be weakened in the light of the growing U.S. commitment in Viet Nam.

McNamara also may have been stung by a number of newspaper articles suggesting U.S. armed power is being spread thin and that dangerous shortages of supplies and equipment have developed.

Today McNamara strides into the eye of the senatorial storm over Viet Nam, prepared to defend a 20,000 increase in U.S. fighting men there.

He was expected to be called upon to support Vice-President Hubert Humphrey's assertion

Wednesday night that the "tide has begun to turn in our favor" in the effort to halt Viet Cong aggression and to bolster the South Vietnamese economy.

A closed meeting of the Senate foreign relations committee appeared likely to revolve around why, with 215,000 Americans already committed to the struggle—the Communists still are able to call the tune on the escalation of hostilities.

McNamara told the press conference that if need be the American manpower commitment in Viet Nam could be boosted to 350,000 without ordering reservists to active duty.

Tanker Ambushed By Cong

SAIGON (AP) — Using ambush tactics on water and land, the Viet Cong shot up a small oil tanker near Saigon today and killed at least 11 Vietnamese policemen in the 17th parallel demilitarized zone.

In a vacant lot on Saigon's outskirts, police found the bodies of three young government employees executed by the Viet Cong. Their hands were tied behind their backs and they had been shot.

U.S. officials reported that air operations against North Viet Nam and in the south cost three American planes in the last three days. A Skyhawk and Phantom jet, both from the 7th Fleet carrier Ranger, disappeared in heavy overcast over North Viet Nam Tuesday and their three crew members were listed as missing.

A light spotter plane crashed in the south Wednesday 40 miles northwest of Qui Nhon on a reconnaissance flight, killing two Americans.

Profiteers Escalate With U.S. Viet Troops

By STEPHEN SOMERVILLE

SAIGON (Reuters)—The Viet Nam conflict is proving no exception to the rule that while warfare means misery for many, it also means handsome profits for some.

More than 500,000 soldiers stationed throughout South Viet Nam—and in particular the 215,080 Americans—provide a ready market for all kinds of businessmen and opportunists, here and elsewhere in Southeast Asia.

Local initiative to meet the troops' needs is already changing the face of this country, from the strings of modest laundries and ice cream parlors clustered around American bases to the far less modest bars and nightclubs crowding the main streets of towns.

American and other foreign businessmen are following the armies in the traditional manner and matching the military "escalation pattern."

About 550 American companies already are represented in Saigon, either with their own offices or through local agents. They range from large-scale manufacturers serving bulk American needs at the official level to small speculative ventures selling cut-price cars to homeward-bound soldiers or investment stocks to those with money to save.

The Bank of America recently applied to become the first U.S. bank to open a branch here, and the American Express Co. also is considering moving in.

The biggest commercial American operator here is the giant construction combine known as RMK-Raymond, Morrison and Knudsen—which has about $500,000,000 worth of U.S. defence department contracts to build military installations.

The primary interest of U.S. businessmen here is the lucrative American military and civilian communities, but they also are bringing in increasing quantities of goods for the local consumer, mainly financed by the U.S. government's commodity import program.

Car Rates To Be Based On Record

SASKATOON (CP) — Automobile insurance rates based on driving record likely will be introduced in Saskatchewan next year, Welfare Minister Dave Boldt said Wednesday night.

Speaking to the Riversdale Constituency Liberal Association, he said a computer system is being established to keep track of the accident record of drivers in the province.

"With it, we'll be able to identify every individual with an accident and then we will be able to increase the insurance rates for the accident-prone types and reduce them for good drivers."

Mr. Boldt also revealed that he had asked the government to introduce legislation this year prohibiting any person convicted of impaired driving from being issued a driver's licence for six months. However, he said his cabinet colleagues would not agree to his proposal.

U.S. Homosexuals Victims Of Brazen Extortion Ring

NEW YORK (AP)—The Times says eminent educationists, including at least two deans of eastern U.S. universities, prominent theatrical personalities and officers of the armed services—all homosexuals—have been the victims of an extortion ring which has operated throughout the U.S. for nearly 10 years.

The Times says the operation is so brazen that in one instance two gang members, posing as New York city detectives, walked into the defence department and walked out with a high officer in the armed services.

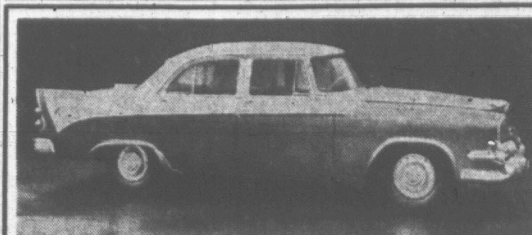

The man, whom they shook down for several thousand dollars, committed suicide the night before he was scheduled to testify before a New York County grand jury.

This was learned Wednesday from sources in the district attorney's office.

It was also learned that more than 1,000 victims had paid millions of dollars in extortion, with some individuals paying more than $20,000 to ring members posing as policemen. Only a small number have been willing to sign complaints.

District Attorney Frank S. Hogan announced Feb. 17 the indictment of 17 defendants on charges of extortion from homosexuals and reported that nine were in custody. At the time, he said the victims who had made complaints had given $15,529 to the gang.

IN RED SHIP

By TERRY IZZARD

Victoria today provided Russia with a priceless weapon. Loading the weapon aboard the Russian ship Evensk began at Ogden Point this afternoon. Without the vital cargo, the entire Russian fishing fleet, presently in the Gulf of Alaska, would be forced to sail home. Yet there was no secrecy surrounding the 345-foot Soviet vessel as workmen scurried around her waiting holds. For the cargo is pure, unadulterated, chlorinated WATER.

The water is more important than all the nuclear weapons in the world to the simple, peace-loving fishermen.

Without it they would be unable to stay at sea for several months of the year during the height of the season.

The tanker Evensk meets all the drinking needs of the fleet. During the next two or three days, some 4,000 tons of Sooke Lake water will dribble into the ship's four tanks at the rate of 50 tons an hour.

For every ton, the Russian government will owe Canadian National Railways, who are supervising loading, 25 cents.

President Surrenders Position

ADDIS ABABA (UPI)—President Sekou Toure of Guinea resigned and turned his office over to Kwame Nkrumah who was ousted last week as president of Ghana, a Guinean diplomat announced today.

He said Nkrumah would be "president" of both countries.

The announcement was made by Guinea's ambassador Diallo Abdoulaye who walked out of a conference of foreign ministers of the Organization for African Unity (OAU), in protest against the presence there of the new revolutionary government of Ghana. Mali and Tanzania also walked out.

Nkrumah once before had tried to link his former British colony with the former French colony 350 miles away on the southern coast of the African bulge, but the plan ran into a storm of opposition and was abandoned. The plan was for eventual African unity with Nkrumah as the leader.

Observers knew of no precedent for Toure's reported action in which the ruler of one country gives up his rule to the deposed president of another. But he had been regarded as Nkrumah's disciple and only Wednesday staged a mass rally in

BROOKLINE, Mass. (UPI)—An armored truck carrying about $65,000 was stolen today outside a supermarket.

Police were warned to use caution trying to stop the truck, owned by Skelly's Detective Service Inc. of Fall River, since it contained carbines, pistols and ammunition.

Police said the two guards were inside the shopping centre only about two minutes when the theft took place. They were dropping off bags of small bills and change and were picking up receipts.

REDS CHARGE

Many Loopholes In U.S. Draft

GENEVA (CP)—The Soviet Union today rejected as "unacceptable" an American proposal to halt the spread of nuclear weapons.

Soviet delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin served notice to the 17-nation disarmament conference that the Soviet government considers its own draft proposal the only basis for an eventual agreement.

Tsarapkin charged the American draft treaty "lacks several important obligations" and said it contains these loopholes: "It carries no obligation to give to non-nuclear states the right of participation in the ownership, disposal and use of nuclear weapons."

"It lacks a provision that a party to the treaty, possessing nuclear weapons, should not transfer these weapons ... to units of the armed forces of states not possessing nuclear weapons."

"There is no important provision that non-nuclear powers should refrain from receiving nuclear weapons in any form, directly or indirectly."

stocks and their means of delivery.

Canadian delegate E. L. M. Burns agreed with the view that negotiations on some renunciation of armament by the nuclear powers might run parallel with a non-proliferation treaty. But ratification of the latter should not be tied to simultaneous results from the former, he added.

PROTECTING PRINCESS?

Soviet Liner Ringed By Hong Kong Police

HONG KONG (AP)—Japanese passengers flocked ashore today from the first Soviet cruise liner to visit Hong Kong, but authorities kept the Russian captain and his crew aboard.

"I suppose it is because Princess Margaret is here," the skipper said.

As a police launch circled the ship, Capt. Nikolai Ambrosov angrily told reporters: "That is a waste of time. It would be better if those men were looking after your princess."

Princess Margaret and her husband, Lord Snowdon, are on a week's visit to the colony.

The Soviet liner Uritski arrived Wednesday night for a three-day stay. Aboard were 276 Japanese tourists, a crew of 153 and Ambrosov.

Immigration Director W. E. Collard refused to tell reporters why Ambrosov and his crew were kept aboard. But a spokesman for the government information service indicated that authorities had not been notified of the liner's arrival far enough in advance to investigate and clear the Soviet personnel.

Rhodesia Fighting Reported

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (Reuters)—A Rhodesian Negro nationalist organization claimed today bloody guerrilla fighting is taking place in various parts of Rhodesia, which is ruled by a white-minority government.

The organization is the Zimbabwe African Peoples Union, one of two rival Rhodesian Negro nationalist groups. The other is the Zimbabwe African National Union.

The Peoples Union's Dar es Salaam office claimed Thursday that 500 Negroes who fled an "orgy of destruction" by Rhodesian troops in Nkai reserve in western Rhodesia had formed guerrilla bands and in turn driven nearly all the white farmers from the area.

It said Rhodesian troops burned down hundreds of huts and seized livestock in Nkai reserve, and Negroes who fled into the bush have since destroyed crops and property of white settlers, forcing all but a few to leave.

SUBANDRIO

University Closed

SINGAPORE (UPI)—Indonesian authorities closed down the University of Indonesia today and put the campus under military control.

The new crackdown was the second move in five days in efforts to halt Indonesia's anti-Communist students from defying President Sukarno.

JAKARTA (Reuters)—Troops with fixed bayonets today forced 2,000 demonstrating school children away from Indonesia's foreign ministry as they shouted demands for the resignation of Dr. Subandrio.

Carrying effigies of the foreign minister, school children trying to enter the building were met by armed troops of the Jakarta garrison and police.

The troops drove them into a square 50 yards away, and then surrounded them with bayonets fixed and machine-guns at the ready.

The children shouted "Hang Subandrio" and "Subandrio Peking dog."

The demonstration was one of three staged today, all in defiance of a government ban.

WANT COMMUNISTS BANNED

About 250 yards from the foreign ministry, 1,500 other school children demanded the resignation of Education Minister Sumardjo and a ban on the Indonesian Communist party.

Across the street, about 1,500 children were prevented by armed troops from entering the electricity ministry building where they demanded the resignation of the minister, Setiadi.

Sumardjo, dismissed from a minor official post in the anti-Communist purge after the abortive coup against President Sukarno Oct. 1, was given a ministerial appointment in a cabinet reshuffle last week.

Meanwhile, the minister for higher learning, Johannes Leimena, today closed the University of Indonesia, scene of large-scale demonstrations by the outlawed anti-Communist Indonesian Students Action Command (KAMI).

Sulking Sultan Blamed on Margaret

LONDON (AP)—The Daily Mirror says a deal to supply British arms to Saudi Arabia is in danger through what is described as a diplomatic blunder involving Princess Margaret.

The paper says Emir Sultan, the man who signed the arms deal for Saudi Arabia, had to travel economy class when the Princess and the Earl of Snowdon flew to Hong Kong Monday. The royal party took over the entire first-class compartment.

"Saudis with him were stunned and angered when there was no invitation to the king's brother to meet the Queen's sister," The Mirror says. "Emir Sultan stepped off at Beirut, Lebanon, with no acknowledgement from the royal party."

He is a brother of King Faisal. Britain recently contracted to supply the greater part of a new British-American air defence system for Saudi Arabia believed to cost around $300,000,000.

HOTELMAN TURNS TABLE ON UNDERCOVER MAN

Ear's Beer Puts Mounties in a Froth

EDMONTON (CP)—RCMP said today they will seek permission from Ottawa to appeal the conviction of an RCMP agent fined for his actions while doing undercover work for the force.

Moses Ear, a treaty Indian and special constable for the RCMP, was convicted in police court Tuesday of possessing liquor off a reserve. He was fined $10 or one day.

Ear was instrumental in obtaining convictions against several hotel operators in the Smoky Lake, Alta., area for selling liquor to treaty Indians.

Hotel manager John Kinash of Smoky Lake, convicted on evidence obtained by Ear on such a charge, turned the tables on police. Under the Indian Act he charged Ear with possession of liquor off a reserve.

Ear purchased beer last November in Mr. Kinash's hotel and took it to a waiting police car. Asst. Commissioner Tony Wonnacott, commanding officer of the RCMP's K Division here, said: "I can't see how the conviction can stand. We'll ask for an appeal."

Crown attorney J. A. Blonsky of Two Hills said the decision has far-reaching effects.

"It isn't only Moses Ear that's on trial. It's the entire method of police enforcement."

J. C. Cavanagh, attorney for the Alberta Hotelmen's Association, said treaty Indians should have equal liquor rights to "end this discrimination."

The hotelmen had argued it was difficult to tell an Indian from a Metis and as a result of the convictions many hotels refused to serve Metis.

Treaty Indians are not allowed to drink liquor off reserves but there are no such restrictions against Metis.

Fer all th' folks who never e'd straighten out which wuz Ghana an' which wuz Guinea, t'day's news about Nkrumah makes sense. Sort of.

Victoria High School on Wednesday held its annual and long-established vocation day, an occasion designed to let students know what's waiting for them out here when they get it made in there.

To what extent these eleventh and twelfth-graders will benefit from the advice and information showered on them by guest speakers, only time can make plain. However, I can testify that we representatives of 45 vocations, professions and callings enjoyed ourselves considerably.

It's always pleasant to be asked to give advice, especially to a young audience gathered in a room from which it can't readily escape, and I expect Vic High ears will be buzzing for many a day.

Students sign up for a talk on the career that most interests them. This year, top scores went to registered and practical nursing for girls, with 59 signatures, and science research for boys (41). In mixed groups, psychiatry and psychology rated a whopping 50, and interior decorating, 42. Forty-one girls plunked for airline stewardess, and thirty-five boys for business machine application.

Of an original 50 vocations, five were scratched. No speaker was available for mechanical engineering. The ministry, Christian vocations for girls, and librarian drew only two students each.

Fire department rated four, and printing—to my surprise—only one boy.

A couple of us arrived at the school early. Too early in fact. A period had just ended, and a disciplined horde filled the corridors. Keeping well to the side, we skirted this wave of the future and took shelter in a staff room.

There we found a table or two, some chairs, the first crokinole board I've seen in many a year, and several others of our kind. All cluttered with briefcases or sheafs of notes and looked over so slightly uneasy.

Among those present when I got there was another wave of the future in the amiable person of an IBM man. Next to show up was a hairdresser who spent his boyhood in Hungary, and as a result of his experiences under the Communist thumb, feels that Canadians worry too much about too little.

Presently in came a doctor, a lawyer, a man from the department of mines and an RCMP officer who carried an intriguing brown-leather bag.

Butcher and baker were absent, and I didn't notice anyone who looked like a candlestick maker. Even so, when the emissaries were shepherded out for a group photograph, we filled the corridor pretty solidly ourselves.

So to the school rooms where our respective flocks waited.

Mine numbered about 12 boys and girls, very polite and solemn on the outside and each with the steady disconcerting gaze of their years.

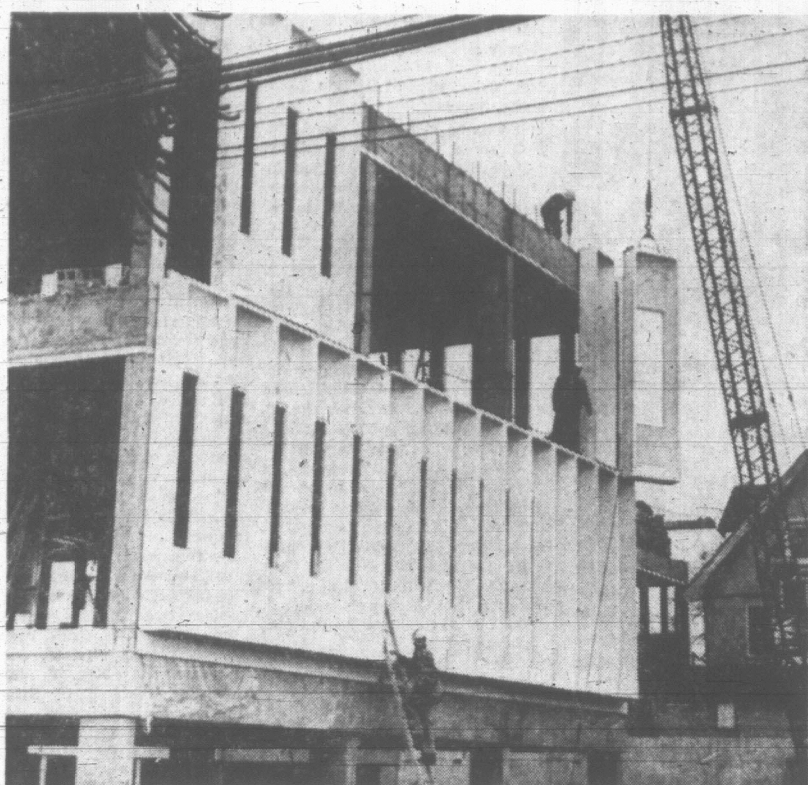

From such as these, by way of their school publications and university papers, will come your newspaper men and women of the future.

They listened patiently for most of an hour, by which time I was pretty well out of wind, and a few even sacrificed part of their lunchtime to stay on and ask questions.

It is, I think, worth noting by the critics of today's young that these teen-agers didn't appear to be much concerned over hours of work and only mildly interested in how much they'd earn.

They wanted to know what they'd be doing and how best they could do it when they went on a paper, and I came away with a comfortable feeling that the press may have some worthwhile recruits in the making.

On one point I remain curious. I'd like to know from adults who took part in a vocation day as students whether information and advice about an occupation actually helped steer them into it. If matters worked out so in your case, a note or a call would be welcome.

MUSEUM CEREMONY MARCH 9

Queen Mother to Lay Cornerstone

Queen Mother Elizabeth will spend 1½ days in Victoria and appear at a public ceremony, on Saturday, March 19, Premier Bennett announced today.

The Queen Mother will visit the B.C. capital on her way to Australia and New Zealand for a royal tour and she will visit Vancouver on her way back in May.

The visit was heralded as a

Centennial Year event in the Jan. 27 Throne Speech.

The Queen Mother will touch down at Ottawa for a brief refuelling stop March 18 and arrive in Vancouver at 4:30 p.m. the same day where she will be welcomed to B.C. by Lieutenant-governor and Mrs. George Pearkes and Premier and Mrs. Bennett.

She will fly to Victoria almost immediately in their company and will spend Friday night in Government House. Saturday morning will be free for her.

Saturday afternoon, she will visit the Parliament Buildings where the MLAs will be presented to her.

NEW MUSEUM

After the presentation, there will be a ceremony at the Centennial Museum complex across Government Street where the Queen Mother will lay the main building's cornerstone.

That night, she will resume her flight to Australia.

May 4, the Queen Mother will arrive back in Vancouver. She will visit the Vancouver City Hall and have lunch with Mr. and Mrs. Pearkes before continuing her trip home to England.

TRADE-IN

Then she and her husband, Albert, who now lives apart from her, went to Empress Motors where they traded in a 1953 auto on a 1964 Buick.

She paid $3,700 for the new car and received $550 for her trade-in, police said.

Det. Walter Calwell, who arrested her, said the Royal Bank has accepted the $3,800 loss and the auto is currently registered to her husband.

Esquimalt Shuns Role In Stadium

Esquimalt will share the construction costs of a Centennial sports stadium on the University of Victoria campus. But it wants no part of controlling the operation of the stadium once the project is completed.

Reeve Ray Bryant made the announcement at a special meeting of all municipal councils in the Greater Victoria area held Wednesday night in Saanich municipal hall.

The press was excluded from the meeting after Coun. J. D. Watts, Oak Bay, moved that the meeting be closed.

No reasons were given for the need for private discussion.

Following the meeting, Ald. Hugh Stephen and Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow expressed regret that the meeting was held behind closed doors.

Mayor A. W. Toome was chairman of the meeting.

SHARE CONTROL

Victoria, Saanich and Oak Bay will share control and operating costs of the stadium for five years after which a new agreement will be negotiated.

Estimated annual costs of operating the stadium have been set at $10,000.

A control committee of eight will look after the operation with each municipal council having one representative. The other members will come from the university, four members, and the Victoria Sports Council, one member.

Emergency Calls Show Increase At Hospitals

The number of emergency patients treated at city hospitals in February was significantly higher than the total in the same month a year ago.

At St. Joseph's Hospital there were 1,379 emergency treatments, an increase of 195 over last year's figure. At Royal Jubilee Hospital 839 persons were given emergency treatment, an increase of 70.

Traffic accidents accounted for 42 cases at St. Joseph's and 53 at Royal Jubilee. In the preceding month there were 56 traffic cases at St. Joseph's and 56 at Royal Jubilee.

St. Joseph's Hospital last month released 1,163 emergency patients immediately after treatment and admitted 216 for further care. Comparable statistics are not available for Royal Jubilee Hospital.

A man with 28 parking violations was fined $140 plus $3.50 costs in central court today.

The offences occurred between August of last year and February, most of them on Humboldt St. between Douglas and Government.

Year to Paint, Study Literature Won by Uvic Pair

Two University of Victoria professors have been awarded Canada Council grants: one to paint in London and New York and the other to do research in California on English literature of the Renaissance.

Dr. Burton Kurth, an associate professor of English, and Donald Harvey, an assistant professor of fine arts, are two of only 25 Canadian writers, painters and musicians to be given this year's arts fellowships, senior awards of the Canada Council.

Mr. Harvey will use his grant for a period of uninterrupted painting abroad. He said he is going to London and New York because "these are the major centres of painting activity. These places are where the action is."

Dr. Kurth will use his grant for study of symbolic and realistic modes in English literature in the period around 1600.

Most of his work will be done at the Huntington Library in San Marino, Calif.

Mr. Harvey plans to leave the city in late April and Dr. Harvey will go away in May or June. Both will be back at the University of Victoria by fall 1967.

Woman Bought New Car

A woman pleaded guilty in central court today to forging a $3,800 cheque two years ago.

Court was told Mrs. Edna Marie Petrat, 27, of 1705 Cook, used the money to purchase a new car July 30, 1964.

She was remanded to March 11 for pre-sentence report and sentence.

Mrs. Petrat told police she had been waiting for them to come and get her since she forged the cheque.

Court was told she was an employee of Montreal Trust which handled the affairs of Margaret Strathay, 81, who lives in a nursing home.

Police said Mrs. Petrat used samples of the elderly woman's signature to forge the cheque.

Then she went to the Government Street branch of the Royal Bank and had it certified.

From there she went to the Douglas Street branch of the Bank of Montreal and received thirty-eight $100 bills.

Then she and her husband, Albert, who now lives apart from her, went to Empress Motors where they traded in a 1953 auto on a 1964 Buick.

She paid $3,700 for the new car and received $550 for her trade-in, police said.

Born in Winnipeg, Dr. Burton grew up in Vancouver and graduated from the University of B.C. He did post-graduate work at the University of California at Berkeley and wrote his PhD thesis on Milton. He taught for six years at the University of Southern California before coming to Uvic in 1961.

Rather Go to Jail Than Serve on Jury

Greater Victoria Council of Churches has protested the B.C. government's Jury Amendment Act which will make clergymen liable for jury service, it was announced today.

"Many of us will go to jail rather than serve on a jury in a criminal case," said Bishop D. A. G. Rankin, chairman of publicity for the Council of Churches.

"The main objection is that a clergyman cannot conscientiously sit on a jury which might condemn a man to death or send him to jail."

"The clergy is committed to the practice of forgiveness, so cannot impose punishment. By tradition we have always been exempt from jury service. Now the government is breaking that tradition."

"It is the age-old conflict between church and state."

The Jury Amendment Act was passed by the B.C. Legislature in March, 1964, but has not yet gone into effect.

Firemen Seek Conciliator In Deadlock

Victoria city firemen have asked for the appointment of a government conciliator in an attempt to break the contract negotiation deadlock with the city.

It is expected that the police, men's union and the inside workers at city hall, also at tempting to negotiate new contracts with the city, will follow the firemen's lead.

Integration of Indian Children Set for Saanich Kindergartens

Saanich school board will encourage enrolment of Indian children into its kindergarten classes next September.

The integration will be permitted on three conditions:

That there is sufficient room in the classes.

That the department of Indian affairs pay the $50 annual fee for each child.

And that the Indian children be distributed evenly among the four kindergarten classes with the federal government paying any transportation costs which may be incurred.

First kindergarten classes in School District 63 will be opened at Sidney, Brentwood, Cordova Bay and Royal Oak elementary schools. Two half-day classes of 30 students each will be held at each school.

Integration of the Indian children into the classes was warmly supported by F. A. McLellan, district superintendent.

The kindergarten level is the proper place to start if the Indian youngsters are to be integrated into the public school system, he said.

The later the integration starts in the child's life the longer the backlog of missed opportunities," he said. Mr. McLellan said it is essential for Indian children to be enrolled in equal numbers in each class to achieve even integration.

Vital Cargo On Tap

By TERRY IZZARD

Victoria today provided Russia with a priceless weapon. Loading the Russian ship Evensk began at Ogden Point this afternoon. Without the vital cargo, the entire Russian fishing fleet, presently in the Gulf of Alaska, would be forced to sail home. Yet there was no secrecy surrounding the 345-foot Soviet vessel as workmen scurried around her waiting holds. For the cargo is pure, unadulterated, chlorinated WATER. The water is more important than all the nuclear weapons in the world to the simple, peace-loving fishermen. Without it they would be unable to stay at sea for several months of the year during the height of the season. The tanker Evensk meets all the drinking needs of the fleet. During the next two or three days, some 4,000 tons of Sooke Lake water will dribble into the ship's four tanks at the rate of 50 tons an hour. For every ton, the Russian government will owe Canadian National Railways, who are supervising loading, 25 cents.

Nkrumah Named Ruler of Guinea

President Surrenders Position

ADDIS ABABA (UPI) — President Sekou Toure of Guinea resigned and turned his office over to Kwame Nkrumah who was ousted last week as president of Ghana, a Guinean diplomat announced today. He said Nkrumah would be "president" of both countries.

The announcement was made by Guinea roving ambassador Diallo Abdoulaye who walked out of a conference of foreign ministers of the Organization for African Unity (OAU), in protest against the presence there of the new revolutionary government of Ghana. Mali and Tanzania also walked out.

Nkrumah once "before" had tried to link his former British colony with the former French colony 350 miles away on the southern coast of the African bulge, but the plan run into a storm of opposition and was abandoned. The plan was for eventual African unity with Nkrumah as the leader.

Observers knew of no precedent for Toure's reported action in which the ruler of one country gives up his rule to the deposed president of another. But he had been regarded as Nkrumah's disciple and only Wednesday staged a mass rally in BROOKLINE, Mass. (UPI) — An armored truck carrying about $65,000 was stolen today outside a supermarket. Police were warned to use caution trying to stop the truck, owned by Skelly's Detective Service Inc. of Fall River, since it contained carbines, pistols and ammunition.

Police said the two guards were inside the shopping centre only about two minutes when the theft took place. They were dropping off bags of small bills and change and were picking up receipts.

TSARAPKIN ... our treaty better

REDS CHARGE:

Many Loopholes In U.S. Draft

GENEVA (CP) — The Soviet Union today rejected as "unacceptable" an American proposal to halt the spread of nuclear weapons. Soviet delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin served notice to the 17-nation disarmament conference that the Soviet government considers its own draft proposal the only basis for an eventual agreement.

Tsarapkin charged the American draft treaty "lacks several important obligations" and said it contains these loopholes:

"It carries no obligation to give to non-nuclear states the right of participation in the ownership, disposal and use of nuclear weapons." "It lacks a provision that a party to the treaty, possessing nuclear weapons, should not transfer these weapons ... to units of the armed forces ... of states not possessing nuclear weapons."

"There is no important provision that non-nuclear powers should refrain from receiving nuclear weapons in any form, directly or indirectly."

Hussien Khalaf, representing the non-aligned United Arab Republic, said a non-proliferation treaty should contain a separate article under which nuclear powers would assume a legal obligation to limit, reduce and eliminate existing arms.

The Times presents today on Page 5 a large-scale map of North and South Viet Nam and the neighboring countries of Cambodia, Laos, Thailand and China—the crucial areas of confrontation between the United States and Communism in southeast Asia. The map details the provinces and major population centres of South Viet Nam to help readers interpret the news reports of the fighting in that country.

stocks and their means of delivery. Canadian delegate E. L. M. Burns agreed with the view that negotiations on some renunciation of armament by the nuclear powers might run parallel with a non-proliferation treaty. But ratification of the latter should not be tied to simultaneous results from the former, he added.

PROTECTING PRINCESS?

Soviet Liner Ringed By Hong Kong Police

HONG KONG (AP) — Japanese passengers docked ashore today from the first Soviet cruise liner to visit Hong Kong, but authorities kept the Russian captain and his crew aboard.

"I suppose it is because Princess Margaret is here," the skipper said.

As a police launch circled the ship, Capt. Nikolai Ambrosov, angrily told reporters: "That is a waste of time. It would be better if those men were looking after your princess."

Princess Margaret and her husband, Lord Snowdon, are on a week's visit to the colony.

The Soviet liner Urutskiy arrived Wednesday night for a three-day stay. Aboard were 275 Japanese tourists, a crew of 155 and Ambrosov.

Immigration Director W. E. Collard refused to tell reporters why Ambrosov and his crew were kept aboard. But a spokesman for the government information service indicated that authorities had not been notified of the liner's arrival far enough in advance to investigate and clear the Soviet personnel.

GUERRILLAS

Rhodesia Fighting Reported

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (Reuters) — A Rhodesian Negro nationalist organization claimed today bloody guerrilla fighting is taking place in various parts of Rhodesia, which is ruled by a white-minority government.

The organization is the Zimbabwe African Peoples Union, one of two rival Rhodesian Negro nationalist groups. The other is the Zimbabwe African National Union.

The Peoples Union of Dar es Salaam office claimed Thursday that 500 Negroes who fled an "orgue of destruction" by Rhodesian troops in Nkai reserve in western Rhodesia had formed guerrilla bands and in turn driven nearly all the white farmers from the area. It said Rhodesian troops burned down hundreds of huts and seized livestock in Nkai reserve, and Negroes who fled into the bush have since destroyed crops and property of white settlers, forcing all but a few to leave.

SUBANDRIO

University Closed

SINGAPORE (UPI) — Indonesian authorities closed down the University of Indonesia today and put the campus under military control.

The new crackdown was the second move in five days in efforts to halt Indonesia's anti-Communist students from defying President Sukarno.

JAKARTA (Reuters) — Troops with fixed bayonets today forced 2,000 demonstrating school children away from Indonesia's foreign ministry as they shouted demands for the resignation of Dr. Subandrio.

Carrying effigies of the foreign minister, school children trying to enter the building were met by armed troops of the Jakarta garrison and police.

The troops drove them into a square 50 yards away, and then surrounded them with bayonets fixed and machine-guns at the ready.

The children shouted "Hang Subandrio," and "Subandrio Peking dog."

The demonstration was one of three staged today, all in defiance of a government ban.

WANT COMMUNISTS BANNED About 250 yards from the foreign ministry, 1,500 other school children demanded the resignation of Education Minister Sumardjo and a ban on the Indonesian Communist party.

Across the street, about 1,500 children were prevented by armed troops from entering the electricity ministry building where they demanded the resignation of the minister, Setiadi.

Sumardjo, dismissed from a minor official post in the anti-Communist purge after the abortive coup against President Sukarno Oct. 1, was given a ministerial appointment in a cabinet reshuffle last week.

Meanwhile, the minister for higher learning, Johannes Leimena, today closed the University of Indonesia, scene of large-scale demonstrations by the outlawed anti-Communist Indonesian Students Action Command (KAMI).

Sulking Sultan Blamed on Margaret

LONDON (AP) — The Daily Mirror says a deal to supply British arms to Saudi Arabia is in danger through what is described as a diplomatic blunder involving Princess Margaret.

The paper says Emir Salitan, the man who signed the arms deal for Saudi Arabia, had to travel economy class when the Princess and the Earl of Snowdon flew to Hong Kong Monday. The royal party took over the entire first-class compartment.

"Sulking with him were stunned and angered when there was no invitation to the king's brother to meet the Queen's sister," The Mirror says. "Emir Sultan stepped off at Beirut, Lebanon, with no acknowledgement from the royal party."

He is a brother of King Faisal. Britain recently contracted to supply the greater part of a new British-American air-defense system for Saudi Arabia believed to cost around $300,000,000.

HOTELMAN TURNS TABLE ON UNDERCOVER MAN

Ear's Beer Puts Mounties in a Froth

EDMONTON (CP) — RCMP said today they will seek permission from Ottawa to appeal the conviction of an RCMP agent fined for his actions while doing undercover work for the force.

Moses Ear, a treaty Indian and special constable for the RCMP, was convicted in police court Tuesday of possessing liquor off a reserve. He was fined $10 or one day.

Ear was instrumental in obtaining convictions against several hotel operators in the Smoky Lake, Alta., area for selling liquor to treaty Indians.

Hotel manager John Kinash of Smoky Lake, convicted on evidence obtained by Ear on such a charge, turned the tables on police. Under the Indian Act he charged Ear with possession of liquor off a reserve.

Ear purchased beer last November in Mr. Kinash's hotel and took it to a waiting police car.

Asst. Commissioner Tony Wonnacott, commanding officer of the RCMP's K Division here, said: "I can't see how the conviction can stand. We'll ask for an appeal."

Crown attorney J. A. Blonsky of Two Hills said the decision has far-reaching effects.

Divided Opinions

THE UNITED STATES CONGRESS this week overwhelmingly approved President Johnson's bill to increase appropriations for the armed forces—in effect to continue the build-up of the Viet Nam War.

But it was significant that about 75 members of the House of Representatives and 20 members of the Senate—most of them members of the president's own party—expressed grave reservations about the bill and made it clear they were not voting a mandate for a bigger war in Viet Nam. When the roll-call came only four representatives and two senators voted against the bill, but the measure of disquiet over American policy in Asia had been registered.

These dissenters, it should be made clear, are not the people who join in the "get out of Viet Nam" rallies, who want the United States to abandon the struggle to contain Chinese Communism. Instead they feel that they cannot support the president's war because they have not been adequately convinced that the United States has moved wisely and correctly in its overall policy in Southeast Asia. They deeply resent the use which has been made of the "blank cheque" drawn on Congress by the president in 1964 which has brought the country into a state of war but denied to Congress its right to initiate such a serious move.

One major problem faced by the president is to spell out in much more definite terms just what the American commitment in Viet Nam is. His task has not been made easier by the speech made by South Vietnamese Premier Ky in which the latter declared that his aim is to continue to fight until North Viet Nam is liberated by the South.

This statement by Marshal Ky, made following last month's Honolulu conference with Mr. Johnson, obviously presumes that American forces would back this objective although it is directly at odds with what the president has stated as his policy. It is this kind of situation which makes many observers nervous. Is the United States tied to an ally which it cannot control?

What many members of Congress seem to want—including some who voted for the armed forces bill—is for President Johnson to limit the risks in Viet Nam, to avoid the kind of escalation of the war which would draw American strength deeper into Asia, where it could be drained dry by superior force of numbers. However, although the president speaks very cautiously about the future of the war the escalation continues—with another 35,000 men committed yesterday—and there is no indication of where it will end.

A Stimulating Prospect

ANYONE WHO IMAGINED that the Centennial Square improvement and the Bastion Square project were about as far as the city should go in creating a better environment for residents and visitors will have received a sharp correction in yesterday's hint of a vast new commercial development proposal.

The suggested multi-million-dollar plan for a high-rise department store, office and apartment complex in the Douglas-Broad-View Streets area would constitute a badly needed rehabilitation program for the downtown section. It would provide a dramatic business focus for that part of the city, balancing the other concentrations near Centennial Square and farther north at the shopping plazas.

It is to be hoped that the company concerned will find it possible to translate the concept into a reality in the not too distant future.

It is not exaggerating to say that such a plan of construction would rejuvenate the business life of the city centre. But it is to be noted that it apparently would be dependent on city co-operation in establishing pedestrian malls. These have long been planned for parts of View and Broad Street, but the plans appear to have been shelved for some months now. The new concept would tie in nicely with the nearby Bastion Square reconstruction and it is to be hoped that city council and its planning officials will give an open-minded reception to proposals for malls and other improvements.

One thing is clear: we have taken excellent steps forward with the Centennial and Bastion programs, but our journey to an attractive and stimulating city environment has barely begun. Private property developments should rightly be a part of any improvement plans, but the city itself must create a favorable climate for such proposals and then see that worthy projects get the public support they deserve.

Those 'Loud-Mouthed Amateurs'

THE SENIOR EXECUTIVE OF one of Canada's biggest automobile corporations has chosen an unusual way to meet public demand for more built-in safety in modern cars.

He speaks of the "present rash of loud-mouthed amateurs who are sounding off about car safety."

The senior executive explains—as automobile interests have been explaining to American congressional committees without convincing them—that the industry is trying to do to increase safety. These efforts, he implies, are not receiving the appreciation they should.

"Now, all of a sudden," he adds, "automobile safety has zoomed into the public's attention."

The "zoom" has not been so sudden. The campaign to increase safety factors in the construction of automobiles has been going on for some time. The increased emphasis on the subject stems from the growing realization on the part of the public that it cannot condone, or take for granted, the mounting toll of slaughter on the roads. Hence "the present rash of loud-mouthed amateurs." These are the people who drive cars, who also buy them, and who are among those who are injured in highway accidents. They are not impressed by the industry's claims of dedication to the principles of safety in manufacture.

Of course, as the automotive spokesman points out, most highway accidents are attributable to human failure. But if the results of those mishaps could have been made less severe by built-in safety factors, then there appears to be every reason why amateurs should be encouraged in loud-mouthed demands for improvements that can be effected in manufacture.

Just conceivably such improvements might be no more costly than built-in stereo tapes for a musical ride—and might save a life.

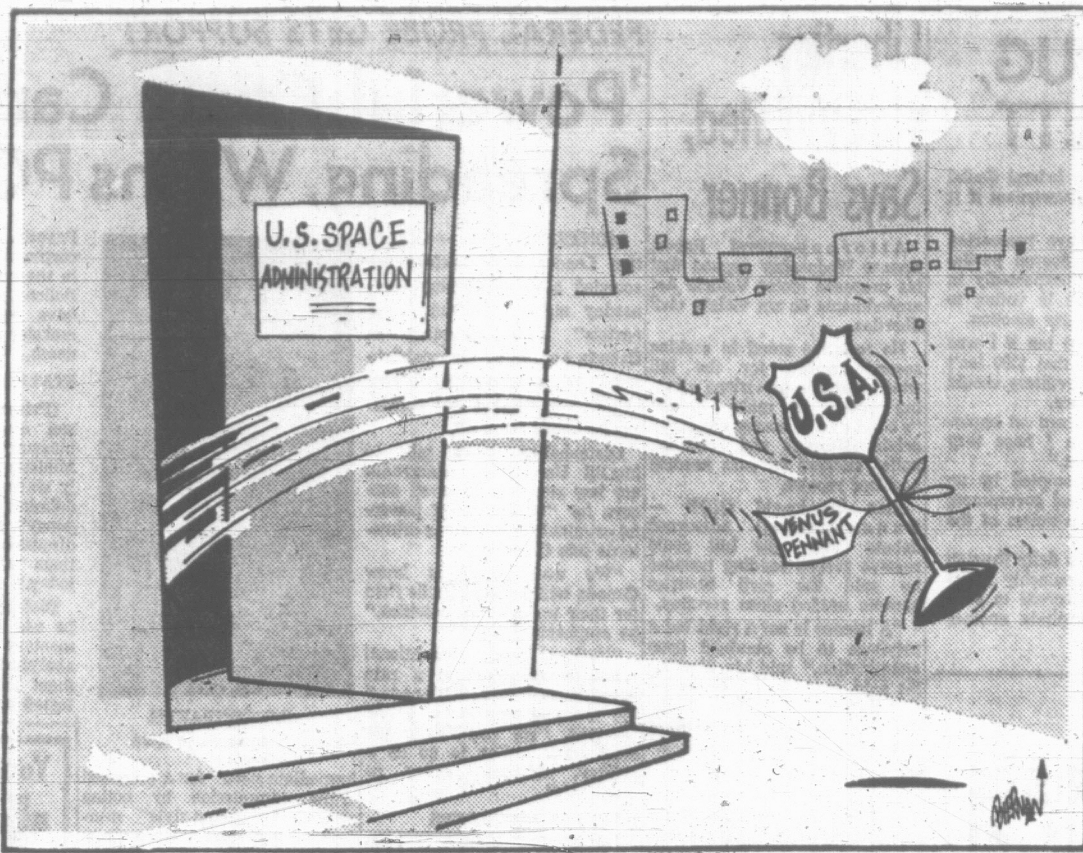

A Sort of 007ski

COL. RUDOLPH ABEL, Moscow's master spy, suggesting his profession as a possible career for young Russians, has issued a warning to those who may be interested.

"Intelligence," he says, "is not adventure, not a trick, not entertaining trips abroad, but primarily careful and difficult labor. It demands great powers, tension, persistence, will, self-control, serious knowledge, and great skill."

Who are you kidding, Rudy? We've seen the James Bond movies.

FROM WASHINGTON

Mr. Johnson and the Labor of Atlas

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

WHEN this reporter visited it a year ago Washington still basked in the magic of the Johnsonian consensus. True, there were trouble spots but under a newly-elected leader the United States was broadly united in purpose as in name, more united, perhaps, than it had ever been in modern times. Now all that has changed. The consensus is frayed at the edges and threatens to unravel at the centre. If the change represented only the usual end of a presidential honeymoon it would mean little. In fact, it represents something much larger, deeper and more disturbing.

Hutchison

The American people, as they speak through the great sounding board of their capital, are increasingly divided not only on the Viet Nam war but on their future place in the world. Even amid unexampled prosperity, an agonizing reassessment is quietly under way, compounded of frustration, of friends' ingratitude, of disappointed hopes abroad and unexpected trials at home. As seldom in its history the United States feels deserted and alone.

Therein lie appalling dangers for the world, and especially for the United States' allies, of which Canada is the closest and most vulnerable. No psychologist can hope to analyze the full mind and, more important, the feelings of a diverse and highly emotional nation. But after talking at length to some of its leading figures in government and legislature, I think the basic state of the Union can be simply explained.

Troubled Questioning

A people who twice saved Europe from conquest, who re-built it at huge cost, who lately helped to rescue Britain and Canada from bankruptcy, who poured their treasure into poor lands all over the globe, who now stand between millions of human beings and early starvation, whose sons are dying in the jungles of Asia for a cause which they consider just—these people have begun to ask themselves whether the task of leading and supporting the free world is within their means, or within their duty to mankind.

As one of the most influential men in the Congress put it to me: "We don't really want it, because love is a two-sided affair and you must always pay it back. We don't expect much gratitude, either. All we want is a little understanding, a little respect for our motives in spite of our mistakes, and we're not getting even that. So where do we go from here? Maybe you foreigners should be thinking about these things, too, while there's still time."

This prevailing mood of disenchantment may pass later on, the American people being notoriously mercurial, but it is deepening at present and may produce serious consequences for all of us. Of course it is absurd to say, as some Americans and foreigners do, that the United States, rebuffed by its friends and disappointed by its failures, will retreat some day to its old isolation. No retreat on that scale is possible.

Yet this side of the final nightmare it is quite possible for the United States to turn sour, petulant and intractable, to abandon its natural generosity and idealism, to reduce its worldwide efforts of foreign aid and, under the pinpricks and the insatiable demands of its friends, to become an unfriendly instead of a friendly giant. Not far down that road the free world would meet a crisis beyond its management, and its enemies would be given their first chance of victory.

Strangely enough—a masterpiece of irony—the most solid and vital fact underpinning the United States' world posture at the moment is its unspoken alliance with communist Russia. Only the two giants' tacit agreement that they can never afford to fight each other has forestalled mankind's suicide long before now.

Severe Strains

But can the alliance endure the strains of the Viet Nam war if it spreads toward China? Even short of a big Asiatic war must the American-Russian rapprochement, the world's best hope, be undermined at the very time when it seemed to be succeeding beyond expectation?

Such is the ultimate question that divides the president and the entire establishment of Washington in two distinct camps, cutting cleanly across party lines.

Again with tantalizing irony, the fear that President Johnson may risk the world's peace, not by will but by miscalculation, is centred in his own party. The unequalled master of consensus finds half the Senate doubtful, in varying degrees, about his policy in Asia and most of the doubters are Democrats.

Not many presidents, perhaps only Lincoln, his idol, have faced anything like the harsh, bewildering decision that Mr. Johnson alone can make.

In two world wars, and in Korea also, the contemporary president had a united people at his back and, behind them, a host of strong, willing allies. It is different today.

Those allies, with few exceptions, are absent and some of them, like France, are hostile. In the test of another big war, if it comes to that, undoubtedly the American people will follow their president and their flag. But in the twilight zone between war and peace, when they are asked to accept something less than outright victory, as they have known it in all previous wars, the people are thinking not only about the crisis area of southeast Asia but far beyond it.

They have begun to see that with all their power they cannot control, and have no wish to control, a demented world. What, then, is their proper and practical role in a situation completely unforeseen and far removed from their earlier assumptions?

This puzzle, though generally blurred in public debate, is the real focus of President Johnson's problems, almost too numerous and heavy for human flesh to bear. Certainly neither he nor any other man can give a quick answer to the puzzle which will answer itself, in time, not as he wills but as the free democratic process decides, wisely or unwisely.

Events Govern

At least he knows that the common fate of all his more eminent predecessors has overtaken him already. As Lincoln once said, events much more than his own calculations must govern any president in a time of crisis. And events are not going the way Mr. Johnson had hoped. For the most part they are going in precisely the opposite direction.

He is a domestic leader of proved political genius, above all, a man of peace who had planned a make a career of social reform, to build a Great Society and share its boundless wealth with humanity. Yet all those plans are imperilled in a tiny, distant nation whose name was hardly known to the average American 10 years ago.

FROM LONDON

By MARTIN DEWEY

TO the surprise of no one, Prime Minister Harold Wilson has called his election. He has done so, moreover, for the same reason that Prime Minister Lester Pearson called his election last November. It is not that Mr. Wilson has been prevented from governing. He has been getting his important legislation through despite the limitations of a three-seat parliamentary majority, just as Mr. Pearson was getting his legislation through with a minority.

Dewey

But like Mr. Pearson before him, Mr. Wilson doesn't like having to govern on a shoestring and has gambled that an election will bring the government back with a healthy majority.

Unlike Mr. Pearson, Mr. Wilson can be expected to win his gamble. This is not merely because the opinion polls have been showing a consistently strong Labor lead over the Conservatives (39 per cent at last count). Nor is it just because the Conservatives have so far failed to find their feet under the leadership of Edward Heath. Nor, indeed, is it because of signs that a growing number of Liberals are tired of kicking a dead horse and have begun to drift over to Labor.

These indications are all important factors in the calculations, of course, but then the message of the Canadian opinion polls and the state of Canada's opposition parties seemed to present the same sort of opportunities when Mr. Pearson decided to take his ill-fated plunge.

Ominous Parallel

The Canadian experience has doubtless shown Mr. Wilson that the opinion polls are especially unreliable, because the one thing they can't take into account beforehand is the effect of the election announcement itself. In this respect, moreover, Mr. Wilson cannot have failed to note another ominous parallel between the British and Canadian situations.

Like Mr. Pearson last autumn, Mr. Wilson cannot plead with any conviction that he was forced to go to the polls. He will dress the election in all sorts of life-or-death issues, of course. But if the Conservatives are on their toes he will not be permitted to conceal the fact that the election was called for the good of the Labor government rather than the good of the country in any direct sense. And, as Mr. Pearson learned, the people don't generally like having to go through all the fuss and expense of an off-year election for reasons that are, at heart, primarily political.

Prime Minister's Appeal

Even allowing for this, however, Mr. Wilson should still be able to pull it off. Why? Because, as the Conservative-leaning Economist has charged and the government-leaning New Statesman has admitted, Britain is in for a presidential-style election. In a manner unprecedented since the ascendancy of Sir Winston Churchill, it will be the prime minister going to the country rather than the party.

"On the Labor side," reports the New Statesman, "there is a great deal of bustling talk about the possible campaign issues: the program so far achieved and the attractive social legislation pending. But, whatever the words on the leaflets, MPs know that the win-

Centennial

They came from soft Red Devon, they came from the noisy Tyne, They came from where the "shattering Wyre" fights with the salty brine.

They came from Scottish moorlands, from homes where the peatfires reek.

They came from hilly Derbyshire, with its caverns and its Peak.

They came from grand Snowdonia, where the Welsh songs sound so sweet.

They came from towering Cornish cliffs, where legend and history meet.

They came from green "auld Erin," where fairies and pixies dwell, They came from shire and counties, far more than we've time to tell.

They came to a strange, wild land, where all, if they wished to live, Put their hands to the axe and plough and sought of their best to give.

But it seems that our present leaders think we've lost our spunk and "go", And they want to hire aliens to stage our Centennial show.

Are there none who are able among us our glorious story to tell? Then we need no Centennial Pageant, but only a toiling bell.

From The Times of March 3, 1966:

Police Magistrate Hall was engaged the whole forenoon hearing a case of assault—Ottawa vs. Morgan. The litigants are neighbors living in the Foul Bay district. In the one household is a dog, in the other, a cat. The evidence went to show that the dog got after the cat, and a stone got after the dog, and the proprietor of the canine got after the owner of the feline and there was a general mix-up in which one of the children of one of the parties got slapped. The case was dismissed.

Bill Considers Alcoholism As Sickness

Recognition of chronic alcoholism as an illness is embodied in an amendment of the Summary Convictions Act, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said Wednesday in the legislature.

If the amendment passes the house it will enable courts to exercise the option, "at the discretion of probation officers, to require a man to undertake a variety of regimens to break him of his chronic alcoholism."

Mr. Bonner was referring to the "profitless cycle" of drunks who go before police magistrates, are sentenced for being intoxicated in a public place, are sent jail, serve their time and return to their haunts to repeat the process.

He said such agencies as the Salvation Army, Alcoholics Anonymous and the government's Alouette River alcoholism unit would be employed in passing sentence on convicted persons.

Mr. Bonner said the problem is particularly evident in Vancouver as it effects "the unhappy inhabitants of what is called the Skid Road district."

The bill would permit a "departure from the old conviction and incarceration procedure," the attorney-general said.

Debate was adjourned by Gordon Dowding (NDP—Burnaby), who said the bill requires "considerable study."

The legislature also gave second reading with little or no discussion to government bills intended to protect the job rights of pregnant female employees, provide eight statutory holidays for most workers and improve the Factories Act.

ROBBERS 'KNEW WHAT THEY WERE DOING'

Finger Print Found In Stolen Truck

WINNIPEG (CP)—The gang that staged Tuesday's $450,000 gold theft from the Winnipeg International Airport may have provided police with a lead—a fingerprint left in the getaway truck.

"We found a latent print in the truck and if its worth it, we'll send it to Ottawa for identification," Police Chief George Maltby of the Greater Winnipeg city of St. James said Wednesday night.

Two men, driving a stolen Air Canada panel truck and dressed in standard ramp crew clothing, whisked away the gold shipment in five minutes.

"I wasn't at all suspicious," said Glen Shrimpton, 34, one of three men who helped unload the gold from the DC-3 aircraft after it landed at the airport Tuesday night from the northwestern Ontario mining community of Red Lake. The other helpers were John Workman and Charles Waters.

"We joked about the weather and the weight of the boxes—just making every-day small talk. They definitely knew what they were doing," said Shrimpton who was in charge of removing the gold from the cargo compartment of the aircraft.

HEADED FOR MINT
The shipment was going from Red Lake to the mint in Ottawa. It was to have been transported to Ottawa via Air Canada.

The TransAir freight crew said the shipment—12 gold bars individually packaged in bonded and sealed wooden cases—were being removed from the aircraft when the two men arrived.

Everybody got busy loading the gold into the truck after the necessary freight bills were signed and "that was when the gold was last seen," said a TransAir spokesman.

A few hours later the truck was found empty about half a mile south of the terminal building but still on department of transport property.

The truck was taken to the St. James police garage two miles away where detectives began a search for clues that lasted well into the night.

QUESTION EMPLOYEES
Chief Maltby said employees "at or near" the airport are being questioned around the clock by members of his force and RCMP officers.

Company to 'Protect' Quintuplets

EAST LONDON (Reuters)—A company has been formed to "promote and protect the interests" of South Africa's six-day-old quintuplets and a contract has been signed with their illiterate father, the East London English-language Daily Dispatch says.

The contract vests in the company all television, newsreel, picture, publicity, and advertising commercial rights relating to the whole family—with the family to get not less than half the net proceeds.

Chairman of the company is I. D. Ross-Thompson, managing director of The Dispatch.

East London City Council has already given the quint's father, Tsimi Mtshutse, 42, a rent-free four-room house. Mtshutse has been working at East London power station for eight rand ($11.20) a week.

The quint's and their mother are reported doing well in hospital here.

By CHARLES C. CAIN

DETROIT (AP)—Leaders of the U.S. auto industry breathed a sigh of relief today after getting their first look at President Johnson's long-awaited traffic safety program.

"This is a reasonable proposal and we can live with it," said one industry source. He, along with others in the industry who discussed the program, declined use of his name.

The president's 17-page proposal sent to Congress Wednesday called for a $700,000,000, six-year program to arrest what he called "carnage on the highways."

Officials from all four major U.S. auto makers attended a Washington briefing session held by Commerce Secretary John T. Conner Wednesday in advance of public announcement of the Johnson message.

Among them were James Roche, president of General Motors; Lynn A. Townsend, president of Chrysler; Richard E. Cross, chairman of American Motors and John A. Bugas, vice-president of Ford Motor Co.

The auto industry had known for several months that President Johnson, concerned over the nation's 49,000 traffic fatalities last year, was going to add his voice to the cause of auto safety.

Some industry leaders had expressed fears federal intervention in the safety program would result in government controls of the auto business.

GM President Roche, for example, said recently: "Regulation would have a severe and adverse effect on our business. It would substitute rigidity for flexibility, bureaucratic approval for public approval."

Senator Abraham Ribicoff (Dem., Conn.), whose subcommittee has held numerous hearings on auto safety, said it would take a year to get the Johnson message put into effect by law.

He called the Johnson proposal a major victory for advocates of auto safety but said that five years could elapse and 20,000,000 cars could be built before auto safety standards take effect.

The general feeling was, however, that the auto companies if they do have such a five-year grace period—would see that safety ideas were put into use before the federal government made up their minds for them.

In brief, the Johnson message called for:

—An authorization, but not a requirement, to the commerce secretary to determine safety criteria for all vehicles.

—An increase in federal grants to states for highway safety projects.

—An expansion of the federal government's highway safety research efforts, including a national highway safety research and test centre.

The timetable provided that if the industry does not adopt voluntary safety standards for motor vehicles within two years after the commerce secretary has suggested them, the secretary then could prescribe mandatory standards which would take effect two years later.

Laurentide Cuts Dividend Rate

VANCOUVER (CP)—Sharply reduced per share earnings and a reduction in the dividend rate were announced Wednesday by Laurentide Financial Corp. Ltd.

The big Canadian finance company, with offices in Canada, the United States and Europe, blamed "sharply increased money costs and difficult industry conditions" for the reductions.

The board of directors also announced the appointment of Maurice F. Strong, president of Power Corp. of Canada Ltd., as chairman. Power Corp. is a major shareholder in Laurentide.

Net income for the six months

ended Dec. 31, 1965, was $1,700,882 or 38 cents per share, compared to $1,855,664 or 73 cents in the corresponding period of 1964, said president Peter Paul Saunders.

A quarterly dividend of 10 cents per common share was declared. The dividend in the previous quarter was 20 cents.

Saunders said the reduction in the dividend rate was "the prudent course to follow in light of the first six months earnings and the probability of continued high money costs in the foreseeable future."

RICH MINING POSSIBILITIES—in the underwater areas were described to delegates to the first offshore exploration conference held recently at Long Beach, Calif. Scientists viewed this artist's conception of how deep submersibles could be used for mining manganese or phosphorite nodules under water. The complex "harvester" in foreground collects nodules, washing out red clay or other useless sediments on conveyor belt, then transports them into holds of an underwater transport.

Shipments Of Grain Near High

VANCOUVER (CP)—Grain exports through Vancouver and other B.C. ports from the prairies totalled 21,683,560 bushels during February, one of the largest single-month volumes ever.

Vancouver shipped the largest volume, 18,393,189 bushels, totals released showed. Prince Rupert was second with 1,477,466 bushels, Victoria was third with 1,112,905 bushels and New Westminster fourth with 700,000 bushels.

Last month's quota is close to the record set in January, 1964, when 25,800,000 bushels left B.C., 22,000,000 bushels through Vancouver alone.

Grain company spokesmen credited last month's large volume to improvements in rail-road freighting arrangements at Calgary and Vancouver. The CPR assigned 3,000 boxcars to grain hauling in January.

Last week shipments from Alberta reached a high point when 700,000 bushels were delivered at Field for continuation to Vancouver. The string of boxcars stretched four miles.

PENSION PLAN POOL

Nine Provinces Get $35 Million

OTTAWA (CP)—Nine provinces have been allotted nearly $35,000,000 out of the Canada Pension Plan pool of contributions, Finance Minister Sharp announced in the Commons Wednesday.

Quebec operates a similar but separate pension plan and does not receive investments from the federal plan.

Sharp said after deducting administrative costs, a total of $34,852,909 was left at the end of February, for investment in provincial and federal securities.

Ontario was allotted $20,100,000 and the eight other provinces smaller amounts based on pension contributions from each province. The federal government received $101,909 in contributions from the Yukon and Northwest Territories.

Mr. Sharp said the non-marketable, 20-year securities purchased by the pension plan fund will bear interest at 5.92 per cent.

Similar investments will be made each month from now on. The plan went into force Jan. 1.

J. Waldo Monteith (PC—Perth) said Sharp had conveniently neglected to mention that the Liberals spent $2,000,000 out of the fund to advertise the pension plan during last fall's election campaign.

Gilles Gregoire (Creditiste—Lapointe) said the provinces should get the money free of interest. Another burden was being added to their debts.

Allotments for the other eight provinces were: Newfoundland $855,000; Prince Edward Island $108,000; Nova Scotia $1,248,000; New Brunswick $972,000; Manitoba $2,077,000; Saskatchewan $1,432,000; Alberta $3,064,000; and British Columbia $5,085,000.

Manicure for Men
Several new-comers to our city often expressed their wonder that Victoria lacked a barber-shop where men could get their hands manicured. More than one old-timer assured us that decades ago (long before we took over) our own shop had even two manicurists employed. Our Miss Smith is a certified manicurist ready to give your hands professional care. Several men already have welcomed this added service. It won't take much extra time to have your hands done if you arrange your haircut at the same time. Please phone 385-2855 for an appointment.

Victoria High School on Wednesday held its annual and long-established vocation day, an occasion designed to let students know what's waiting for them out there when they get it made in there.

To what extent these eleventh and twelfth-graders will benefit from the advice and information showered on them by guest speakers, only time can make plain. However, "I can testify that we representatives of 45 vocations and professions enjoyed ourselves considerably."

It's always pleasant to be asked to give advice, especially to a young audience gathered in a room from which it can't readily escape, and I expect Vic High ears will be buzzing for many a day.

Students sign up for a talk on the career that most interests them. This year, top scores went to registered and practical nursing for girls, with 59 signatures, and science research for boys (41). In mixed groups, psychiatry and psychology rated a whopping 50, and interior decorating, 42. Forty-one girls plunked for airline stewardess, and thirty-five boys for business machine application.

Of an original 50 vocations, five were scratched. No speaker was available for mechanical engineering. The ministry, Christian vocations for girls, and librarian drew only two students each.

Fire department rated four, and printing—to my surprise—only one boy.

A couple of us arrived at the school early. Too early in fact. A period had just ended, and a disciplined horde filled the corridors. Keeping well to the side, we skirted this wave of the future and took shelter in a staff room.

There we found a table or two, some chairs, the first crockery board I've seen in many a year, and several others of our kind. All eluted briefcases or sheafs of notes and looked ever so slightly uneasy.

Among those present when I got there was another wave of the future in the amiable person of an IBM man. Next to show up was a hairdresser who spent his boyhood in Hungary, and as a result of his experiences under the Communist thumb, feels that Canadians worry too much about too little.

Presently in came a doctor, a lawyer, a man from the department of mines and an RCMP officer who carried an intriguing brown-leather bag. Butcher and baker were absent, and I didn't notice anyone who looked like a candlestick maker. Even so, when the emissaries were shepherded out for a group photograph, we filled the corridor pretty solidly ourselves.

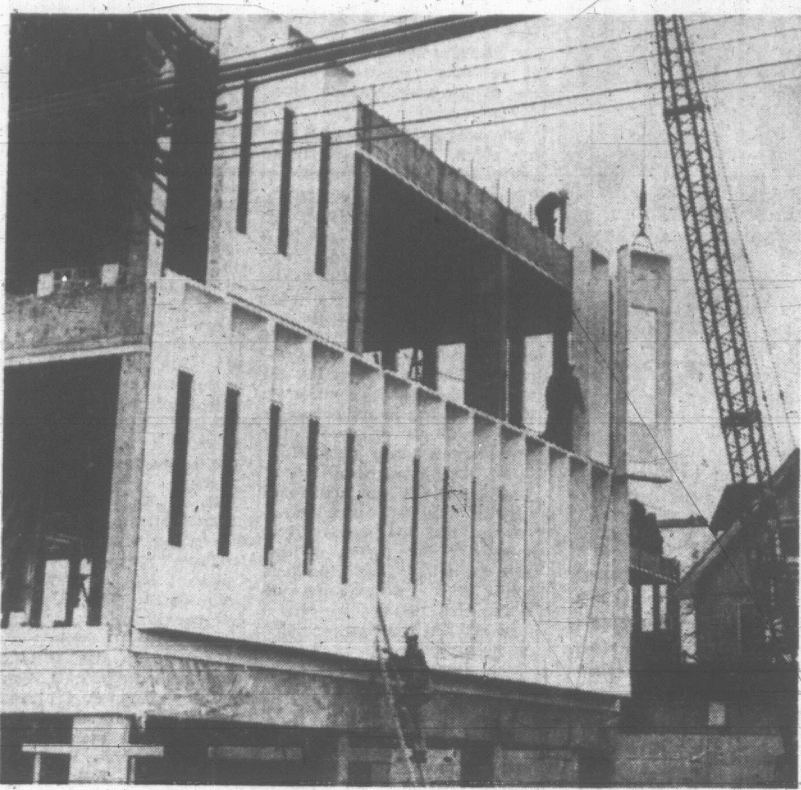

So to the school rooms where our respective flocks waited.

Mine numbered about 12 boys and girls, very polite and solemn on the outside and each with the steady, disconcerting gaze of their years. From such as these, by way of their school publications and university papers, will come your newspaper men and women of the future.

They listened patiently for most of an hour, by which time I was pretty well out of wind, and a few even sacrificed part of their lunchtime to stay on and ask questions. It is, I think, worth noting by the critics of today's young that these teen-agers didn't appear to be much concerned over hours of work and only mildly interested in how much they'd earn.

They wanted to know what they'd be doing and how best they could do it when they went on a paper, and I came away with a comfortable feeling that the press may have some worthwhile recruits in the making.

On one point I remain curious. I'd like to know from adults who took part in a vocation day as students whether information and advice about an occupation actually helped steer them into it. If matters worked out so in your case, a note or a call would be welcome.

MUSEUM CEREMONY MARCH 19

Queen Mother to Lay Cornerstone

Queen Mother Elizabeth will spend 1½ days in Victoria and appear at a public ceremony, on Saturday, March 19, Premier Bennett announced today.

The Queen Mother will visit the B.C. capital on her way to Australia and New Zealand for a royal tour and she will visit Vancouver on her way back in May.

The visit was heralded as a

Centennial Year event in the Jan. 27 Throne Speech.

The Queen Mother will touch down at Ottawa for a brief refuelling stop March 18 and arrive in Vancouver at 4:30 p.m. the same day where she will be welcomed to B.C. by Lieutenant-governor and Mrs. George Pearkes and Premier and Mrs. Bennett.

She will fly to Victoria almost immediately in their company and will spend Friday night in Government House. Saturday morning will be free for her.

Saturday afternoon, she will visit the Parliament Buildings where the MLAs will be presented to her.

NEW MUSEUM
After the presentation, there will be a ceremony at the Centennial Museum complex across Government Street where the Queen Mother will lay the main building's cornerstone.

That night, she will resume her flight to Australia.

May 4, the Queen Mother will arrive back in Vancouver. She will visit the Vancouver City Hall and have lunch with Mr. and Mrs. Pearkes before continuing her trip home to England.

THIEVES HAVE EAR FOR MUSIC

Thieves got about $1,400 in cash and equipment from Hudson's Tape Recording Centre, 1543 Fort, in a break-in Wednesday night.

Police said a rear door was forced open by a crowbar to gain entry.

They stole three tape machines—valued at $1,155, a portable radio worth $80 and 15 tapes valued at $120.

Also taken was $60 from a cash box in a desk drawer, police said.

Woman Bought New Car

A woman pleaded guilty in central court today to forging a $3,800 cheque two years ago.

Court was told Mrs. Edna Marie Petrat, 27, of 1705 Cook, used the money to purchase a new car July 30, 1964.

She was remanded to March 11 for pre-sentence report and sentence.

Mrs. Petrat told police she had been waiting for them to come and get her since she forged the cheque.

Court was told she was an employee of Montreal Trust which handled the affairs of Margaret Strathy, 81, who lives in a nursing home.

Police said Mrs. Petrat used samples of the elderly woman's signature to forge the cheque.

Then she went to the Government Street branch of the Royal Bank and had it certified.

From there she went to the Douglas Street branch of the Bank of Montreal and received thirty-eight $100 bills.

TRADE-IN
Then she and her husband, Albert, who now lives apart from her, went to Empress Motors where they traded in a 1953 Buick for a 1964 Buick.

She paid $3,700 for the new car and received $550 for her trade-in, police said.

Det. Walter Calwell, who arrested her, said the Royal Bank has accepted the $3,800 loss and the auto is currently registered to her husband.

MAN PAYS $140 FINES FOR PARKING

A man with 28 parking violations was fined $140 plus $3.50 costs in central court today.

Alexander White, 1405 Cook, pleaded guilty and was fined $5 on each charge.

The offences occurred between August of last year and February, most of them on Humboldt St. between Douglas and Government.

"One would almost suspect you bought some of those streets from the city," commented Magistrate William Ostler.

Year to Paint, Study Literature Won by Uvic Pair

Two University of Victoria professors have been awarded Canada Council grants: one to paint in London and New York and the other to do research in California on English literature of the Renaissance.

Dr. Burton Kurth, an associate professor of English, and Donald Harvey, an assistant professor of fine arts, are two of only 25 Canadian writers, painters and musicians to be given this year's arts fellowships, senior awards of the Canada Council.

Mr. Harvey will use his grant for a period of uninterrupted painting abroad. He said he is going to London and New York because "these are the major centres of painting activity. These places are where the action is."

Dr. Kurth will use his grant for study of symbolic and realistic modes in English literature in the period around 1600.

Most of his work will be done at the Huntington Library in San Marino, Calif.

Mr. Harvey plans to leave the city in late April and Dr. Kurth will go away in May or June. Both will be back at the University of Victoria by fall 1967.

Dr. Kurth is a specialist in Renaissance literature. He has published a book on Milton and Christian Heroism and a textbook for undergraduates called Writing from Experience as well as numerous reviews and articles in learned journals.

Born in Winnipeg, Dr. Kurth grew up in Vancouver and graduated from the University of B.C. He did post-graduate work at the University of California at Berkeley and wrote his PhD thesis on Milton. He taught for six years at the University of Southern California before coming to Uvic in 1961.

EXPRESSIONISM
Mr. Harvey has been noted in the past as a painter in the abstract expressionist mode but recently his work has become more hard-edged. His work is in the permanent collection of the National Gallery of Canada, the new Confederation Gallery at Charlottetown, P.E.I., Montreal Museum of Fine Arts, University of Victoria and Victoria Art Gallery.

The 35-year-old artist is an Englishman. He taught painting in Wales and at Durham University in England, then spent a year painting in Spain and Sicily before coming to Canada in 1958.

For three years he was executive secretary of the Saskatchewan Arts Board and since 1961 he has been at Uvic.

Big Splash Saturday At Yarrow's

The mammoth newspaper barge Nanosue Carrier—capable of carrying in one load enough newspaper to stretch more than twice round the world—will be launched at Yarrow's Ltd. Saturday.

The Nanosue Carrier, along with her sister barge Nootka Carrier, already launched, is the largest covered barge in the world.

Built for MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd., the Nanosue Carrier will be named by Mrs. E. G. Shorter, wife of the company's vice-chairman.

Both barges are 356 feet long, 82 feet wide and 22 feet deep and can carry 7,000 tons at 14 feet 1 inch load draft.

FOOTBALL FIELD

The huge deckhouse which houses the paper rolls has clear deck space longer than a football field and is loaded through four vertically sliding watertight cargo doors operated by hydraulic rams.

The roof is insulated to eliminate paper-damaging condensation and extractor fans have been fitted into specially designed ventilator tops.

The two barges will ply between Port Alberni and Powell River pulp mills and Long Beach and San Francisco, Calif.

They will be towed by the 140-foot Haida Brave, one of the largest tugs ever built in Canada. One barge will be loading while the other is en route.

The Haida Brave, built in Halifax, will sail the first week in April for B.C. via the Panama Canal.

Cost of the two barges is approximately $2,500,000 and the tug around $1,250,000.

Saturday's launching ceremonies will be at 3 p.m.

FULTON TO JOIN TORY PANEL ON CANADA UNITY PROBLEMS

British Columbia Conservatives will discuss problems of national unity and the division of federal and provincial responsibilities at their provincial convention March 11 to 13 in New Westminster.

Taking part in a panel discussion on these topics will be Davie Fulton, a former justice minister; Roger Reginbal, a Tory MP from Quebec, and a third speaker yet to be named. George Chatterton, MP for Esquimalt-Saanich, will take part in another panel discussion during the convention at Royal Towers Hotel.

John Diefenbaker, the party's national leader, will address the annual dinner meeting March 12.

Grass to Talk, Brass to Hear At Grit Session

The "grass" will encounter the "brass" when B.C. Liberals meet in Victoria at the weekend.

Four "brass hats" from Ottawa will face the "grass roots" of the party in an open, no-questions-barred quiz session during the biennial convention at the Empress Hotel.

Party officials hope that by reversing the usual routine of political conventions, where members traditionally "get the word" from leaders, party supporters will be able to meaningfully take part in policy formulation.

POLICY FORMULATION

Facing the questioners will be Transport Minister Jack Pickersill and Defence Minister Paul Hellyer along with the two cabinet ministers from British Columbia, Northern Affairs Minister Art Laing and Labor Minister John Nicholson.

The attempt to foster more involvement by party members extends into the handling of resolutions. Normally constituency resolutions are handled by a committee that can choke off embarrassing or controversial recommendations that party leaders don't want to have discussed.

But this time delegates themselves will take part in workshops to examine the handling of resolutions by the committee.

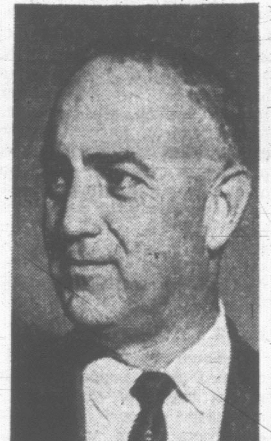

Delegates are expected to raise some controversial matters. There appears to be widespread support for resolutions dealing with abortion, birth control and divorce.

SWEETSTAKES

Other resolutions favor establishment of sweetstakes for hospital and charity purposes, freer trade around the Pacific, the creation of Garibaldi as a national park, raising the driver's age to 17 and support for a non-politically oriented Bank of B.C.

Party officials expect that speculation of an early provincial election will make discussion on policy and organization sharper than usual with delegates anxious to "get things done."

Provincial Liberal Leader Ray Perrault will be the keynote speaker of the convention at 12:15 p.m. Friday. The cabinet ministers' quiz session will be held after lunch Saturday and Defence Minister Hellyer will be the speaker at a windup banquet Saturday night.

NEW TRAFFIC INSPECTOR

Emergency Calls Show Increase At Hospitals

The number of emergency patients treated at city hospitals in February was significantly higher than the total in the same month a year ago.

At St. Joseph's Hospital there were 1,379 emergency treatments, an increase of 195 over last year's figure. At Royal Jubilee Hospital 839 persons were given emergency treatment, an increase of 70.

Traffic accidents accounted for 42 cases at St. Joseph's and 55 at Royal Jubilee. In the preceding month there were 56 traffic cases at St. Joseph's and 56 at Royal Jubilee.

St. Joseph's Hospital last month released 1,163 emergency patients immediately after treatment and admitted 216 for further care. Comparable statistics are not available for Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Driver Fined $300 On Impaired Count

Jack McNeill, 10980 Madrona Dr., Sidney, was fined $300 and had his licence suspended in central court today when he pleaded guilty to impaired driving on Blanshard Street earlier today.

Esquimalt Shuns Role In Stadium

Esquimalt will share the construction costs of a Centennial sports stadium on the University of Victoria campus. But it wants no part of controlling the operation of the stadium once the project is completed.

Reeve Ray Bryant made the announcement at a special meeting of all municipal councils in the Greater Victoria area held Wednesday night in Saanich municipal hall.

The press was excluded from the meeting after Coun. J. D. Watts, Oak Bay, moved that the meeting be closed.

No reasons were given for the need for private discussion. Following the meeting Ald. Hugh Stephen and Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow expressed regret that the meeting was held behind closed doors.

Mayor A. W. Toone was chairman of the meeting.

SHARE CONTROL

Victoria, Saanich and Oak Bay will share control and operating costs of the stadium for five years after which a new agreement will be negotiated.

Estimated annual costs of operating the stadium have been set at $10,000.

A control committee of eight will look after the operation with each municipal council having one representative. The other members will come from the university, four members, and the Victoria Sports Council, one member.

Firemen Seek Conciliator In Deadlock

Victoria city firemen have asked for the appointment of a government conciliator in an attempt to break the contract negotiation deadlock with the city.

It is expected that the policemen's union and the inside workers at city hall, also attempting to negotiate new contracts with the city, will follow the firemen's lead.

Wednesday the Carpenter's Union called for an intermediary in their dispute with 275 British Columbia construction firms.

Eaton Statement on Expansion Story

The T. Eaton Co. Ltd. issued the following statement today following publication of a story in Wednesday's Times forecasting major expansion of the company's store in the city:

"We wish to state that there are no immediate plans underway for this or any other type of development in Victoria at this time."

Integration of Indian Children Set for Saanich Kindergartens

Saanich school board will encourage enrolment of Indian children into its kindergarten classes next September.

The integration will be permitted on three conditions: That there is sufficient room in the classes.

That the department of Indian Affairs pay the $250 annual fee for each child.

And that the Indian children be distributed evenly among the four kindergarten classes with the federal government paying a transportation costs which may be incurred. First kindergarten classes in School District 63 will be opened at Sidney, Brentwood, Cordova Bay and Royal Oak elementary schools. Two half-day classes of 30 students each will be held at each school.

Integration of the Indian children into the classes was warmly supported by E. A. McEllan, district superintendent.

The kindergarten level is the proper place to start if the Indian youngsters are to be integrated into the public school system, he said.

The later the integration starts in the child's life "the longer the backlog of missed opportunities," he said. Mr. McEllan said it is essential for Indian children to be enrolled in equal numbers in each class to achieve even integration.

WED 60 YEARS

Honor Ganges Couple

More than 100 guests gathered in "Galleon," the Salt Spring Island home of Mr. and Mrs. Graham Shove, Sunday to honor Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Speed, Ganges. The couple was celebrating their diamond wedding anniversary.

They were married in Bristol, England, on Feb. 27, 1906, and moved to Salt Spring Island one year later. Mr. Speed was local tax assessor and served as trustee on school and hospital boards on the island and also as warden of St. Mark's Anglican Church. Mrs. Speed is a charter member of HMS Ganges Chapter, IODE, and served for several years as a Brownie leader, and was active in church guilds and community welfare work.

Red roses and pink carnations in corsage, a gift of the hosts' grandchildren in Halifax, was presented to Mrs. Speed by Mrs. Donald Corbett. Mr. Speed received a red rose boutonniere.

Mrs. C. D. Devine made the wedding cake, topped with red rosebuds, which centred the

Lt.-Col. D. G. Crofton proposed a toast to Mrs. Speed and read telegrams sent from Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth. His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, Prime Minister Lester Pearson, Premier W. A. C. Bennett,

Self-Help Within Community Hope for Aged, Says Panel

The urgent necessity to integrate the elderly with society and to provide means for them to prove themselves useful, to have something to look forward to and live for, was the main point emphasized by all four members of a panel, Monday evening.

Discussing "Aged — Hopeless or Hopeful," at the annual meeting of the Provincial Council of Women in the Empress Hotel, all the panel members had been delegates to the recent Conference on Aging held in Toronto. They included Frank Heaton, administrator of social services, Saanich; Mrs. H. H. Steen, National Council of Women president, Vancouver; Mrs. Catherine Horne, executive director, Victoria Silver Threads Society; and Dr. Gerald Bonham, medical officer of the North Shore Health Unit, North Vancouver.

"RE-ACTIVATION"

Speaking on care for the aged provided by Saanich municipality, Mr. Heaton viewed the "re-activation" program in one Saanich-owned private hospital for elderly and chronic patients.

"A series of exercises, planned by a physiotherapist is geared to the ability of the patient and is a major portion of the program. Some individuals because of rigidity cannot take part, but gain diversional therapy by watching."

"Classes in arts and crafts are offered and during afternoons the patients play bingo! This (re-activation) gives them something to look forward to, a different outlook. As a result, some who haven't walked in two and even four years, are now moving about — some with the help of a walker — but they are walking and taking an interest. "But the main idea of these crafts and exercises is that the people are doing it themselves." Some, he noted, have become well enough to be moved to a home where a similar program is carried out."

Beside nursing and house keeping services are also provided by the municipality. Another new service, to begin this month is "meals on wheels" which insures the elderly have one hot nutritious meal a day, five days a week. This is completely staffed by volunteer workers and meals are prepared by a qualified dietician at a hospital.

Mr. Heaton stressed the main theme of the panel and the recent conference: "Old people aren't useless; things can be done for them to help themselves."

Plans for the elderly must be geared so they are "giving" to society, said Mrs. Horne. She mentioned that the Silver Threads Centre is run by the members themselves, with only guidance from staff. There are four programs provided, including recreation, counselling, co-ordination and a volunteer corps.

HELP FREELY GIVEN

Services include counselling on personal or practical problems; mental and dental services for those on limited budgets; legal and real estate advice, plus opportunities for all types of recreation — dancing, bowling, tours, or crafts.

Mrs. Horne emphasized that there was nothing compulsory about the recreation provided at the centre: "We give the opportunity but it's a mistake to fill all a person's leisure time. We are also beginning a six-week training course for volunteers and for home owner-operators in simple arts and crafts, to help them begin a diversionary program in their home. These services are provided to keep the elderly happy within the community; they must not be separated from society."

Dr. Bonham again referred to the need to keep the aged included in the community.

"It's a matter of integration over segregation," he stressed. "The elderly must be integrated with the community in all

Birthday Dinner

A dinner party was held Tuesday evening at Hy's Steak House to celebrate the 74th birthday of Miss Norma Jones, St. David Street. Host was Mr. Harry Cathcart, and other guests included Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Passmore and Mrs. W. A. Cameron.

Miss Lynne Fields Widely Feted by Friends

PARTIES HONOR SATURDAY BRIDE

Bride-elect Miss Lynne Fields, whose marriage to Robert McPherson takes place this Saturday, has been widely feted with a number of parties and presents.

Corsages of carnations were presented to Miss Fields, her mother, Mrs. R. B. Fields, and the groom-elect's mother, Mrs. J. McPherson, when Mrs. B. W. Irwin entertained in her Earl Grey Street home. Gifts were presented to the honor guest by Miss Susan Irwin.

Invited guests included Mrs. D. Bremner, Mrs. W. Hole, Mrs. D. W. McPherson, Mrs. G. Taylor, Mrs. G. Bishop, Mrs. M. Schmelz, Mrs. R. Mosher, Mrs. R. Dennison, Mrs. D. Stone, Mrs. E. D'Argis, Mrs. G. Molnar, Mrs. A. L. Irwin, and Miss Judy Chelakuk.

BASKET OF GIFTS

A decorated laundry basket contained gifts presented to the bride-elect at a shower held in the Foster Street home of Mrs. C. A. Fields when she and her daughter, Mrs. W. Stevenson, entertained. The guest of honor and her mother were presented with pink rose buds and white carnations en corsage.

Those attending were the bride-elect's grandmother, Mrs. B. A. Wilson; Mrs. J. Howell, Mrs. F. Argyle, Mrs. D. Anderson, Mrs. G. Bishop, Mrs. J. Bishop, Mrs. R. Putt, Mrs. V. Warder, Mrs. J. McPherson, Mrs. D. McPherson, Mrs. K. B. Moyes, and Miss Nancy Johnston.

A replica of a bank teller's desk, trimmed with pink roses and lily of the valley, depicting the bride-elect's position in the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, held gifts presented to Miss Fields at a shower in the Hollywood Crescent home of her aunt, Mrs. Bremner. Co-hostess was Mrs. Bremner's daughter, Mrs. W. L. Klettke of Duncan.

RECEIVE CORSAGES

Rosebud corsages were presented to Miss Fields, her mother, the groom-elect's grandmother. Four-year-old Christine Klettke presented the gifts to the honor guest.

Invited guests included Mrs. G. Fields, Mrs. Howell, Mrs. L. McMicking, Mrs. D. Ballard, Mrs. Hole, Mrs. G. Hagglund, Mrs. D. McPherson, Mrs. M. Saturely, Mrs. B. Turnbull, Mrs. H. Barber, Mrs. D. Taylor, the Misses Nancy Johnston and Judy Chelakuk.

A progressive dinner was held for the bride-elect and her fiance. Guests gathered in the F. Garrison and Miss Jane Garrison. A kitchen shower was given in the Craigdarroch Road home of her parents by Miss Nancy Johnston, assisted by her mother, Mrs. M. A. Johnston.

Carnation corsages were presented to the bride-elect, her mother and grandmother, and the groom-elect's mother. A decorated umbrella contained gifts.

Guests included Mrs. J. Howell, Mrs. W. G. Fields, Mrs. D. L. Macmurchie, Mrs. D. G. Esselmont, Mrs. G. Macnab, Mrs. W. Hogg, Mrs. C. Hays, Mrs. R. Stewart, Mrs. H. W. Barber, Mrs. I. Y. McKeachie, Mrs. W. A. Buchanan, Mrs. E. Johnston, Mrs. E. Emmott, the Misses Marjorie Howell, Valerie Hays and Mary Macmurchie.

Co-hostesses entertaining at a shower in their Kendall Avenue home were Mrs. V. A. Downard and her daughter, Anne. Corsages of carnations and heather were presented to Miss Fields, her mother, and the groom-elect's mother. A gaily-decorated umbrella concealed gifts.

Attending were co-workers of the honor guest, Mrs. F. Hanada; Mrs. S. McCoy, Mrs. P. White, Mrs. D. Young, Mrs. W. Cross, Mrs. D. Nisbet, Mrs. G. Molnar, the Misses B. Martindale, Dianne Malliot, Jean Butler, Valerie Barras, Marilyn Muirhead and Sharon Muir.

AT TEA HOUR

Mrs. W. G. Fields entertained her niece in her Glendenning Road home at the tea hour. Red rosebuds and heather en corsage were presented to Miss Fields. Little Margo and Elizabeth Fields also presented corsages of carnations to mothers of the principals and the bride-elect's grandmother.

Mrs. J. P. Howell presided at the refreshment table. Servers were Mrs. A. Beere, Mrs. Turner, the Misses Marjorie Howell and Nancy Johnston.

Invited guests included Mrs. P. Beere, Mrs. D. W. Bremner, Mrs. Hole, Mrs. D. Selby-Hele, Mrs. P. Howell, Mrs. W. Cameron, Mrs. A. Husband, Mrs. M. A. Johnston, Mrs. H. Barber, Mrs. D. P. When the saleslady held up Cameo "Little Nothing" in new Cantrecre nylon, I almost laughed. What a funny, crinkly stocking. But when I stretched it on, "Little Nothing" was suddenly made-to-measure. Not a wrinkle or sag. Just fit, fit, fit, with no let-down. (And me, the original baggy-stocking girl.) Soft matte finish. And sheer like crazy. Now I have a complete "Little Nothing" wardrobe. Plainstitch. Mesh. And a wicked nude heel. (The baggy-stocking girl is gone for good.)

Honestly, Cameo, where have you been all my life?

Calgary Cougars Eliminate Montreal

Calgary Mount Royal Junior College Cougars eliminated Montreal Ormonds from the Canadian junior men's basketball championship today at Gordon Head gym.

The Cougars defeated Montreal 77-61. Calgary meets Victoria Chinooks at Central Junior High School tonight at 8.

200 Families Homeless After Blast

MONTREAL (UPI) — Montreal's heavily-populated West End was rocked by 20 violent explosions early today which resulted in a giant fire leaving 200 families homeless.

Pajama-clad residents swarmed into the streets at 1:30 a.m., EST, and panicked trying to find their children. Miraculously there were no deaths and few serious injuries.

Fire Rips Through Manitoba Town

BELMONT, Man. (CP) — Eight buildings on this rural community's main street were destroyed by a wind-whipped fire early today.

No one was injured as flames swept through a poolroom, a hardware store, a bakery, a home, a feed barn and three sheds. It took 30 men from five volunteer brigades nine hours to control the fire.

North B.C. Gas Well Fire Doused

FORT NELSON, B.C. (CP) — A roaring, blinding gas-well fire was extinguished today after destroying millions of cubic feet of natural gas in a week-long inferno.

The fire, 30 miles northeast of here, was snuffed out by a charge of dynamite planted by Edward "Goots" Matthews, top hand of famed well-tapping Texan Red Adair.

Prohibition Demanded in India

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — A petition calling for immediate prohibition throughout India was handed to Prime Minister Mrs. Indira Gandhi today after being signed by 185 members of Parliament. Dry laws are fully enforced in three out of India's 16 states. Other states enforce prohibition in restricted areas.

No states have objected to prohibition in principle, but many feel the government should compensate them for losses of excise revenue if the dry laws are totally enforced.

REDS CHARGE:

Many Loopholes
In U.S. Draft

GENEVA (CP) — The Soviet Union today rejected as "unacceptable" an American proposal to halt the spread of nuclear weapons.

Soviet delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin served notice to the 17-nation disarmament conference that the Soviet government considers its own draft proposal the only basis for an eventual agreement.

Tsarapkin charged the American draft treaty "lacks several important obligations" and said it contains these loopholes:

— "It carries no obligation not to give to non-nuclear states... the right of participation in the ownership, disposal and use of nuclear weapons."

— "It lacks a provision that a party to the treaty, possessing nuclear weapons, should not transfer these weapons... to units of the armed forces... of states not possessing nuclear weapons."

— "There is no important provision that non-nuclear powers should refrain from receiving nuclear weapons in any form, directly or indirectly."

Hussein Khalaf, representing the non-aligned United Arab Republic, said a non-proliferation treaty should contain a separate article under which nuclear powers would assume a legal obligation to limit, reduce and eliminate existing arms stocks and their means of delivery.

Canadian delegate E. L. M. Burns agreed with the view that negotiations on some renunciation of armament by the nuclear powers might run parallel with a non-proliferation treaty. But ratification of the latter should not be tied to simultaneous results from the former, he added.

Sulking Sultan Blamed on Margaret

LONDON (AP) — The Daily Mirror says a deal to supply British arms to Saudi Arabia is in danger through what is described as a diplomatic blunder involving Princess Margaret.

The paper says Emir Sultan, the man who signed the arms deal for Saudi Arabia, had to travel economy class when the Princess and the Earl of Snowdon flew to Hong Kong Monday. The royal party took over the entire first-class compartment.

"Saudis with him were stunned and angered, when there was no invitation to the king's brother to meet the Queen's sister," The Mirror says.

Emir Sultan stepped off at Beirut, Lebanon, with no acknowledgement from the royal party.

He is a brother of King Feisal.

Britain recently contracted to supply the greater part of a new British-American air defence system for Saudi Arabia believed to cost around $300,000,000.

HOTELMAN TURNS TABLE ON UNDERCOVER MAN

Ear's Beer Puts Mounties in a Froth

EDMONTON (CP) — RCMP said today they will seek permission from Ottawa to appeal the conviction of an RCMP agent fined for his actions while doing undercover work for the force.

Moses Ear, a treaty Indian and special constable for the RCMP, was convicted in police court Tuesday of possessing liquor off a reserve. He was fined $10 or one day.

Ear was instrumental in obtaining convictions against several hotel operators in the Smoky Lake, Alta., area for selling liquor to treaty Indians.

Hotel manager John Kinash of Smoky Lake, convicted on evidence obtained by Ear on such a charge, turned the tables on police. Under the Indian Act he charged Ear with possession of liquor off a reserve.

Ear purchased beer last November in Mr. Kinash's hotel and took it to a waiting police car.

Asst. Commissioner Tony Wonnacott, commanding officer of the RCMP's K Division here, said: "I can't see how the conviction can stand."

'Greed, Avarice, Lust, Money Led to Murder'

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Melvin Lane Powers was described by the state today as "a man driven to murder by his insatiable desire for this woman, who was the mastermind and the manipulator behind the entire scheme."

Powers is on trial for his life with his aunt, Candace Mossler, in the 1964 slaying of her multi-millionaire husband, Jacques Mossler. The state says aunt and nephew were illicit lovers, Powers' behalf.

State Attorney Richard Gerstein said the slaying of Mossler was motivated by "greed, avarice, lust, money."

"They're the oldest motives known to man," Gerstein told an all-male jury as he closed the state's case against the two defendants.

The case was expected to go to a jury later today after defence chief Percy Foreman Mossler makes a final summation in and nephew were illicit lovers, Powers' behalf.

CANADA WINS WORLD
HOCKEY OPENER, 7-2

LJUBLJANA, Yugoslavia (CP) — Canada's national team got off to a flying start in the 1966 world hockey championship here tonight by trouncing the United States 7-2.

Canada led 3-1 after the first period and was ahead 4-2 after two periods.

The Canadians, flashing by far the best opening-day form of any of the eight teams in the championship group, were in command of the game from start to finish. (See also Page 18.)

IN RED SHIP

Vital Cargo
On Tap

By TERRY IZZARD

Victoria today provided Russia with a priceless weapon. Loading the Russian ship Evensk began at Ogden Point this afternoon.

Without the vital cargo, the entire Russian fishing fleet, presently at the Gulf of Alaska, would be forced to sail home.

Yet there was no secrecy surrounding the 345-foot Soviet vessel as workmen scurried around her waiting holds.

For the cargo is pure, unadulterated, chlorinated WATER.

The water is more important than all the nuclear weapons in the world to the simple, peace-loving fishermen.

Without it they would be unable to stay at sea for several months of the year during the height of the season.

The tanker Evensk meets all the drinking needs of the fleet.

During the next two or three days, some 4,000 tons of Sooke Lake water will dribble into the ship's four tanks at the rate of 50 tons an hour.

For every ton, the Russian government will owe Canadian National Railways, who are supervising loading, 25 cents.

SOVIET TANKER READY TO RECEIVE PRECIOUS CARGO

Armed Troops Force
Children to Retreat

JAKARTA (Reuters) — Troops with fixed bayonets today forced 2,000 demonstrating school children away from Indonesia's foreign ministry as they shouted demands for the resignation of Dr. Subandrio.

Carrying off the children from the foreign ministry, school children trying to enter the building were met by armed troops of the Jakarta garrison and police.

The troops drove them into a square 50 yards away, and then surrounded them with bayonets fixed and machine-guns at the ready.

The children shouted "Hang Subandrio," and "Subandrio Peking do!"

The demonstration was one of three staged today, all in defiance of a government ban.

WANT COMMUNISTS BANNED

About 250 yards from the foreign ministry, 1,500 other school children demanded the resignation of Education Minister Sumardjo and a ban on the Indonesian Communist party.

Across the street, about 1,500 children were prevented by armed troops from entering the electricity ministry building where they demanded the resignation of the minister, Setiadi.

Sumardjo, dismissed from a minor official post in the anti-Communist purge after the abortive coup against President Sukarno Oct. 1, was given a ministerial appointment in a cabinet reshuffle last week.

Meanwhile, the minister for higher learning, Johannes Leimena, today closed the University of Indonesia, scene of large-scale demonstrations by the outlawed anti-Communist Indonesian Students Action Command (KAMI).

PROTECTING PRINCESS?

Soviet Liner Ringed
By Hong Kong Police

HONG KONG (AP) — Japanese passengers flocked ashore today from the first Soviet cruise liner to visit Hong Kong, but authorities kept the Russian captain and his crew aboard.

"I suppose it is because Princess Margaret is here," the skipper said.

As a police launch circled the ship, Capt. Nikolai Ambrosov angrily told reporters: "That is a waste of time. It would be better if those men were looking after your princess."

Princess Margaret and her husband, Lord Snowdon, are on a week's visit to the colony.

The Soviet liner Uritski arrived Wednesday night for a three-day stay. Aboard were 276 Japanese tourists, a crew of 155 and Ambrosov.

Immigration Director W. E. Collard refused to tell reporters why Ambrosov and his crew were kept aboard. But a spokesman for the government information service indicated that authorities had not been notified of the liner's arrival far enough in advance to investigate and clear the Soviet personnel.

SINGAPORE (UPI) — Indonesian authorities closed down the University of Indonesia today and put the campus under military control.

Nkrumah Grabs
Another PostNamed Ruler
Of Guinea

ADDIS ABABA (UPI) — President Sekou Toure of Guinea resigned and turned his office over to Kwame Nkrumah who was ousted last week as president of Ghana, a Guinean diplomat announced today.

He said Nkrumah would be "president" of both countries.

The announcement was made by Guinea's roving ambassador Diallo Abdoulaye who walked out of a conference of foreign ministers of the Organization for African Unity (OAU) in protest against the presence there of the new revolutionary government of Ghana. Mali and Tanzania also walked out.

Nkrumah once before had tried to link his former British colony with the former French colony 350 miles away on the southern coast of the African bulge, but the plan ran into a storm of opposition and was abandoned. The plan was for eventual African unity with Nkrumah as the leader.

NO PRECEDENT

Observers knew of no precedent for Toure's reported action in which the ruler of one country gives up his rule to the deposed president of another. But he had been regarded as Nkrumah's disciple and only Wednesday staged a mass rally in the Guinea capital of Conakry to show his devotion.

Nkrumah used that opportunity to reaffirm his claim to the presidency of Ghana and his determination to crush the military uprising which deposed him last Thursday.

In his Conakry speech he pledged, "I will be in Accra before long" and blamed the revolt on the same forces which deposed leftist President Ahmed

'Crack Train
Will Run
Many Years'

OTTAWA (CP) — CPR chairman N. R. Crump told the Commons transport committee today that the railway has no present intention of getting out of the passenger business.

Although the CPR's only remaining transcontinental train, the Canadian, was losing money, it would be continued as a prestige operation for "many, many years... a great many years."

Mr. Crump was the lead-off witness as the committee opened its special hearings on CPR passenger policy.

It was the first time since the establishment of the privately-owned railway in 1881 that its executives have appeared before a committee of the Commons.

Mr. Crump said he has been deeply disturbed by the criticism in recent months of CPR passenger policy. The CPR's position had been misunderstood by critics, he said.

He and Jan D. Sinclair, senior vice-president, presented an outline of CPR passenger operations that revealed the railway lost $23,900,000 on its passenger services in 1965 compared with a loss of $26,000,000 in 1964.

EXPLAINS POLICY

Their brief repeatedly stressed that the privately-owned railway intends to continue serving the "effective demand" for rail passenger service. It defined this as "the demand for a service at prices which will meet the cost of providing that service."

In cases where revenues did not support costs, the railway had a policy of seeking to withdraw its train service.

However, the CPR expected that its remaining transcontinental train, the Canadian, will continue to operate for years to come. It would also retain intercity services from Montreal to Ottawa, Quebec City and Saint BROOKLINE, Mass. (UPI) — An armored truck carrying about $65,000 was stolen today outside a supermarket.

Police were warned to use caution trying to stop the truck, owned by Skelly's Detective Service Inc. of Fall River, since it contained carbines, pistols and ammunition.

Police said the two guards were inside the shopping centre only about two minutes when the theft took place. They were dropping off bags of small bills and change and were picking up receipts.

COMMITTEE NEEDED

Joint Library Plan Urged As Project

Central Saanich could solve its centennial project problems by joining forces with the Sidney and North Saanich centennial committee on a library project, Coun. Phillip Benn suggested Wednesday.

At present, the municipality has neither a project nor a centennial committee. The entire committee resigned several weeks ago when its proposed project, a $36,000 outdoor swimming pool, was turned down by council.

Coun. Benn said he feels sure many Central Saanich residents would wish to use the facilities of the Vancouver Island regional library at Sidney. Central Saanich contributes to Victoria library. Bookmobile service is provided.

"I'm sure they (the Sidney-North Saanich committee) could use our centennial funds," Coun. Benn added.

EARLY DATE

He also suggested Central Saanich recreation commission study the centennial project and come up with a proposal.

Coun. Benn said he will outline his two suggestions to council's own centennial committee at an early date.

Vancouver Island regional library will open a branch in Sidney at the end of this month.

It will serve the community until an $18,000 library building is completed next year. North Saanich residents will also be offered bookmobile service.

John, N.B., and the lakeshore commuter trains at Montreal. "Other passenger services are under study by the company," the brief said.

The two executives said accusations that the CPR has deliberately downgraded its passenger trains to discourage traffic are entirely without foundation.

"Trains were discontinued only after the travelling public had demonstrated an unmistakable preference for other modes of transportation," the brief stated.

LOW FARES DIDN'T HELP

Low fares had been unsuccessful in solving the problem of deficits. Although they had attracted more volume, the added revenues were insufficient to overcome the increased costs and the deficit only worsened.

"These lower fares have succeeded in diverting traffic from other media that could handle it profitably, thus undermining the financial stability of both forms of transportation."

"The experience of the company has been that people will use passenger train service when the fares are abnormally low but they cannot be attracted at fare levels that will provide for the cost of service."

This section of the brief was apparently a reply to recent criticism of CPR fare increases that in many cases put the railway's rates substantially above those charged by the publicly-owned CNR.

LABOR COSTS RISE

The railway's figures on passenger deficits showed that between 1964 and 1965 revenues dropped by $4,500,000 to $40,300,000 while expenses dropped by $6,000,000 to $46,300,000.

Increasing labor costs had offset most of the savings that had been achieved in recent years through changes in service.

Looking to the future, the CPR said it is impossible to forecast a resurgence of effective demand for passenger rail service.

The brief referred to new high-speed trains operating in Japan and under study in the United States but noted that in both cases the services are designed for heavy concentrations of population.

There was no area of Canada with the kind of population density required for such a service.

WIRE BRIEFS

Union Fines Member

MOOSE JAW (CP)—The Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union said Wednesday a member was fined $240 by the union for refusing to support a strike against British American Oil Co. here. The president of local 9-585 said the member was fined $100 for failing to support a strike, $100 for buying B-A products during the strike and $40 for union costs.

Downed Fliers Safe

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP)—Two men forced down in their Cessna 185 aircraft in remote bush country were found alive and well Wednesday after spending two nights in 30-below weather. Pilot Peter G. Wiss of Dryden, Ont., and passenger John O'Neill of Whitehorse were found 100 miles north of here at Little Salmon Lake by George Laundry, a Great Northern Airways pilot.

CAPRI Turned Down

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Martin said Wednesday the department has refused a request by the Canadian Peace Research Institute for a $35,000 grant. The external affairs minister said the government is sympathetic to the objectives of the institute, but believed such projects were best supported by private means or, if they qualified, Canada Council grants.

Protect Older Worker

TORONTO (CP)—The legislature gave second reading Wednesday to a bill that would make it illegal for employers to discriminate against older workers because of their age. The bill will confer new statutory powers on the Ontario Human Rights Commission to act against discriminatory treatment in connection with hiring, treatment and discharging of persons between the ages of 40 and 65.

SOLE SOURCE

The sole source for the report of Toure's resignation and the ascendancy of Nkrumah came from Abdoulaye. He told newsmen "President Toure has done this not for the sake of Nkrumah personally but for the sake of the people of Ghana."

"Nkrumah can now be described as the president of Ghana and Guinea," Abdoulaye said.

Guinea until 1958 was the territory of French Guinea in French West Africa, separated from Ghana by the Ivory Coast. Ghana has a population of 7.3 million, Guinea, 3.3 million.

Guinea was one of the richest French colonies with huge exports of aluminum, diamonds, iron ore and fruit but with independence it plunged into one economic crisis after another.

African experts said if Toure's reported decision to hand over the Guinea presidency to Nkrumah is based on the so-called union between the two countries it would be just a grandiose gesture, with no constitutional authority.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

It was clear and cold throughout most of B.C. this morning. Temperatures ranged from nine below at Prince George to two above at Kimberley and to the high 20s along the south coast.

A weather system approaching the Charlottes will bring a mixture of rain and snow to the north coast and it will spread to Vancouver Island by Friday morning. Elsewhere, it was mostly sunny today. Gales will develop along the north coast.

Rain and snow will continue in coastal areas on Friday with snow spreading to the northern interior. Other regions will be mainly cloudy.

Pearkes, Amory To Take Part In Ceremony

Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes and Viscount Amory, governor of the Hudson's Bay Company, will fly to New Westminster Saturday, March 12, to take part in ceremonies marking the 1966 British Columbia Centenary.

They will take off from Government House in a helicopter provided by Okanagan Helicopters Ltd., and an hour later will be greeted at New Westminster by Mayor J. S. Gifford.

After the ceremonies they will fly back to Victoria, arriving at Government House at 4:15 p.m.

The night before he leaves for New Westminster, Lord Amory will be guest of honor at a centennial dinner in the Empress Hotel.

His itinerary in British Columbia is as follows:

March 10-8:45 p.m., arrive in Vancouver via Air Canada.

March 11-11:15 a.m., visit Vancouver city hall; 12 noon attend luncheon at Vancouver Club; 3:15, leave for Victoria by government plane; 3:45 p.m., arrive Patricia Bay Airport; 4:15 p.m., arrive Government House; 6:50 p.m., leave Government House for Inaugural Centennial dinner at Empress Hotel.

March 12-11 a.m., leave Government House by helicopter for New Westminster; 2:30 p.m., attend Centennial ceremonies; 3:15 p.m., return to Victoria, arriving at 4:15 p.m.; 7 p.m., private dinner at Government House.

March 13-10 a.m., Lord Amory leaves Government House for Patricia Bay Airport, departing for Winnipeg at 10:50 a.m.

Pat Bay Route

To Get Nine

Overhead Lights

Overhead lights will be installed at nine Patricia Bay highway intersections, soon under a program approved by Central Saanich council.

The plan also calls for installation of lights at 10 "internal" intersections in the municipality this year.

Finance committee will study the second part of the plan prepared by B.C. Hydro to determine if it is feasible to include phase two of the plan this year instead of in 1967.

On the highway, lights will be placed at the following intersections: Keating and Mount Newton Cross Roads, East Saanich Road, James Island Road, Tanner Road, Gliddon Road, Island View Road, Martindale Road and the new road into East Saanich Reserve.

Department of highways is sharing cost of the highway lights.

QUEBEC (CP)—Quebec's 25,000 civil servants will strike March 25 unless their first collective agreement with the government is signed by that date, a spokesman for the Quebec Civil Servants' Union, said Wednesday night.

SPILLING LOGS

Cautious Driver Nearly Crushed

A motorist who stopped to let a logging truck pass him was nearly crushed by falling logs in Sooke Wednesday.

James Moore, 3243 Henderson, was at the intersection of Sooke River Rd. and Sooke Rd. when he pulled to the side to make room for the huge truck.

But as the truck made the sharp turn, its connection between the cab and trailer snapped, spilling logs on the road.

Two of them flattened the rear of Mr. Moore's car and damaged it about $1,000.

No one was hurt. Driver of the truck was Ronald D. Blundell of Duncan.

FOUR INJURED

Four other persons escaped injury in the Sooke area Wednesday when a car driven by Frank Wilson, of Sooke went off Phillips Rd.

The auto hit a soft shoulder, police said, and rolled down a 50-foot embankment.

Passengers, Mr. Wilson's two- and four-year-old children and Raymond Warburton, also of Sooke, were unscathed.

A spectacular two-car collision at Bay and Shelbourne sent two drivers to Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Hilda Becker, 1023 Esquimalt Rd., is reported in satisfactory condition with head and chest injuries.

She was driving south on Shelbourne when in collision with an auto driven west on Bay by Steve Yarmie, 27, of 3315 Keates, police said.

The woman lost control of her vehicle after the impact and took out 40 feet of fencing on the property of Donald Grimes, 2345 Howard St.

Mr. Yarmie was treated for head and face cuts after he struck the windshield of his vehicle. Both autos sustained substantial damage.

Ship Master Criticized By Board

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A U.S. coast guard board of inquiry declared today that the master of the Yarmouth, Castle and some of his officers failed to take "firm and positive action" in battling the fire that sank the ship with a loss of 96 lives.

The board also criticized the master, Greek-born Capt. Byron Voutsinas, for leaving the ship, accusing him of negligence and "abandonment of command responsibility."

The 38-year-old vessel, flying the flag of Panama, registry, sank off the coast of Nassau on Nov. 13, 1965. It had departed from Miami for a cruise of Caribbean ports.

The board also criticized the master, Greek-born Capt. Byron Voutsinas, for leaving the ship, accusing him of negligence and "abandonment of command responsibility."
